U.N. Offensive Collapses As Chinese Reds Attack

Storm Knocks Out La Guardia Field

Wind-lashed rain and the waters of Flushing Bay caused this scene of havoc at New York's La Guardia Field. In foreground gasoline trucks are awash. In background a hugh trans-Atlantic passenger plane has water coming up to its engine nacelles. The storm knocked out traffic at which is normally one of the world's busiest airfields.

U. S. 24th Retreats From Chongju Second Time in Month

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (AP)—Complete collapse of the United Nations end-the-war offensive was threatened today by heavy new Chinese attacks on the frozen northwest Korean front.

The U. S. 24th Division, its right flank imperilled by infiltrating Red forces, pulled back from Chongju near the west coast.

It was the second time this month that the battle-hardened Americans were forced to give up without a fight the rail and highway city 51 miles south of the Manchurian border.

All along the northwest front, allied forces were shoved back by elements of two Chinese Red armies—more than 100,000 men. Swarms of Chinese attacked in predawn darkness to the blare of bugles.

A spokesman described the situation as "quite confused."

Field dispatches said the eastern anchor of the line, Tokchon, had fallen to the Reds.

In the northeast, a surprise tank-led Red attack forced back South Koreans advancing north of Chongjin, some 55 miles south of the Soviet Siberian border.

Resistance Stiffens

Stiffening Red resistance was reported elsewhere in the northeast. U. S. Marines, pushing westward in a drive from Changjin reservoir, were halted by dug-in Chinese four miles west of Yudam.

On the northwest front, the 24th Division's withdrawal from Chongju was forced by Chinese slipping through the Republic of Korea (ROK) First Division lines southwest of Taechon. The 24th Division itself was not under attack.

On the ROK First Division's right flank, the U. S. 25th and Second Divisions battled the Chinese fiercely throughout Monday.

A U. S. First Corps spokesman said the 25th was hit hard in the major area, six miles northeast of Yongbyon. He said the situation there was critical.

A.P. Correspondent Don Whitehead, with the U.S. 25th Division, sized up the situation this way:

"The big United Nations offensive to bring an early end to the Korean War was threatened with complete collapse today. This was the stark reality of the situation after 48 hours of savage fighting.

"Chinese and North Korean Red troops have dealt a stunning

Reports Say Damage Is 100 Millions

Wind Hits 108-Mile an Hour Speed; Boat Owners Suffer Big Losses

Pittsburgh Bogged

Heavy Snow Ties Up Steel City, Fall Is Continuing

(By The Associated Press)

The storm which mauled the whole northeastern section of the nation with record fury over the week-end had vanished today but grief, human misery and industrial paralysis lingered on.

At least 226 death were blamed on the devastating winds along the Atlantic seaboard and the heavy snow which fell as far south as Mississippi and Alabama. Damage in New England alone was estimated at $100,000,000 with threatened floods expected to add to the cost. Most of western Pennsylvania and northern Ohio still were digging out of snow which brought business to a virtual halt in such cities as Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus, Akron, Youngstown, and Dayton.

The wind which hammered parts of the Atlantic coast with a force of as much as 108 miles an hour at times was described by the weather bureau as the worst ever to hit that region. It left many areas still without heat or lighting. Losses to boat owners were the heaviest since the 1938 hurricane.

Torrential Rains

The blow was accompanied by torrential rains which had sent some New England streams out of their banks. Some others were threatening to overflow. New York City, however, harvested a 25-day water supply. The city reservoir trapped 25-billion gallons, building up a needed reserve supply.

Resumption of normal business in the snow-bound sections of Pennsylvania and Ohio still was not in sight today.

Transportation facilities were too crippled to carry sufficient workers to their jobs. Many schools, including Penn State College, Bucknell, Juniata, Pittsburgh University, Duquesne University and Carnegie Tech in Pennsylvania all were closed for the day at least.

All public and parochial schools remained closed in Pittsburgh where the snowfall measured a record 27 inches. Mayor David Lawrence declared a state of emergency in the city and appealed to all but essential workers to stay off their jobs and help clear the city's side streets. U. S. Steel Corporation, Western Electric Corporation and the H. J. Heinz Company told their thousands of employes to stay home.

Service Snowbound

All bus service in the city was snowbound and only partial trolley service had been resumed today.

With more snow forecast for today, Gov. James H. Duff declared an emergency in 17 western counties and declared today and tomorrow legal holidays there so that the banks could remain closed.

The shutdown in Ohio was more widespread. There, too, banks and schools remained

Storm-at-Glance

(By The Associated Press)

PENNSYLVANIA: Damage certain to run into the millions of dollars; 23 persons known dead as a direct result of the storm; power and transportation facilities still badly crippled or non-existent; Pittsburgh still paralyzed under 27 inches of snow; schools, businesses and industries, including U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric Co., and the H. J. Heinz Company, shut down; Mayor David L. Lawrence declared an emergency in Pittsburgh, and Gov. James H. Duff declared an emergency holiday in 17 western counties so banks could remain closed legally.

OHIO: Schools and many businesses and industries closed in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Akron, Youngstown and Dayton; highways blocked by snowdrifts 23 feet deep in places, city transportation stalled or barely operating; twenty-thousand cars abandoned on highways; forty-seven known dead as a result of the storm; snowfall in Cleveland more than 20 inches; damage in the millions of dollars.

EASTERN STATES: Death toll 76; damage estimated at $100,000,000 in the New England States alone; some power and communications services restored but thousands still without heat or electric power; some streams in New England out of their banks and others threatening to go out; most damage to power and communication lines, but some bridges washed out, beach houses smashed, small boats damaged or destroyed.

Railroad Tracks, Homes Damaged, Several Families Evacuated in Township

Utilities Suffer

Area South of Kingston Suffers Loss of Power, Telephones

Esopus Creek went on a rampage when two dams gave way at the height of the storm Saturday night. Bridges were swept away, railroad tracks and roads were washed out, homes were damaged and several families had to be evacuated.

Damage of all kinds in the Shandaken township alone has been estimated at well over one million dollars.

No loss of life or serious injury has been reported, although with some sections still cut off and with the possibility of hunters stranded in mountain areas there is still concern for safety of some residents.

Pine Hill Hit Hard

The village of Pine Hill was hit hard by flood waters, with two stone arch bridges completely gone and three others impassable. The Big Indian-Oliverea valley was still isolated at an early hour this morning.

Elsewhere in the county, the storm that hit the entire northeastern area left trees down, signs and television aerials bent and broken, and caused other damage.

The Rondout Creek flowing into the Hudson at Kingston caused extensive damage along its banks, flooding the Strand street section of the city as well as the Island Dock Lumber Company and Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company.

Crews Are Loaned

Telephone service in the Kingston area suffered far less than in the section south of Kingston where today many phones were still out and telephone crews were struggling to restore service. Crews from the Kingston district were loaned to other areas to assist in this work.

In the Kingston area the interruption of telephone service was confined to isolated cases where trees or limbs broke lines and at no time during the storm period were more than 400 phones out. This number had been reduced to less than 200 today and by nightfall it was expected most of these would be back in service with the possible exception of the Pine Hill area where damaged roads and bridges prevented crews from getting in.

Long lines which operate through cables were not disrupted. Service even to Pine Hill and Fleischmanns was reported normal over long distance lines throughout the storm period. Recently this locality was serviced by a new cable which continued to function. It was local lines in the area which suffered interruptions.

Dunn Reports Ravaged Area's Folk Go Home

State Trooper Pays Tribute to Phoenicia Firemen for Aid in Flood

Trooper Ray Dunn at Phoenicia this morning reported residents of the upper Esopus creek valley were busy drying out and removing debris following the highwater in the Esopus creek Saturday night when the dam at Funcrest Hotel in Pine Hill gave way flooding the Esopus valley from Pine Hill to Phoenicia.

Fortunately there was no loss of life but the damage to property will run high.

Raymond Kirk and his family who resided near the Phoenicia station spent the night in the Phoenicia station after their home had been inundated.

The water in the Esopus began to recede about 1 a. m. Sunday morning when the rain ceased and the flood waters from the Pine Hill pond began to spread out over flat lands and gradually find its way down to the Ashokan reservoir.

Phoenicia Firemen Help

Trooper Dunn gave great credit to the members of the Phoenicia fire department who stood by and aided in evacuating families from the flooded areas. The firemen worked from Valley Farms west of Phoenicia through Phoenicia and assisted in evacuating eight families. They stood by during the height of the flood to send rescue men through deep water to aid stranded families. During the height of the flood the firemen stood by at the Phoenicia station to assist persons in the flood area but when water began to flood the Phoenicia bridge the firemen withdrew their truck to the village side of the bridge to prevent its being cut off from the main portion of the village.

During the height of the flood the Phoenicia bridge leading from the village to the railroad station was flooded as was the Woodland Valley bridge where a large tree lodged against the bridge structure and caused the water to back up and inundate a large area.

Was at Flood Stage

The Chichester stream which flows through the village was just at flood stage and ready to go over the banks and flow down through the village streets of Phoenicia when the rain fortunately ceased and the stream began to fall almost immediately. Had this stream gone over its banks the damage in Phoenicia would have been vastly greater, Trooper Dunn said.

John Youngs and his family who reside along the Esopus creek were seated in their kitchen when they were startled by a heavy crashing noise and logs and debris began to pour into the house, borne by a wall of water. They fortunately were able to escape uninjured. Logs and debris began to pour through windows of the house.

Electric power was cut off by the flood and the area was without power for light or heat where oil burners were in use.

Highway Was Covered

At Boiceville the flood waters covered Route 28 at the Bert Winne garage. Also at Mt. Tremper the George Reeves property near "Rock Cut" was flooded and water backed up over Route 28 at the George Byron property. Below Phoenicia at the Smith property the highway was also flooded.

New York's Ashokan reservoir benefited by the flood. Some 25 million gallons of water poured

Johnson Proposes Bipartisan Group On Foreign Policy

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed today the creation of a continuous bipartisan advisory commission to help President Truman shape the nation's foreign policy.

Such a commission should be unaffected by national elections, Johnson said "so that we would have a permanent foreign policy and other nations would know where we stand at all times."

Johnson's proposal came as Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.) announced his support of a demand by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for a re-examination of the American role in international affairs. It came, too, amid indications that much time of the short Congress session starting today will be occupied in foreign policy debate.

Taft, scheduled to arrive in Washington during the day, said he will renew his re-examination demand despite editorial criticism

Kingston Man Is Hurt in Accident

Three Other Persons Die From Injuries on Taconic Highway

Putnam Valley, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Two girls and a man died today in an automobile collision on the Taconic Parkway.

The dead were Miss Margaret Elizabeth Kennedy, 18, of Millbrook, N. Y.; Miss Kathleen McDermott, 19, of 151 West 231st street, New York city, and Miss Kennedy's brother, Joseph Martin Kennedy, 20, of Millbrook.

Police said Kennedy was the driver of the car carrying the two girls. The other car, they said was operated by John J. Mahoney, 23, of 223 Hurley avenue, Kingston, N. Y.

The girls died at the scene of the accident. Kennedy, who suffered a fractured skull, died at Peekskill Hospital. Police said Kennedy was an advertising man employed by Dancer, Fitzgerald and Sample, 247 Park avenue, New York city.

Mahoney, also taken to Peekskill Hospital, suffered internal injuries and fractured ribs. His condition was described as serious.

Congress Assembles; Statehood Is Asked

Legislators Expect Little to Come From Recall Session

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Congress reconvened today for a short "Lame Duck" session and got a prod from President Truman to extend rent controls and vote statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

But most of the legislators, in talking with newsmen, said frankly they did not expect much to be accomplished in the few weeks remaining before the new Congress elected Nov. 7 takes over on Jan. 3.

Republicans, who will have increased strength in the new Congress, obviously were in a mood to put off everything except emergency legislation until the 82nd Congress meets.

Mr. Truman sent a letter to the Capitol asking a 90-day extension of the rent control program which will expire Dec. 31 in most cities. He plugged for statehood for Alaska and Hawaii at a conference with Democratic Congressional leaders.

First Order

In line with Mr. Truman's wishes, the leaders made statehood for Alaska the first order of business for the Senate.

At the same time, however, an agreement was reached to lay that measure aside temporarily whenever there are appropriations or other emergency matters to handle. If the Alaska measure goes through, statehood for Hawaii will be next on the docket.

The schedule was outlined to reporters by Senate Democratic leader Lucas (Ill.) after the White House huddle of the party's legislative leaders just ahead of the opening gavel.

O'Mahoney to Offer Bill

Lucas said Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) would move to take up the Alaska measure at 2 p. m. (EST). But he would not forecast the chances for passage. There has been talk of a filibuster by southerners. The motion to take up the bill is subject to debate.

"I can't tell you the prospects for passage," Lucas said. "There was considerable opposition when we left and I assume there is still opposition in the Senate."

Both statehood bills passed the House earlier this year.

The scheduled plans came under fire almost as soon as they were announced. Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.), the Republican leader, told newsmen his party will not go along.

The Nebraskan said he thinks the lame duck session should devote its major efforts to passing

Boy's Body Found By Park Employes

Flushing Youth Missing in Bear Mountain Since Saturday

Bear Mountain, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—The body of Emanuel Hittleman, 17, missing since he was last seen in a mountain shelter in Bear Mountain Park Saturday night, was found today.

Park police said that Hittleman apparently died of exposure and exhaustion.

A preliminary examination indicated he had been dead only a few hours when found.

Workmen discovered the body five miles from the shelter on the new Palisades Interstate Parkway, south of the Queensboro traffic circle. The Parkway, now under construction, has not yet been opened to traffic.

Police believed the boy, a high-ranking Boy Scout experienced in woodcraft, came down the Appalachian Trail from the rock shelter on Letterrock Mountain, and took a wrong turn at an intersec-

Will Retain Broad Authority in West

Basic Control of Allied Powers in Germany to Remain Intact

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—An Allied source said today the Western Allies will retain broad authority over West German affairs—including foreign relations—under the revised occupation statute to be published soon.

The new document defining the powers of the occupation forces will be published as soon as the West German Government agreed to share materials for war purposes and to take over the debts of Hitler's defunct reich. It has been revised according to decisions made by the three Western foreign ministers last September in New York.

The Allied source said the basic authority of the occupation powers will remain intact. The three-nation Allied high commission will still be the supreme authority over the federal government.

Although the Western powers now are pressing the Germans to contribute military forces to aid in Western defense, West Ger-

Corsi Proposes Boost in Benefit Of State Insurance

Would Approximate 90 Per Cent of Average Pay in Industry for Idle

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi today recommended an increase in the $26-a-week maximum unemployment insurance benefit.

Corsi said the unemployment insurance pool was "entirely able to absorb the added costs" to raise benefits "to more nearly appproximate 90 per cent of the average weekly earnings in industry."

He mentioned no new maximum figure but said the average weekly earnings for all industry were about $61.

A statement by Corsi on the subject was submitted to the joint legislative committee on unemployment insurance.

It was read by Thomas F. Moore, Jr., first deputy industrial

Socialists Score Big Gains During Bavarian Elections

Munich, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—West Germany's Socialists—bitter opponents of Germany rearmment for western defense—scored big gains today in Bavarian state elections.

With returns still incomplete, the Socialists were running a strong second to the pro-rearmament Christian Democrats in the balloting yesterday for members of the State Parliament.

The surprising Socialist showing in this traditionally conservative state was certain to be interpreted as a third protest vote within a week by German voters against rearmament.

Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden rolled up Socialist victories on Nov. 19 in elections widely regarded as a slap at the Christian Democrats, who control the federal government, for their support of German rearmament.

Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the Christian Democrats' leader, already has agreed to take West Germany into the projected western defense system. He must obtain approval from the Federal Parliament, however.

Bavaria has been a Christian Democratic stronghold since 1946. In the election that year, the party received more than 50 per cent of all votes.

This year the Socialists challenged the Christian Democrats in Bavaria solely on the rearmament issue. They argued that the Germans should refuse to take up arms again until they have full independence and enough allied troops in Germany to repel any Soviet attack.

The Christian Democrats countered that the danger of Soviet aggression was imminent and therefore Germany should not delay in agreeing to rearm.

At 9:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m., E.S.T.) the still incomplete returns showed this vote:

Christian Democrats, 1,861,455 (29.1 per cent of the total).

Socialists, 1,647,537 (25.8).

Bavarian Party (pro-rearmament), 1,193,899 (18.6).

Refugees (anti-rearmament), 896,584 (14).

Free Democrats (pro-rearmament), 418,819 (6.6).

Communists (anti-rearmament), 93,083 (1.5).

Seven splinter parties had polled about two per cent of the votes.

It was estimated that some 4,000,000 persons voted, a heavy turnout. Each voter, however, cast two ballots—for both county and district representatives in Parliament. That indicated that about three-fourths of the ballots had been counted.

The three pro-armament parties held a combined total of almost 700,000 votes more than the vote for the four anti-rearmament groups. But the sharp upsurge of Socialist strength in this Catholic conservative state was of great political significance, indicating public resentment against the Christian Democrats' rearmament policies.

Three Persons Are Injured In Two-Train Crash in South

Screven, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP)—A troop train smashed into a freight train at a small town depot today and both burst into flames. Three persons were injured, but no one was reported killed.

The troop train, carrying about 200 soldiers, was en route from Savanah, Ga., about 75 miles northeast of here, to Camp Rucker, Ala.

C. W. Collins, a resident of Screven, said he heard the crash and was at the scene in a few minutes.

"The freight train was parked at the depot," he said. "The troop train was coming from Savannah. The trainmen told me they saw the freight, and tried to stop.

"But the brakes wouldn't hold. The trainmen jumped and the train crashed into the freight."

Burning oil from the Diesel engines spewed over the depot and cars of both the troop train and the freight. The depot and several cars of both trains were destroyed.

Army authorities at the scene said all the soldiers were accounted for. Several had bruises and minor cuts, but none was reported seriously hurt.

Most seriously injured was a trainman whose name was not immediately learned. He suffered broken bones when he leaped from the train.

Ambulances and fire trucks rushed here from Waycross, Ga., about 30 miles away, from Jesup, about 15, and from Savannah.

At Boiceville the flood waters covered Route 28 at the Bert Winne garage. Also at Mt. Tremper the George Reeves property near "Rock Cut" was flooded and water backed up over Route 28 at the George Byron property. Below Phoenicia at the Smith property the highway was also flooded.

New York's Ashokan reservoir benefited by the flood. Some 25 million gallons of water poured

Three Other Persons Die From Injuries on Taconic Highway

Putnam Valley, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Two girls and a man died today in an automobile collision on the Taconic Parkway.

The dead were Miss Margaret Elizabeth Kennedy, 18, of Millbrook, N. Y.; Miss Kathleen McDermott, 19, of 151 West 231st street, New York city, and Miss Kennedy's brother, Joseph Martin Kennedy, 20, of Millbrook.

Police said Kennedy was the driver of the car carrying the two girls. The other car, they said was operated by John J. Mahoney, 23, of 223 Hurley avenue, Kingston, N. Y.

The girls died at the scene of the accident. Kennedy, who suffered a fractured skull, died at Peekskill Hospital. Police said Kennedy was an advertising man employed by Dancer, Fitzgerald and Sample, 247 Park avenue, New York city.

Mahoney, also taken to Peekskill Hospital, suffered internal injuries and fractured ribs. His condition was described as serious.

Congress Assembles; Statehood Is Asked

Legislators Expect Little to Come From Recall Session

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Congress reconvened today for a short "Lame Duck" session and got a prod from President Truman to extend rent controls and vote statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

But most of the legislators, in talking with newsmen, said frankly they did not expect much to be accomplished in the few weeks remaining before the new Congress elected Nov. 7 takes over on Jan. 3.

Republicans, who will have increased strength in the new Congress, obviously were in a mood to put off everything except emergency legislation until the 82nd Congress meets.

Mr. Truman sent a letter to the Capitol asking a 90-day extension of the rent control program which will expire Dec. 31 in most cities. He plugged for statehood for Alaska and Hawaii at a conference with Democratic Congressional leaders.

First Order

In line with Mr. Truman's wishes, the leaders made statehood for Alaska the first order of business for the Senate.

At the same time, however, an agreement was reached to lay that measure aside temporarily whenever there are appropriations or other emergency matters to handle. If the Alaska measure goes through, statehood for Hawaii will be next on the docket.

The schedule was outlined to reporters by Senate Democratic leader Lucas (Ill.) after the White House huddle of the party's legislative leaders just ahead of the opening gavel.

O'Mahoney to Offer Bill

Lucas said Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) would move to take up the Alaska measure at 2 p. m. (EST). But he would not forecast the chances for passage. There has been talk of a filibuster by southerners. The motion to take up the bill is subject to debate.

"I can't tell you the prospects for passage," Lucas said. "There was considerable opposition when we left and I assume there is still opposition in the Senate."

Both statehood bills passed the House earlier this year.

The scheduled plans came under fire almost as soon as they were announced. Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.), the Republican leader, told newsmen his party will not go along.

The Nebraskan said he thinks the lame duck session should devote its major efforts to passing

Flushing Youth Missing in Bear Mountain Since Saturday

Bear Mountain, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—The body of Emanuel Hittleman, 17, missing since he was last seen in a mountain shelter in Bear Mountain Park Saturday night, was found today.

Park police said that Hittleman apparently died of exposure and exhaustion.

A preliminary examination indicated he had been dead only a few hours when found.

Workmen discovered the body five miles from the shelter on the new Palisades Interstate Parkway, south of the Queensboro traffic circle. The Parkway, now under construction, has not yet been opened to traffic.

Police believed the boy, a high-ranking Boy Scout experienced in woodcraft, came down the Appalachian Trail from the rock shelter on Letterrock Mountain, and took a wrong turn at an intersec-

Will Retain Broad Authority in West

Basic Control of Allied Powers in Germany to Remain Intact

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—An Allied source said today the Western Allies will retain broad authority over West German affairs—including foreign relations—under the revised occupation statute to be published soon.

The new document defining the powers of the occupation forces will be published as soon as the West German Government agreed to share materials for war purposes and to take over the debts of Hitler's defunct reich. It has been revised according to decisions made by the three Western foreign ministers last September in New York.

The Allied source said the basic authority of the occupation powers will remain intact. The three-nation Allied high commission will still be the supreme authority over the federal government.

Although the Western powers now are pressing the Germans to contribute military forces to aid in Western defense, West Ger-

Would Approximate 90 Per Cent of Average Pay in Industry for Idle

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi today recommended an increase in the $26-a-week maximum unemployment insurance benefit.

Corsi said the unemployment insurance pool was "entirely able to absorb the added costs" to raise benefits "to more nearly appproximate 90 per cent of the average weekly earnings in industry."

He mentioned no new maximum figure but said the average weekly earnings for all industry were about $61.

A statement by Corsi on the subject was submitted to the joint legislative committee on unemployment insurance.

Socialists Score Big Gains During Bavarian Elections

Munich, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—West Germany's Socialists—bitter opponents of Germany rearmament for western defense—scored big gains today in Bavarian state elections.

With returns still incomplete, the Socialists were running a strong second to the pro-rearmament Christian Democrats in the balloting yesterday for members of the State Parliament.

The surprising Socialist showing in this traditionally conservative state was certain to be interpreted as a third protest vote within a week by German voters against rearmament.

Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden rolled up Socialist victories on Nov. 19 in elections widely regarded as a slap at the Christian Democrats, who control the federal government, for their support of German rearmament.

Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the Christian Democrats' leader, already has agreed to take West Germany into the projected western defense system. He must obtain approval from the Federal Parliament, however.

Bavaria has been a Christian Democratic stronghold since 1946. In the election that year, the party received more than 50 per cent of all votes.

This year the Socialists challenged the Christian Democrats in Bavaria solely on the rearmament issue. They argued that the Germans should refuse to take up arms again until they have full independence and enough allied troops in Germany to repel any Soviet attack.

The Christian Democrats countered that the danger of Soviet aggression was imminent and therefore Germany should not delay in agreeing to rearm.

At 9:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m., E.S.T.) the still incomplete returns showed this vote:

Christian Democrats, 1,861,455 (29.1 per cent of the total).

Socialists, 1,647,537 (25.8).

Bavarian Party (pro-rearmament), 1,193,899 (18.6).

Refugees (anti-rearmament), 896,584 (14).

Free Democrats (pro-rearmament), 418,819 (6.6).

Economic Reconstruction Party (anti-rearmament), 138,730 (2.2).

Communists (anti-rearmament), 93,083 (1.5).

Seven splinter parties had polled about two per cent of the votes.

It was estimated that some 4,000,000 persons voted, a heavy turnout. Each voter, however, cast two ballots—for both county and district representatives in Parliament. That indicated that about three-fourths of the ballots had been counted.

The three pro-armament parties held a combined total of almost 700,000 votes more than the vote for the four anti-rearmament groups. But the sharp upsurge of Socialist strength in this Catholic conservative state was of great political significance, indicating public resentment against the Christian Democrats' rearmament policies.

Johnson Proposes Bipartisan Group On Foreign Policy

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed today the creation of a continuous bipartisan advisory commission to help President Truman shape the nation's foreign policy.

Such a commission should be unaffected by national elections, Johnson said "so that we would have a permanent foreign policy and other nations would know where we stand at all times."

Johnson's proposal came as Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.) announced his support of a demand by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) for a re-examination of the American role in international affairs. It came, too, amid indications that much time of the short Congress session starting today will be occupied in foreign policy debate.

Taft, scheduled to arrive in Washington during the day, said he will renew his re-examination demand despite editorial criticism

Three Persons Are Injured In Two-Train Crash in South

Screven, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP)—A troop train smashed into a freight train at a small town depot today and both burst into flames. Three persons were injured, but no one was reported killed.

The troop train, carrying about 200 soldiers, was en route from Savanah, Ga., about 75 miles northeast of here, to Camp Rucker, Ala.

C. W. Collins, a resident of Screven, said he heard the crash and was at the scene in a few minutes.

"The freight train was parked at the depot," he said. "The troop train was coming from Savannah. The trainmen told me they saw the freight, and tried to stop.

"But the brakes wouldn't hold. The trainmen jumped and the train crashed into the freight."

Burning oil from the Diesel engines spewed over the depot and cars of both the troop train and the freight. The depot and several cars of both trains were destroyed.

Army authorities at the scene said all the soldiers were accounted for. Several had bruises and minor cuts, but none was reported seriously hurt.

Most seriously injured was a trainman whose name was not immediately learned. He suffered broken bones when he leaped from the train.

John Mazzuca Is Victim of Attack While Hunting

John Mazzuca, about 55, of 464 Delaware avenue, died of a heart attack Sunday while hunting in the wooded area near Lake Katrine, Coroner Michael A. Galietta reported.

Mazzuca left his home about 9 a. m. Sunday. His body was discovered about 4:15 p. m. the same day after his sons, Alfred and Joseph, had started a search for their father. State police at Lake Katrine were notified and Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly with Troopers H. E. Rasmussen and Royael assisted in the search.

According to the coroner, Mazzuca had been suffering from a heart condition and his sons began the search after they became worried when he did not return home by 3 o'clock. A verdict of death by natural causes, coronary thrombosis, was issued.

Surviving are his wife, Maria Mazzuca, nee Lepore; sons Alfred, Michael, Joseph and John Mazzuca; daughters Rose and Marie Mazzuca and Mrs. Charles Hoehing, all of Kingston, and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Thursday, November 30, from the M. A. Galietta Funeral Home, 650 Delaware avenue, at 9:15 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL L. O'CONNOR

MONDAY MORNING

The week-end hours of joy are gone
And now with Monday's rising sun
We face another busy dawn
And plan our duties... one by one.

Perhaps the coffee helps a bit
To start a bluish sort of day
But where is all the Sunday wit
When everyone was bright and gay.
We may have gone by motor car
To visit friends, or just to ride
And though we didn't travel far
We laughed and set our cares aside.

A week-end gives the mind a rest
No matter what we choose to do
And though we're filled with Sunday zest
We still find Monday morning blue.
When Tuesday comes, we start to scheme
The week-end fun that lies in store...
Our blues are just a silly dream

UN Denunciation of Soviet Russia Is Still Missing Despite Casualties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 27 — Five months have elapsed since Soviet Russia instigated the aggression by the North Korean armies and during that time casualties of more than 30,000 killed and wounded have been suffered by the United States—yet not a single word of formal denunciation of Soviet Russia has appeared in any resolution of the United Nations.

Today the United States has borne nearly all of the burden both in lives and in money while the United Nations has offered only token support.

Today as the American troops are locked in battle against the armies of Communist China, not a single nation—large or small—in the U.N. is making any substantial effort to replace with adequate manpower those who have borne the brunt of the fighting during the last several months.

Today the U.N. is still debating, still kowtowing to the Chinese and Russian Communists, and still letting Russia retain the initiative. The movement to appease the Reds is being led by Great Britain whose government is not averse to accepting billions of dollars of aid from the United States yet nevertheless stands in the way of an early and effective action to halt aggression in the Far East.

The British are proposing appeasement. The argument offered apparently is that unless the Chinese Reds are given certain concessions there will be "war"—as if what is happening in Korea today isn't war. There are 125,000 Chinese Communist troops in North Korea right now. Maybe this isn't war for Great Britain and the other nations which have failed to do their share in furnishing manpower but it is war sure enough for the American Army, Navy and Air Force. It is war for the 4,500 Americans who have been killed and for the 4,300 recorded as "missing" who probably have been massacred by the Communist forces of either China or North Korea. It is war for the 21,000 or more wounded now in the hospitals. It is war for the families, too.

The U.N. was established not only to investigate and condemn aggression but to carry defensive war, if necessary, to the aggressor states.

Yet the U.N. has never investigated the source of all the trouble—Russia's part in the North Korean aggression. Nor has the U.N. formally condemned the Chinese Communists for their part in attacking the United Nations forces recently in Korea.

Instead "appeasement" talk is predominant and if "appeasement" doesn't work out and the Reds, conscious of the weakness of the U.N., should renew their attacks—they have never stopped their insulting statements from Peiping—then the United States is expected to resume the main job of enforcing the peace. Are token forces always to be the rule on the part of other U.N. members? American forces would like to be home for Christmas. Are there no other U.N. troops ready to take their places in Korea?

The MacArthur formula in the Far East, as evidenced by his utterances in the past, recommends talking firmly and acting firmly. Nothing contributes as much toward peace in Asia in the opinion of the general, than to take a strong position. The U.N.'s backing and filling only serves to encourage the Communists of China, and of Russia.

The main bugaboo—war with China—need never become a large-scale affair. If the Chinese Communists do not show peaceful intention — which means withdrawal of their forces from North Korea as well as from a point at least 50 miles beyond the Manchurian border—then American naval air and U. S. air force retaliatory bombardment of Manchurian bases becomes logical coupled with active aid to the Chinese Nationalists who, with proper support, can carry on the fighting inside China without landing any American troops. Maybe high officials will in due time point out that the U.N. will not hesitate to aid Chiang or to support a countermovement inside China. This should not be the task of America alone but should be a U.N. program. For, unless the U.N. learns how to show its military teeth, its soft words of wrath embodied in resolutions will be meaningless and a really large-scale war will hardly be avoided.

If ever there was a time for the U.N. to show that it is a truly international organization and not one that merely asks America to make all the sacrifices, it is now—when American boys are fighting in freezing weather in North Korea while various member nations dare to talk appeasement.

Far Rockaway Youth Killed in Accident

Four Cornell University students were injured, one of them fatally, in an automobile accident in Delaware county Sunday afternoon which occurred while they were returning to school after the Thanksgiving holiday, state police at Wurtsboro reported.

Charles Abraham Netter, 19, of Far Rockaway, died of injuries Sunday evening at Callicoon Hospital, troopers said. The other injured were identified as Daniel Swartz, 17, of Cedarhurst, who suffered a skull fracture and is in critical condition, Richard Stern, 17, of New York, and Arnold Roland, 17, of Brooklyn. Stern and Roland received minor injuries, troopers said.

Group to Meet Today For C. of C. Elections

The elections committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will meet at 5 p. m. today to plan the schedule for the forthcoming election of directors. Bert Bishop is chairman of the committee and other members are Ernest J. DuBois, Lewis Jones, Richard Jones, Clifford C. Rose, Alfred Schmid and Allan B. Tobias.

In making this announcement today, Bishop stated that the schedule will probably be much the same as in previous years. The nominating ballot, including a complete list of all active members eligible to vote, will be sent out by mail early in December. The 14 persons receiving the highest number of nominating ballots will be placed on an election ballot and sent to all members on or about January first. From this group the seven receiving the highest number of votes will be elected for a term of three years.

Bishop suggested that all Chamber members begin to plan on the persons they would like to have represent them on the board of directors and return the nominating ballot promptly.

Corsi Proposes

commissioner at a hearing called by Senator John H. Hughes, Syracuse Republican who heads the committee.

Hughes said the committee would consider "abuses and inequities" in the present law.

Changes Suggested

Corsi proposed eligibility changes he said would help eliminate "abuses that the public has complained most about."

He said that departmental investigations did not support "any charge of widespread fraud and chiseling" in the collection of jobless benefits.

Corsi declared, however, that the law "requir[illegible] payment of benefits "under entirely legal conditions that, nevertheless, seem wrong to some people."

He said the claims control activities of the division of placement and unemployment insurance had been handicapped by what he called arbitary cuts in federal aid grants.

Five-Point Program

Corsi submitted to the committee this five-point program:

1—An increase in maximum benefits to conform to the state's policy of "keeping social insurance benefits in line with the changes in wage levels."

2—Revision of the present system of benefits for partial unemployment, which, he said, requires payments "at times and under conditions that the public generally neither approves nor understands" and which "actually provides incentive for some petty chiseling and outright fraud."

3—Extension of coverage to firms with fewer than four employes, which are not required now to provide jobless insurance protection.

4—"Modernizing" of the law to iron out "rigidities" which, he contended, resulted in payments violating the intent though not the letter of the law.

5—"Clarification and tightening of the law * * * in the field of eligibility," as proposed by the joint committee last year.

Should Be in Law

In connection with the last point, Corsi said the department's present policy of requiring persons receiving payments to seek work actively on their own behalf "should be written into the law."

Corsi said the division had uncovered 7,684 cases of fraud in 1949-50, involving illegal benefits totaling $600,535.

In each case, he added, repayment of such benefits was required and future benefit rights were reduced by five to 20 weeks for each offense.

"A total of $330,000 of benefits received fraudulently was recovered during that benefit year," Corsi said. "And future benefits worth $1,866,000 were forfeited by the culprits."

In addition, Corsi reported, 492 "of the most flagrant cases" were prepared for prosecution. Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein completed prosecution in 394 cases and secured 305 convictions, Corsi said.

Jail sentences ranging from four days to one year and fines from $10 to $500 were imposed.

'Cloud-Seeding' Is Claimed Over Area

Mr. Reeves, proprietor of the Rock Cut Lodge and Cottages, of Mt. Tremper, while surveying damage to his property from the heavy rains over the week-end was enraged this morning when he saw "cloud seeding" operations, which he claimed were by the Dr. Wallace E. Howell outfit.

Reeves said, "what are they trying to do, wash us down the stream body and bones?" With the condition of the property now from the floods, he stated, "man-made rain added to nature's contribution would just about wreck us."

Continuing, the Mt. Tremper resident asked, "When is someone coming to our aid?"

Phoenicia Area Is Drenched With 4.63 Inches of Rainfall

A rainfall that averaged three and one half inches over the watershed Saturday poured more than 12 billion gallons of water into the Ashokan Reservoir.

A total of 25 billion gallons of water poured into the entire New York watershed area during the 24-hour period.

Heaviest rainfall recorded on the New York Department of Water Supply Gas and Electricity gauges in the watershed was at Phoenicia, where 4.63 inches fell in the 24-hour period ending 8 a. m. Sunday. At Cold Brook the 24-hour rainfall totalled 3.57 inches and at Brown Station the fall was 2.28 inches.

A total of 9,209,000,000 gallons of water cascaded into the Ashokan during the 24 hours from 8 a. m, Saturday until 8 a. m. Sunday. An additional 2,984,000,000 gallons entered the reservoir the following day.

The water was not enough, however, to overflow over the spillway.

An even more striking gain was reported by the Schoharie Reservoir, where the water level raised 54 feet in one day, so fast that a contractor's shovel and other equipment was covered with water before it could be moved out. Schoharie gained 13½ billion gallons on Saturday and almost 3½ billion more on Sunday.

Red Cross Survey Is Made in Damaged Areas

The Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, today was making a survey of the needs of those who were forced to flee their homes over the week-end when the upper Esopus valley was swept by one of the most disastrous floods of recent years.

Walter Tremper, chairman of the local Disaster Relief Committee, accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Hubbard, executive secretary, visited the area today and made plans to give aid to those whose homes were damaged or destroyed by the flood waters. The Disaster Relief Committee of the local Red Cross stands ready at all times to aid people in time of emergency. Most of those who were forced to flee their homes had been cared for by more fortunate neighbors but the survey being made today was designed to ascertain the need for aid until the people could be taken care of on a more permanent basis.

Woman Passes Exams As Licensed Embalmer

Mrs. Mildred Moylan, wife of George J. Moylan, funeral director of Rosendale, has been notified by the New York State Department of Health that she was sucessful in the examinations given recently in New York. She is now a fully licensed funeral director and embalmer.

Mrs. Moylan, a former resident of Stone Ridge, daughter of William Brissa and the late Mabel Carter Brissa, graduated from Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College. She served her apprenticeship for the funeral directing business under her husband and will continue to assist him in the operation of his business.

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—An unexpected crop of dismal foreign news reports weighed down the stock market today.

Losses ranging from a few cents to as much, in isolated instances, as $4.50 a share appeared everywhere on the list, while small gains showed up only here and there.

Traders apparently worked themselves into a selling mood on the news of United Nations' reverses in Korea and of socialist gains in elections in the Bavarian states of western Germany.

Most of the damage occurred right at the start when prices dropped fast under the impetus of week-end sell orders. Thereafter, as trading ebbed to a slower than normal pace, the lows established in the first half hour were not further breached.

Transportation Is Returning To Normal After Storm

Transportation in the county was badly crippled by Saturday night's storm but was getting back to normal today.

Following is a summary of the best obtainable reports from various authorities:

RAIL: On the West Shore Division of the New York Central, train No. 9, the 6:25 a. m. mail train, arrived from New York Saturday morning. No trains came in from the south from that time until Nos. 1 and 13, combined, arrived in Kingston Sunday night after running on the Eastbound track for a distance from Newburgh. Westbound tracks were washed out in places, and further delays were caused by poles, wires and other debris over the tracks. Eastbound tracks between Haverstraw and Kingston will probably be used for trains in both directions for a day or two. Telegraph wires used by train dispatchers were down, and operations were continued by use of long distance telephone.

Mountain Branch Suffers

Catskill Mountain Branch suffered heavily from the storm. Train No. 528 was an hour and a half late Saturday night and the freight train was unable to make the trip after it stalled at Fleischmanns on land slides. Several days will be required before the roadbed is restored to normal, it was estimated.

No deaths or serious injuries were reported on the railroad. A minor injury was sustained by Frank Beto, Wallkill Valley operating section foreman, who was reportedly hit by a tree at Gardiner.

HIGHWAY: With the exception of Route 28 at Pine Hill and west, most state highways in the county were open to traffic this morning. Some town roads are closed, especially in the Shandaken area where numerous bridges were washed out by flood waters of the Esopus creek.

Route 28 was closed near Cold Brook during the storm Saturday night, but has since been opened to traffic. Shoulders of the road sustained some damage. The route is still closed in sections west of Phoenicia, and the only way to reach Fleischmanns today, according to the State Highway Department, is by leaving Route 28 at Shandaken, taking Routes 42 and 23-A around Pine Hill.

Route 209 was reported open to traffic today, as were other state highways in the territory patroled by state police at the Wurtsboro station.

Main Routes Open

Main highways and roads in the area south of Kingston, including 9W, are open to traffic, state police at Highland reported.

Both Route 209 and 9W south of here were open most of the time during the storm, with minor delays occasioned by fallen trees and wires.

BUS: A survey of local bus terminals this morning disclosed normal operations on all runs with the exception of those going between Pine Hill and Margaretville. The Pine Hill Kingston Bus Corporation reported running on schedule between here and Pine Hill, and between Margaretville and Oneonta. The afternoon trip between Kingston and Oneonta may run today by detouring through Grand Gorge, and one bus has arrived in Kingston from Oneonta by making the same detour.

Adirondack Trailways and Greyhound Lines report they have resumed full schedules.

Dunn Reports

into the Ashokan reservoir to give New York city a 25-day supply of water. The Ashokan received a 10 per cent lift to double the capacity of the reservoir's storage over the 1949 level when the water was extremely low. New York city by reason of the heavy rain now has storage of 71.7 per cent of capacity. The city's reservoirs rose from 155,944,000,000 gallons at 8 a. m. Saturday to 180,953,000,000 gallons at 8 a. m. Sunday. The department reported 3.4 inches of rainfall in the Catskill watershed, and 2.14 inches in the Croton area. Last year at this time the system contained but 38 per cent of capacity.

Eight Bridges Out

State police reported a total of eight bridges out in the floor area, Pine Hill isolated with bridges out at both the easterly end of the village and at the Fleischmanns end of the village.

The Dumham Lumber Company at Shandaken lost some 15,000 feet of sawed lumber which washed down the Esopus on the crest of the flood.

The Allaben bridge, which was damaged by a former flood withstood the high water. Fox Hollow bridge is out.

Among the properties badly damaged along the Esopus creek between Pine Hill and Phoenicia, according to Trooper Ray Dunn, was the Funcrest Hotel which lost its swimming pool. The Upper Esopus Fish and Game Club lost its club house which today is simply a pile of lumber.

When the 40 foot high concrete and rock dam at Pine Hill broke, the crest of the flood swept down the valley gradually diminishing as the fury of the water subsided as it swept across flat lands to expend its power.

Lost Cove Is Gone

The Lost Cove bridge at Big Indian is gone and the Donahus bridge between Big Indian and Shandaken is out.

At one place Trooper Dunn reported about 1,000 feet of the Mountain Division of the New York Central Railroad was now only a ribbon of two tracks suspended above the creek.

Shandaken Manor, the former Griffin house erected in 1865 and which has withstood many floods was badly damaged. The rear of the house collapsed. Shandaken Manor Hotel casino was demolished. One of the John Brown cottages is gone and two or three more are swung around on their foundations at the junction of routes 26 and 42.

Washed from Foundation

A barn on the Holden property was washed from its foundation and sheds and other buildings damaged.

Logs and debris roared through the windows of the Harry Waterman house near the New York city portal at Shandaken and the foundation of the house damaged.

At the Waffle Shop a small building was swept away and an addition to the shop was swung around and ruined.

A bungalow at Valley Farms is missing and there considerable equipment of hunters was lost when the flood waters swept through cabins.

The Birch Creek bridge at Pine Hill is out and in one place a Pontiac car was found down in the creek bed.

From Pine Hill to Fleischmanns three bridges were reported out.

John Mazzuca Is Victim of Attack While Hunting

John Mazzuca, about 55, of 464 Delaware avenue, died of a heart attack Sunday while hunting in the wooded area near Lake Katrine, Coroner Michael A. Galietta reported.

Mazzuca left his home about 9 a. m. Sunday. His body was discovered about 4:15 p. m. the same day after his sons, Alfred and Joseph, had started a search for their father. State police at Lake Katrine were notified and Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly with Troopers H. E. Rasmussen and Royael assisted in the search.

According to the coroner, Mazzuca had been suffering from a heart condition and his sons began the search after they became worried when he did not return home by 3 o'clock. A verdict of death by natural causes, coronary thrombosis, was issued.

Surviving are his wife, Maria Mazzuca, nee Lepore; sons Alfred, Michael, Joseph and John Mazzuca; daughters Rose and Marie Mazzuca and Mrs. Charles Hoehing, all of Kingston, and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Thursday, November 30, from the M. A. Galietta Funeral Home, 650 Delaware avenue, at 9:15 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock, where a solemn requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Evening Verse
(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL I. O'CONNOR

MONDAY MORNING

The week-end hours of joy are gone
And now with Monday's rising sun
We face another busy dawn
And plan our duties... one by one.

Perhaps the coffee helps a bit
To start a bluish sort of day
But where is all the Sunday wit
When everyone was bright and gay.
We may have gone by motor car
To visit friends, or just to ride
And though we didn't travel far
We laughed and set our cares aside.

A week-end gives the mind a rest
No matter what we choose to do
And though we're filled with Sunday zest
We still find Monday morning blue.
When Tuesday comes, we start to scheme
The week-end fun that lies in store...
Our blues are just a silly dream

UN Denunciation of Soviet Russia Is Still Missing Despite Casualties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 27 — Five months have elapsed since Soviet Russia instigated the aggression by the North Korean armies and during that time casualties of more than 30,000 killed and wounded have been suffered by the United States—yet not a single word of formal denunciation of Soviet Russia has appeared in any resolution of the United Nations.

Today the United States has borne nearly all of the burden both in lives and in money while the United Nations has offered only token support.

Today as the American troops are locked in battle against the armies of Communist China, not a single nation—large or small—in the U.N. is making any substantial effort to replace with adequate manpower those who have borne the brunt of the fighting during the last several months.

Today the U.N. is still debating, still kowtowing to the Chinese and Russian Communists, and still letting Russia retain the initiative. The movement to appease the Reds is being led by Great Britain whose government is not averse to accepting billions of dollars of aid from the United States yet nevertheless stands in the way of an early and effective action to halt aggression in the Far East.

The British are proposing appeasement. The argument offered apparently is that unless the Chinese Reds are given certain concessions there will be "war"—as if what is happening in Korea today isn't war. There are 125,000 Chinese Communist troops in North Korea right now. Maybe this isn't war for Great Britain and the other nations which have failed to do their share in furnishing manpower but it is war sure enough for the American Army, Navy and Air Force. It is war for the 4,500 Americans who have been killed and for the 4,300 recorded as "missing" who probably have been massacred by the Communist forces of either China or North Korea. It is war for the 21,000 or more wounded now in the hospitals. It is war for the families, too.

The U.N. was established not only to investigate and condemn aggression but to carry defensive war, if necessary, to the aggressor states.

Yet the U.N. has never investigated the source of all the trouble—Russia's part in the North Korean aggression. Nor has the U.N. formally condemned the Chinese Communists for their part in attacking the United Nations forces recently in Korea.

Instead "appeasement" talk is predominant and if "appeasement" doesn't work out and the Reds, conscious of the weakness of the U.N., should renew their attacks—they have never stopped their insulting statements from Peiping—then the United States is expected to resume the main job of enforcing the peace. Are token forces always to be the rule on the part of other U.N. members? American forces would like to be home for Christmas. Are there no other U.N. troops ready to take their places in Korea?

The MacArthur formula in the Far East, as evidenced by his utterances in the past, recommends talking firmly and acting firmly. Nothing contributes as much toward peace in Asia in the opinion of the general, than to take a strong position. The U.N.'s backing and filling only serves to encourage the Communists of China, and of Russia.

The main bugaboo—war with China—need never become a large-scale affair. If the Chinese Communists do not show peaceful intention — which means withdrawal of their forces from North Korea as well as from a point at least 50 miles beyond the Manchurian border—then American naval air and U. S. air force retaliatory bombardment of Manchurian bases becomes logical coupled with active aid to the Chinese Nationalists who, with proper support, can carry on the fighting inside China without landing any American troops. Maybe high officials will in due time point out that the U.N. will not hesitate to aid Chiang or to support a countermovement inside China. This should not be the task of America alone but should be a U.N. program. For, unless the U.N. learns how to show its military teeth, its soft words of wrath embodied in resolutions will be meaningless and a really large-scale war will hardly be avoided.

If ever there was a time for the U.N. to show that it is a truly international organization and not one that merely asks America to make all the sacrifices, it is now—when American boys are fighting in freezing weather in North Korea while various member nations dare to talk appeasement.

Far Rockaway Youth Killed in Accident

Four Cornell University students were injured, one of them fatally, in an automobile accident in Delaware county Sunday afternoon which occurred while they were returning to school after the Thanksgiving holiday, state police at Wurtsboro reported.

Charles Abraham Netter, 19, of Far Rockaway, died of injuries Sunday evening at Callicoon Hospital, troopers said. The other injured were identified as Daniel Swartz, 17, of Cedarhurst, who suffered a skull fracture and is in critical condition, Richard Stern, 17, of New York, and Arnold Roland, 17, of Brooklyn. Stern and Roland received minor injuries, troopers said.

Group to Meet Today For C. of C. Elections

The elections committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will meet at 5 p. m. today to plan the schedule for the forthcoming election of directors. Bert Bishop is chairman of the committee and other members are Ernest J. DuBois, Lewis Jones, Richard Jones, Clifford C. Rose, Alfred Schmid and Allan B. Tobias.

In making this announcement today, Bishop stated that the schedule will probably be much the same as in previous years. The nominating ballot, including a complete list of all active members eligible to vote, will be sent out by mail early in December. The 14 persons receiving the highest number of nominating ballots will be placed on an election ballot and sent to all members on or about January first. From this group the seven receiving the highest number of votes will be elected for a term of three years.

Bishop suggested that all Chamber members begin to plan on the persons they would like to have represent them on the board of directors and return the nominating ballot promptly.

Dismissal Is Voted

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 27 (AP)—A reliable source said the National Assembly yesterday voted in closed session to dismiss three of its members for Communist collaboration.

Will Join Red Sox

Boston, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox announced today that Lou Boudreau, manager of the 1948 world champion Cleveland Indians, has accepted terms and will join the team as a player.

About the Folks

William Hutton, of 55 Catskill avenue, returned to his home Sunday from the Benedictine Hospital, where he underwent an operation.

Evelyn Dolson of 716 Broadway, who has been a patient in the Kingston and Albany Hospitals for three weeks, has returned to her home where she is improving.

Corsi Proposes

commissioner at a hearing called by Senator John H. Hughes, Syracuse Republican who heads the committee.

Hughes said the committee would consider "abuses and inequities" in the present law.

Changes Suggested

Corsi proposed eligibility changes he said would help eliminate "abuses that the public has complained most about."

He said that departmental investigations did not support "any charge of widespread fraud and chiseling" in the collection of jobless benefits.

Corsi declared, however, that the law "require ' payment of benefits "under entirely legal conditions that, nevertheless, seem wrong to some people."

He said the claims control activities of the division of placement and unemployment insurance had been handicapped by what he called arbitary cuts in federal aid grants.

Five-Point Program

Corsi submitted to the committee this five-point program:

1—An increase in maximum benefits to conform to the state's policy of "keeping social insurance benefits in line with the changes in wage levels."

2—Revision of the present system of benefits for partial unemployment, which, he said, requires payments "at times and under conditions that the public generally neither approves nor understands" and which "actually provides incentive for some petty chiseling and outright fraud."

3—Extension of coverage to firms with fewer than four employes, which are not required now to provide jobless insurance protection.

4—"Modernizing" of the law to iron out "rigidities" which, he contended, resulted in payments violating the intent though not the letter of the law.

5—"Clarification and tightening of the law * * * in the field of eligibility," as proposed by the joint committee last year.

Should Be in Law

In connection with the last point, Corsi said the department's present policy of requiring persons receiving payments to seek work actively on their own behalf "should be written into the law."

Corsi said the division had uncovered 7,684 cases of fraud in 1949-50, involving illegal benefits totaling $600,535.

In each case, he added, repayment of such benefits was required and future benefit rights were reduced by five to 20 weeks for each offense.

"A total of $330,000 of benefits received fraudulently was recovered during that benefit year," Corsi said. "And future benefits worth $1,866,000 were forfeited by the culprits."

In addition, Corsi reported, 492 "of the most flagrant cases" were prepared for prosecution. Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein completed prosecution in 394 cases and secured 305 convictions, Corsi said.

Jail sentences ranging from four days to one year and fines from $10 to $500 were imposed.

'Cloud-Seeding' Is Claimed Over Area

Mr. Reeves, proprietor of the Rock Cut Lodge and Cottages, of Mt. Tremper, while surveying damage to his property from the heavy rains over the week-end was enraged this morning when he saw "cloud seeding" operations, which he claimed were by the Dr. Wallace E. Howell outfit.

Reeves said, "what are they trying to do, wash us down the stream body and bones?" With the condition of the property now from the floods, he stated, "man-made rain added to nature's contribution would just about wreck us."

Continuing, the Mt. Tremper resident asked, "When is someone coming to our aid?"

Phoenicia Area Is Drenched With 4.63 Inches of Rainfall

A rainfall that averaged three and one half inches over the watershed Saturday poured more than 12 billion gallons of water into the Ashokan Reservoir.

A total of 25 billion gallons of water poured into the entire New York watershed area during the 24-hour period.

Heaviest rainfall recorded on the New York Department of Water Supply Gas and Electricity gauges in the watershed was at Phoenicia, where 4.63 inches fell in the 24-hour period ending 8 a. m. Sunday. At Cold Brook the 24-hour rainfall totalled 3.57 inches and at Brown Station the fall was 2.28 inches.

A total of 9,209,000,000 gallons of water cascaded into the Ashokan during the 24 hours from 8 a. m, Saturday until 8 a. m. Sunday. An additional 2,984,000,000 gallons entered the reservoir the following day.

The water was not enough, however, to overflow over the spillway.

An even more striking gain was reported by the Schoharie Reservoir, where the water level raised 54 feet in one day, so fast that a contractor's shovel and other equipment was covered with water before it could be moved out. Schoharie gained 13½ billion gallons on Saturday and almost 3½ billion more on Sunday.

Red Cross Survey Is Made in Damaged Areas

The Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, today was making a survey of the needs of those who were forced to flee their homes over the week-end when the upper Esopus valley was swept by one of the most disastrous floods of recent years.

Walter Tremper, chairman of the local Disaster Relief Committee, accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Hubbard, executive secretary, visited the area today and made plans to give aid to those whose homes were damaged or destroyed by the flood waters. The Disaster Relief Committee of the local Red Cross stands ready at all times to aid people in time of emergency. Most of those who were forced to flee their homes had been cared for by more fortunate neighbors but the survey being made today was designed to ascertain the need for aid until the people could be taken care of on a more permanent basis.

Woman Passes Exams As Licensed Embalmer

Mrs. Mildred Moylan, wife of George J. Moylan, funeral director of Rosendale, has been notified by the New York State Department of Health that she was sucessful in the examinations given recently in New York. She is now a fully licensed funeral director and embalmer.

Mrs. Moylan, a former resident of Stone Ridge, daughter of William Brissa and the late Mabel Carter Brissa, graduated from Kingston High School and New Paltz State Teachers College. She served her apprenticeship for the funeral directing business under her husband and will continue to assist him in the operation of his business.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—An unexpected crop of dismal foreign news reports weighed down the stock market today.

Losses ranging from a few cents to as much, in isolated instances, as $4.50 a share appeared everywhere on the list, while small gains showed up only here and there.

Traders apparently worked themselves into a selling mood on the news of United Nations' reverses in Korea and of socialist gains in elections in the Bavarian states of western Germany.

Most of the damage occurred right at the start when prices dropped fast under the impetus of week-end sell orders. Thereafter, as trading ebbed to a slower than normal pace, the lows established in the first half hour were not further breached.

Transportation Is Returning To Normal After Storm

Transportation in the county was badly crippled by Saturday night's storm but was getting back to normal today.

Following is a summary of the best obtainable reports from various authorities:

RAIL: On the West Shore Division of the New York Central, train No. 9, the 6:25 a. m. mail train, arrived from New York Saturday morning. No trains came in from the south from that time until Nos. 1 and 13, combined, arrived in Kingston Sunday night after running on the Eastbound track for a distance from Newburgh. Westbound tracks were washed out in places, and further delays were caused by poles, wires and other debris over the tracks. Eastbound tracks between Haverstraw and Kingston will probably be used for trains in both directions for a day or two. Telegraph wires used by train dispatchers were down, and operations were continued by use of long distance telephone.

Mountain Branch Suffers

Catskill Mountain Branch suffered heavily from the storm. Train No. 528 was an hour and a half late Saturday night and the freight train was unable to make the trip after it stalled at Fleischmanns on land slides. Several days will be required before the roadbed is restored to normal, it was estimated.

No deaths or serious injuries were reported on the railroad. A minor injury was sustained by Frank Beto, Wallkill Valley operating section foreman, who was reportedly hit by a tree at Gardiner.

HIGHWAY: With the exception of Route 28 at Pine Hill and west, most state highways in the county were open to traffic this morning. Some town roads are closed, especially in the Shandaken area where numerous bridges were washed out by flood waters of the Esopus creek.

Route 28 was closed near Cold Brook during the storm Saturday night, but has since been opened to traffic. Shoulders of the road sustained some damage. The route is still closed in sections west of Phoenicia, and the only way to reach Fleischmanns today, according to the State Highway Department, is by leaving Route 28 at Shandaken, taking Routes 42 and 23-A around Pine Hill.

Route 209 was reported open to traffic today, as were other state highways in the territory patroled by state police at the Wurtsboro station.

Main Routes Open

Main highways and roads in the area south of Kingston, including 9W, are open to traffic, state police at Highland reported.

Both Route 209 and 9W south of here were open most of the time during the storm, with minor delays occasioned by fallen trees and wires.

BUS: A survey of local bus terminals this morning disclosed normal operations on all runs with the exception of those going between Pine Hill and Margaretville. The Pine Hill Kingston Bus Corporation reported running on schedule between here and Pine Hill, and between Margaretville and Oneonta. The afternoon trip between Kingston and Oneonta may run today by detouring through Grand Gorge, and one bus has arrived in Kingston from Oneonta by making the same detour.

Adirondack Trailways and Greyhound Lines report they have resumed full schedules.

Dunn Reports

into the Ashokan reservoir to give New York city a 25-day supply of water. The Ashokan received a 10 per cent lift to double the capacity of the reservoir's storage over the 1949 level when the water was extremely low. New York city by reason of the heavy rain now has storage of 71.7 per cent of capacity. The city's reservoirs rose from 155,944,000,000 gallons at 8 a. m. Saturday to 180,953,000,000 gallons at 8 a. m. Sunday. The department reported 3.4 inches of rainfall in the Catskill watershed, and 2.14 inches in the Croton area. Last year at this time the system contained but 38 per cent of capacity.

Eight Bridges Out

State police reported a total of eight bridges out in the floor area, Pine Hill isolated with bridges out at both the easterly end of the village and at the Fleischmanns end of the village.

The Dumham Lumber Company at Shandaken lost some 15,000 feet of sawed lumber which washed down the Esopus on the crest of the flood.

The Allaben bridge, which was damaged by a former flood withstood the high water. Fox Hollow bridge is out.

Among the properties badly damaged along the Esopus creek between Pine Hill and Phoenicia, according to Trooper Ray Dunn, was the Funcrest Hotel which lost its swimming pool. The Upper Esopus Fish and Game Club lost its club house which today is simply a pile of lumber.

When the 40 foot high concrete and rock dam at Pine Hill broke, the crest of the flood swept down the valley gradually diminishing as the fury of the water subsided as it swept across flat lands to expend its power.

Lost Cove Is Gone

The Lost Cove bridge at Big Indian is gone and the Donahus bridge between Big Indian and Shandaken is out.

At one place Trooper Dunn reported about 1,000 feet of the Mountain Division of the New York Central Railroad was now only a ribbon of two tracks suspended above the creek.

Shandaken Manor, the former Griffin house erected in 1865 and which has withstood many floods was badly damaged. The rear of the house collapsed. Shandaken Manor Hotel casino was demolished. One of the John Brown cottages is gone and two or three more are swung around on their foundations at the junction of routes 26 and 42.

Washed from Foundation

A barn on the Holden property was washed from its foundation and sheds and other buildings damaged.

Logs and debris roared through the windows of the Harry Waterman house near the New York city portal at Shandaken and the foundation of the house damaged.

At the Waffle Shop a small building was swept away and an addition to the shop was swung around and ruined.

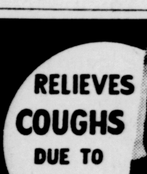

A bungalow at Valley Farms is missing and there considerable equipment of hunters was lost when the flood waters swept through cabins.

The Birch Creek bridge at Pine Hill is out and in one place a Pontiac car was found down in the creek bed.

From Pine Hill to Fleischmanns three bridges were reported out.

Returns to Florida

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 27 (AP)—Governor Dewey was vacationing again today after an emergency trip back to New York state. Dewey returned here yesterday. He rushed home Thursday to launch an investigation of the Long Island Railroad wreck that claimed 77 lives. Mrs. Dewey had remained at a hotel here. Dewey said he expected to stay in Florida "eight or nine days." He had spent 10 days here before flying to New York city.

Blaikie Predicts DeSapio Will Lose $12,000 Job

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Robert B. Blaikie, leader of an insurgent group of Tammany Hall leaders, predicted yesterday Chief Carmine G. de Sapio will lose his $12,000-a-year elections board post.

Blaikie claimed that the New York county (Manhattan) Democratic Committee would not redesignate de Sapio for another term at its meeting tonight.

De Sapio, whose forces were routed by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri at the Nov. 7 election, wants the committee to redesignate him to the City Council for another term as an elections commissioner.

Blaike and other Impellitteri backers in Democratic ranks are campaigning among county committee members seeking to line up opposition to de Sapio. Blaikie is a candidate to replace de Sapio as Tammany leader.

De Sapio supporters count on his redesignation tonight, in view of his endorsement by the Democratic executive Committee by a vote of better than four to one.

Blaikie yesterday rejected an alliance with Francis X. Mancuso, former general sessions judge and erstwhile de Sapio supporter. Mancuso is a Democratic leader in the 16th assembly district.

Blaikie was one of the chief supporters of Impellitteri, a democrat and then City Council president, when he ran for mayor as an independent against Democratic - Liberal, Republican and American Labor Party opponents.

Heads Junior Hadassah

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—Miss Gloria Rubin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., yesterday was elected president of Junior Hadassah at the Young Women's Zionist organization's 27th annual convention. Vice presidents elected were Annabelle Bienenfeld, Bell Harbor, N. Y.; Priscilla Krupin, Astoria, N. Y.; Betty Landau, Charlestown, W. Va.; Deborah Neiman, Brooklyn, and Sylvia Nevelson, Los Angeles. Annette Berger, Brooklyn, was named secretary and Marian Gezuner of Brookline, Mass., treasurer.

SUBJECT: TAXES—In a huddle over "excess profits taxes" at a Washington press conference are: Wilson W. Wyatt, former Emergency Housing Expediter; Robert C. Tait, president of Stromberg-Carlson Corp. and chairman of the Business Committee on Emergency Corporate Taxation; Beardsley Ruml, New York businessman and tax authority; and Leon Henderson, wartime OPA administrator. The group favors higher taxes on corporations and individuals, but opposes an excess profits tax.

Calls for Greater Incentives in Jobs

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—New York State was urged today to offer greater incentives for the maintenance of stability in private employment.

The proposal was made by George D. Gardner of Binghamton, President of the New York State Automobile Dealers, Inc., at a hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Unemployment Insurance Administration.

Gardner, in a prepared statement, called for a "more realistic and fair experience-rating system," based on each employer's individual employment experience.

He said such a system would offer business a more effective and reliable incentive to eliminate avoidable unemployment.

Stability of employment is a major factor in determining the amount of unemployment insurance taxes against employers.

The committee called today's session to hear proposals for changes in the unemployment insurance law.

Two Girls Injured In Auto Collision

Charlton, Mass., Nov. 27 (AP)—A two-car collision on Route 20 last night injured two 16-year-old White Plains, N. Y., girls, one critically.

Jacqueline Hansen suffered a fractured skull. Her name was placed on the danger list at Harrington Memorial Hospital, Southbridge.

Mary Ann Grace was at the same hospital suffering back injuries and a possible concussion.

Police said the driver of the car in which they were riding was Robert Paton, 19, of Valhalla, N. Y. He was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving.

Neither Paton nor John Halleck, 33, who police said drove the other car, was injured.

Fire Claims Aged Woman

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—A 73-year-old woman died in a fire early today in a Manhattan rooming house (242 East 53rd street). The victim, Miss Anne Herbert, was found dead in her top floor room in the four-story house. The landlady's son tried without success to break into the room and rescue the woman before firemen arrived. Cause of the fire, which was confined to Miss Herbert's room, was not determined immediately.

Protestants Plan New Church Group With Wider Scope

Cleveland, Nov. 27 (AP)—Protestants will exert a wider influence on affairs of the nation through a new church council about to be born, a religious leader said today.

This statement was made by Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert of New York, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. He addressed his organization at its last biennial meeting.

On Wednesday of this week, his organization and seven other interdenominational church agencies will form a new cooperative organization called the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

This council will represent the vast majority of Protestants in the United States, about 32,000,000.

Calling this movement "of great spiritual significance," Dr. Cavert said:

"For the first time, we shall now have in the National Council a central agency which represents us in the total range of our life and activity. This should result in a greatly strengthened impact of public opinion.

"It should give a more influential voice to the Christian conscience in all matters of moral and social concern."

Dr. Cavert emphasized that this new national council "does not mean church union but it does mean church cooperation as a more deliberately adopted and systematically organized policy."

Wage Strike May Not Halt Cornell Classes

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Cornell University scheduled "classes as usual" today despite a wage strike by building maintenance workers.

The strike started Saturday, but full effects were not felt until today, when students and many maintenance employes returned from a short Thanksgiving vacation.

John E. Burton, the university's vice-president for business, said last night officials did not believe the strike would reduce facilities to the point where it would be necessary to cancel classes.

Leo Kriegbaum, representative for Local 296, AFL Building Service Employes Union, claimed "well over half the workers" left their jobs Saturday. University officials asserted that the number was under 25 per cent.

The local claims to represent a majority of the university's 800 maintenance workers, including maids, janitors, kitchen help, bakers, laundrymen and truck drivers.

The union has not disclosed its demands, except to say it wants recognition and "other benefits."

Blaikie claimed that the New York county (Manhattan) Democratic Committee would not redesignate de Sapio for another term at its meeting tonight.

De Sapio, whose forces were routed by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri at the Nov. 7 election, wants the committee to redesignate him to the City Council for another term as an elections commissioner.

Blaike and other Impellitteri backers in Democratic ranks are campaigning among county committee members seeking to line up opposition to de Sapio. Blaikie is a candidate to replace de Sapio as Tammany leader.

De Sapio supporters count on his redesignation tonight, in view of his endorsement by the Democratic executive Committee by a vote of better than four to one.

Blaikie yesterday rejected an alliance with Francis X. Mancuso, former general sessions judge and erstwhile de Sapio supporter. Mancuso is a Democratic leader in the 16th assembly district.

Blaikie was one of the chief supporters of Impellitteri, a democrat and then City Council president, when he ran for mayor as an independent against Democratic - Liberal, Republican and American Labor Party opponents.

SUBJECT: TAXES—In a huddle over "excess profits taxes" at a Washington press conference are: Wilson W. Wyatt, former Emergency Housing Expediter; Robert C. Tait, president of Stromberg-Carlson Corp. and chairman of the Business Committee on Emergency Corporate Taxation; Beardsley Ruml, New York businessman and tax authority; and Leon Henderson, wartime OPA administrator. The group favors higher taxes on corporations and individuals, but opposes an excess profits tax.

Calls for Greater Incentives in Jobs

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—New York State was urged today to offer greater incentives for the maintenance of stability in private employment.

The proposal was made by George D. Gardner of Binghamton, President of the New York State Automobile Dealers, Inc., at a hearing of the Joint Legislative Committee on Unemployment Insurance Administration.

Gardner, in a prepared statement, called for a "more realistic and fair experience-rating system," based on each employer's individual employment experience.

He said such a system would offer business a more effective and reliable incentive to eliminate avoidable unemployment.

Stability of employment is a major factor in determining the amount of unemployment insurance taxes against employers.

The committee called today's session to hear proposals for changes in the unemployment insurance law.

Two Girls Injured In Auto Collision

Charlton, Mass., Nov. 27 (AP)—A two-car collision on Route 20 last night injured two 16-year-old White Plains, N. Y., girls, one critically.

Jacqueline Hansen suffered a fractured skull. Her name was placed on the danger list at Harrington Memorial Hospital, Southbridge.

Mary Ann Grace was at the same hospital suffering back injuries and a possible concussion.

Police said the driver of the car in which they were riding was Robert Paton, 19, of Valhalla, N. Y. He was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving.

Neither Paton nor John Halleck, 33, who police said drove the other car, was injured.

Fire Claims Aged Woman

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—A 73-year-old woman died in a fire early today in a Manhattan rooming house (242 East 53rd street). The victim, Miss Anne Herbert, was found dead in her top floor room in the four-story house. The landlady's son tried without success to break into the room and rescue the woman before firemen arrived. Cause of the fire, which was confined to Miss Herbert's room, was not determined immediately.

Protestants Plan New Church Group With Wider Scope

Cleveland, Nov. 27 (AP)—Protestants will exert a wider influence on affairs of the nation through a new church council about to be born, a religious leader said today.

This statement was made by Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert of New York, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. He addressed his organization at its last biennial meeting.

On Wednesday of this week, his organization and seven other interdenominational church agencies will form a new cooperative organization called the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

This council will represent the vast majority of Protestants in the United States, about 32,000,000.

Calling this movement "of great spiritual significance," Dr. Cavert said:

"For the first time, we shall now have in the National Council a central agency which represents us in the total range of our life and activity. This should result in a greatly strengthened impact of public opinion.

"It should give a more influential voice to the Christian conscience in all matters of moral and social concern."

Dr. Cavert emphasized that this new national council "does not mean church union but it does mean church cooperation as a more deliberately adopted and systematically organized policy."

Wage Strike May Not Halt Cornell Classes

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Cornell University scheduled "classes as usual" today despite a wage strike by building maintenance workers.

The strike started Saturday, but full effects were not felt until today, when students and many maintenance employes returned from a short Thanksgiving vacation.

John E. Burton, the university's vice-president for business, said last night officials did not believe the strike would reduce facilities to the point where it would be necessary to cancel classes.

Leo Kriegbaum, representative for Local 296, AFL Building Service Employes Union, claimed "well over half the workers" left their jobs Saturday. University officials asserted that the number was under 25 per cent.

The local claims to represent a majority of the university's 800 maintenance workers, including maids, janitors, kitchen help, bakers, laundrymen and truck drivers.

The union has not disclosed its demands, except to say it wants recognition and "other benefits."

OUR CLOSEST ELECTION

Some time in 1951 Michigan voters will know whom they have elected governor. Democratic incumbent Governor G. Mennen Williams and his Republican opponent, former Governor Harry F. Kelly, ran neck and neck. A recount will be necessary to determine the victor, and even then a lawsuit is expected to follow.

Michiganders would be wrong, however, to think that they have set a new mark for a close election. The record, not likely to be equaled, was established in Massachusetts in 1839. The victim was Governor Edward Everett, who later served as senator, secretary of state, minister to Great Britain and president of Harvard University, and who is best remembered as the formal orator at Gettysburg whose long and studied speech was completely overshadowed by a two-minute utterance by Abraham Lincoln. Running for re-election on the Whig ticket, Everett lost to his Democratic opponent, Marcus Morton, by just one vote. This election proved incidentally the importance of perseverance, for Morton's triumph came on his sixteenth attempt to be elected.

The Everett-Morton dead head showed in supreme degree what the Michigan contest illustrated to a lesser extent, that individual votes are important and that those who believe in a candidate should not fail to work for him to the uttermost, including the casting of the one vote which might decide the outcome.

NEW FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

The good old days when one could fare forth into the garden, gather the blooms which were currently in season, and place them in vases around the house, without self-consciousness of any feeling except that of delight in their beauty, seem to be vanishing.

The lady of the house has been exposed to lectures and study courses in flower arrangement. The appurtenances considered necessary for this process are many. Modelling clay has been taken from the children's hands to be used as support. A prickly object known as a "pin holder" is considered important. The "lip" of the container must be covered, the largest and darkest blooms must be at the bottom of the arrangement, with buds at the top. A triangle is often used as an imiginary outline for the finished product, and filled in from all angles. "Dry arrangements" are popular in the fall of year, and such unlikely ingredients as flat boards and pieces of driftwood may be included. The holy fervor with which the rules sometimes are followed leaves the observer amazed.

Flower arranging has become a recognized art, with results which are often beautiful and in impeccable taste. Perhaps when it has become an older art, its devotees may feel more free to express their own tastes and to adapt the rules to suit their own surroundings and materials.

THE LOST TANKS

The Citizens Committee on the Hoover Report accused the Army of "losing" 9,000 tanks for three years after the end of the war. The Army took exception, and after a bout with its files declared that the number of "lost" tanks was only 7,170, and that all of them since have been accounted for. Either figure represents a sizable number of tanks to be misplaced. A tank is not the sort of thing which would be readily mislaid.

Much more important is the fact that the Army accounting system has now been revised. Many of the criticisms and recommendations of the Hoover Commission were utilized in planning the revised system, and the Citizens Committee says it is sure that there will be no more incidents like that of 7,170 or 9,000 missing tanks. Every taxpayer will hope not.

The improvements in government which have been made as a result of the Hoover Report have seemed distressingly small and painfully slow. Yet there have been improvements. The gains which have been made should spur the Citizens Committee and the public at large to still greater efforts to apply the Hoover Commission recommendations throughout the government. These efforts are not in vain, for effective results can be obtained. The next few years should see many more changes for the better in the organization of the government.

'These Days'

THE COURSE OF EMPIRE

Empire builders have ever moved in the direction of great masses of population and toward the fertile valleys of easy access to the supplies of food and fibers. It has never been a haphazard expenditure of life and wealth for no clear objective. Land hunger alone has never been such an objective among world conquerors: It was people, food, fibers, and at times minerals.

There was, for instance, a small area which in the ancient world was called Bactria. Into it moved Alexander in 328 B.C. Since then, almost all world conquerors have moved into this area. Stalin is going there now, as did his predecessor, Ghengis Khan.

Alexander was pushing eastward, as most world conquerors have done. He needed a powerful army to invade and conquer India, where lay real wealth, in manpower, in food supplies, in minerals. He was making for the Oxus River, along which have developed and died many great civilizations. Bactria itself was a fertile region.

And where is Bactria today? It is where it always has been, geography paying no attention to the names that man gives to places. It is the Balkh area that lies in Afghanistan and flows over into Soviet Russia in the region near Stalinbad. It is the area from which Russia moves into Iran and India.

It was the starting-off place for the Khyber Pass and the Indus River which conquerors took into India.

A great Hellenic empire was developed in Bactria, but this was crushed between the rising Parthia on the west and the Chinese tribes from the east. (These Chinese tribes were not Chinese at all, but Turcomans, Kushans, Scythians, and Hsiung Nu, who were probably what we call Huns.)

There is the same old spot and generally the same kinds of people whom we encounter there now. Empires rise and fall, but the peoples remain, except that as they intermarry and are assimilated, they become slightly altered in appearances and habits, and they take in new religions, which, if they last long enough, influence their thought and folkways.

Balkh (or Bactria) was the home of several important cultures which influenced large segments of mankind, although it is now rubble mostly. Zoroastrianism came from there and the Parsees of India originated there and took their fire-worship into India. Here developed, in the earliest times, two significant cultures, the Hellenic-Parthian-Bactrian culture, and the Kushan culture which bestrode the world of the Hindu Kush.

From Balkh, invaders made their way into the Punjab, the only Indian area known to the Greek historian, Herodotus. The Punjab sometimes belong to Afghanistan, to Persia or to India. It became a stronghold of that unusual people, the Sikhs, perhaps the most warlike race of central Asia, who were, however, subjugated by the British and served them.

One of the most active movements of the human race centered in this general region, namely, the movement of peoples from the Eurasian Steppes (Russia) and from the Oxus and Jaxartes Rivers across the Hindu Kush into the Indus valley. Such a movement is now taking place and one phase of it is the building of a new world by vast irrigation projects, in which, it is said, the atom bomb is being used to change geography in the Kara Kum by Soviet Russia to increase population and food supply. Into it may some day be transplanted part of the surplus population of China, perhaps 100,000,000 persons.

Here may again blossom a cotton country, like our own South. Northern Iran cannot develop the strength to resist the pressures from the Turkmen S.S.R. in which this vast enterprise in irrigation and repopulation is taking place.

Peoples do not disappear. Only politics dies. Empires, statesmen, wars wind their tiresome way through history, but the soil remains and the people remain. The Oxus and the Indus are where they always were and toward them peoples gravitate, and on their banks civilizations develop. And out of these peoples, empires are built by politicians who see their day and pass on. But the great centers of population remain, because geography made them.

In the conflict with Soviet Russia, we are coming closer and closer to this heart of the human story, the region about the Caspian and Aral Seas from which flow great rivers.

That Body of Yours

PREVENTING TOOTH DECAY

As a member of a community, you naturally have the health of the community, which includes your own health and the health of your family, in mind. A healthy community is bound to be a happy community, other things being equal. As a member of the community you may be asked to vote on some public health project and you may wonder whether the project is worth while, or merely a fad.

Two possible propositions have to do with the water supply. One is whether iodine should be added to the water to prevent goiter. It can now be stated, with abundant high authority behind it, that in some districts, particularly in the region of the Great Lakes, iodine should be added.

The other health proposition is that of adding fluorides to the water supply. Some years ago it was found that the inhabitants of a certain county in a certain state were almost free of decayed teeth. Investigation showed that the water and the soil there contained a certain percentage of fluorides. Previous experience with fluorides where the percentage was much higher had caused mottling of the teeth.

Expriments have been carried out in different parts of the United States and Canada in which small amounts of fluorine salts (in the proportion of 1 to 1.5 parts per million) were added to the water systems of town and cities. All reports were favorable to this method of preventing tooth decay.

In The Journal of the American Dental Association, Dr. Francis A. Bull, Madison, Wis., states: "The addition of fluorides to domestic water supplies has now been recommended as a decay-control measure by the U.S. Public Health Service subject to approval of the state and local health authorities and dental and medical professions. Large scale control tests have been carried on within the past five years in a number of states. Early reports reveal that children drinking water containing small amounts of artificially-added fluorine salts had substantially less tooth decay than did those drinking fluorine-free waters."

Dr. Bull states that fluorides will not prevent all tooth decay, as about one-third of decay is due to other causes. Further, in the country, fluoridation is of no real help in preventing tooth decay.

"Hey, Hold It! Let's Talk This Over!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — This column recently revealed that seven troopships, now carrying American troops across the Atlantic and Pacific, are equipped with unsafe lifeboat gear. Further investigation has now uncovered that, in addition to this, the fire-detecting, extinguishing and alarm systems are also below the minimum safety standards set by the U. S. Coast Guard.

It should be noted that U. S. Coast Guard standards are high, and many foreign luxury liners do not conform to them. Nevertheless, ships carrying U. S. troops, should.

Furthermore, the steel bulkheads on these troopships are unlined, uninsulated and uncovered, hence a fire hazard in case of overheating; the ventilation system doesn't shut off automatically in case of fire but would continue to fan the flames; and the electrical equipment in the hospital and battery rooms is subject to explosion.

This column also learned that, in addition to the seven troopships previously named, three others are in the same condition. Meanwhile, it remains a fact that illegal, Russian-type mines are drifting in Far Eastern waters as an added threat to navigation.

The seven troopships named earlier that do not comply with coast guard safety standards are the Generals W. M. Black, LeRoy Eltings, W. G. Hann, Stuart Heintzelman, W. C. Langlitt, M. B. Stewart and S. D. Sturgis, each with a capacity of 4,000 troops.

In addition, three larger troopships are in the same condition: The Generals John Pope, William Weigel and M. C. Meigs. (Each of these is capable of carrying 6,000 troops.) All 10 ships are now hauling G.I.'s to Korea and Germany, and bringing dependents back to this country.

Navy Promises Changes

Following this column's investigation, the navy has promised to bring the 10 troopships up to standard as soon as practical. Already a plan has been tentatively approved to equip the lifeboat gear with auxiliary, Diesel generators to swing the davits into position for lowering lifeboats. With the present equipment, it takes the ship's power from the engine room to swing the davits out in safe time. However, this central power in the engineroom frequently fails in case of a bad hit by a mine or submarine.

A navy spokesman, interviewed on these deficiencies, claims they are not as serious as they sound. He pointed out that as long as the ships are crammed with troops, the G.I.'s can detect a fire and spread the alarm without an approved Coast Guard detection and alarm system. He also stated that Coast Guard standards are usually high, so that even foreign luxury liners cannot pass their inspection.

Note—Most U. S. tourists don't realize it, but when they sail on these foreign luxury liners they are taking greater chances than on American commercial passenger vessels.

Brannan Plan Fued

Friends say that Allan Kline, hard-working boss of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is feathered up like a barnyard rooster over his latest snub by the White House.

When Kline requested an appointment with President Truman, the President agreed, but only on the condition that Kline's bitter enemy, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, accompany him to the White House.

When Kline got this message, he exploded:

"Truman and the White House will freeze over before I go over there with that guy Brannan.

The President did some exploding himself when he learned about the farm leader's angry response and is reported to have told aides:

"I didn't want to see the S.O.B. anyway."

Taft Doesn't Smile

A kidding remark by Secretary of State Dean Acheson taken out of context has pitched him into a head-on-collision with Sen. Robert Taft and the McCarthyites again.

A few days after Senator Taft told reporters he was not an isolationist, but wanted to "re-examine" our foreign policy, Acheson was speaking off the cuff to the National Council of Negro Women and said: "I read in the papers there is a species of homo sapiens which has recently become extinct. That is the isolationist. We are told it's very rude to refer to anybody as an isolationist and it hurts their feelings. But a new species, the re-examinist, has come on the horizon. I was very much puzzled when I heard about this new species.

"It's possible that the re-examinist might be a farmer who goes out every morning and pulls up his crops to see how they are doing. Or it might be this re-examinist comes down to breakfast in the morning and looks at his wife and says, 'Do I really love that woman? How did I ever turn up here with her?' When we re-examine, does it mean we are like the sound navigator who on a long flight or voyage checks his course by the sun and stars every day? Or does it mean the navigator says, 'How did I ever get started on this trip?'

"If to re-examine means going before Congress and explaining every singie item of every policy and every program, we all belong to that school, and we all re-examine our progress. We all find out our failure, look at what new actions we should take, and justify what we have been doing."

Senator Taft, who usually has a keen sense of humor, in this case has hit the ceiling. He just doesn't see anything funny about it. Though the rest of Washington is laughing, it may not laugh in the long run; for this new feud between the State Department and G.O.P. Senate leaders may further delay getting back on a stable bipartisan foreign policy.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 26—The insolence of those few self-important Americans who presume to judge whether the German people have been "de-Nazified" is a fascinating phenomenon of this era of political confusion in our own country. Some of the most arrogant of these are localized in the letterhead organization called the Society for the Prevention of World War 3. The executive and "advisory" list of this society, which refuses to disclose its entire membership roll, includes a goodly number of bloodthirsty pundits who took no physical part in either of the world wars. Some, indeed, artfully managed an appearance of belligerence without ever submitting themselves to military compulsion and assuming a duty to face danger under orders with the well-known melancholy alternative for failure. Actually it is not a society at all but a propaganda front for a few individuals.

Most of those who so loudly damn the Nazi political system are actually Nazis themselves who would have Nazified the United States long ago but for the resistance of such Republicans as Senator Taft, Governor Dewey, Mark Sullivan, Vivien Kellems and, if I may say so, Pegler.

What is Nazism? It is national socialism. It is socialism and nationalism. Hitler said it was too good for the lesser breeds. Therefore, it was not for export. He did export it, however, as we know, but even though he set up bunds in New York, New Jersey and a few other localities, it cannot be said that he seriously tried to impose national socialism on our country. He didn't have to. Roosevelt and his wife and Hopkins were beating him to it.

Hatred and persecution of the Jews were not essential in the original version of national socialism. Fascism, which was national socialism under a classical, poetic name, abhorred anti-semitism for many years. I remember a little lecture on this that was read to me by Jack Bozio, a young official of the propaganda bureau of the Fascist foreign office in Rome, about 1936. Hitler had made a visit to Mussolini and the Fascists were smirking because Hitler had come down to get some pointers from the maestro. Mussolini gave him the big show and chucked his weight about with that absurd pomposity which, after long repetition, wore off its absurdity and came to be accepted by millions of Italians as true majesty, little short of divinity. Hitler then was in his humble phase, the man of the people in a greasy trench-coat. By the way, many millions of Americans still adore Roosevelt as a god and worship his widow. That is Nazi paganism.

Bozio told me the Duce had a low opinion of Hitler. He regarded him as an imitator. Furthermore, Bozio said, anti-Jewishness was a personal idea of Hitler's and didn't belong in the scheme. It sullied true Fascism. The Italian National Socialism of that time would have none of it. Fascism adopted anti-semitism only when Hitler had become the head man of the Axis and Mussolini was trying to appease him.

Our Blue Eagle administration was straight Fascism and cartelism. If it had not been struck down by the old American Supreme Court, in the sick-chicken case, the national government today would be regulating business in every detail down to the charge for pressing a pair of pants, with criminal penalties for violation. I believe we actually did have a Blue Eagle case involving the price that one of our "little people" charged for pressing a suit. You could not under-charge. That was a crime as bad as overcharging.

Roosevelt did not repudiate this audacious venture in National Socialism. On the contrary, he attacked the court for thwarting him and tried to get a new court that would permit him to Nazify the United States. By the verb "to Nazify," I mean "to institute National Socialism." I know corruption was bad in Italy. The Fascist princes of privilege gathered them lires while they might, just as Elliott Roosevelt trimmed his victims with his old man's active help. It seems to me, from the purge and other coldblooded incidents that Hitler's Nazis were more strict about graft. But can you imagine how the greedy rogues of the New Deal, especially those shyster buzzards from Harvard law who flocked to Washington to feast on the corpse of their country, would have picked the bones of business with their nasty hecklements and criminal information if N.R.A. had survived the test in court.

What difference can any honest man find in the essential character and actions of Hitler's storm troops, the Brown Shirts, and the organized goons of unionism under Roosevelt? Were the Brown Shirt window-smashings and beatings which appalled us any worse than the vandalism of the imported seditionists in the auto factories of Michigan and the steel towns of Ohio and Pennsylvania? We must keep in mind the absolute fact that these terrorists were not strikers. They were paid professional rioters and vandals and many of them were Communists. The real workers wanted to and tried to go their jobs and were kept at bay by the goons—Brown Shirts. Or they were forcibly compelled to join and held within the captured plants by armed union sentries. Under the state constitutions this conduct was treason, punishable by death. But the governors either did not know the contents of their state constitutions or, as in the case of Frank Murphy of Michigan, were afraid to do their sworn duty. Did you ever read the constitution of your state?

That was national socialism and millions were forced to join unions and give up money to the boss unioneers, who then used this money to keep our Nazi government in power. So when some idolator of Roosevelt writes heavily about the problem of determining which Germans have been truly "de-Nazified" and warns us that we cannot trust them, we should bear in mind that we can't trust him, either. He may not even realize that he is a Nazi. But he is, and the domestic political problem of the United States is to "de-Nazify" the great mass of our population who prattle of "democracy" when they mean Hitlerism minus anti-semitism.

OUR CLOSEST ELECTION

Some time in 1951 Michigan voters will know whom they have elected governor. Democratic incumbent Governor G. Mennen Williams and his Republican opponent, former Governor Harry F. Kelly, ran neck and neck. A recount will be necessary to determine the victor, and even then a lawsuit is expected to follow.

Michiganders would be wrong, however, to think that they have set a new mark for a close election. The record, not likely to be equaled, was established in Massachusetts in 1839. The victim was Governor Edward Everett, who later served as senator, secretary of state, minister to Great Britain and president of Harvard University, and who is best remembered as the formal orator at Gettysburg whose long and studied speech was completely overshadowed by a two-minute utterance by Abraham Lincoln. Running for re-election on the Whig ticket, Everett lost to his Democratic opponent, Marcus Morton, by just one vote. This election proved incidentally the importance of perseverance, for Morton's triumph came on his sixteenth attempt to be elected.

The Everett-Morton dead head showed in supreme degree what the Michigan contest illustrated to a lesser extent, that individual votes are important and that those who believe in a candidate should not fail to work for him to the uttermost, including the casting of the one vote which might decide the outcome.

NEW FLOWER ARRANGEMENT

The good old days when one could fare forth into the garden, gather the blooms which were currently in season, and place them in vases around the house, without self-consciousness of any feeling except that of delight in their beauty, seem to be vanishing.

The lady of the house has been exposed to lectures and study courses in flower arrangement. The appurtenances considered necessary for this process are many. Modelling clay has been taken from the children's hands to be used as support. A prickly object known as a "pin holder" is considered important. The "lip" of the container must be covered, the largest and darkest blooms must be at the bottom of the arrangement, with buds at the top. A triangle is often used as an imiginary outline for the finished product, and filled in from all angles. "Dry arrangements" are popular in the fall of year, and such unlikely ingredients as flat boards and pieces of driftwood may be included. The holy fervor with which the rules sometimes are followed leaves the observer amazed.

Flower arranging has become a recognized art, with results which are often beautiful and in impeccable taste. Perhaps when it has become an older art, its devotees may feel more free to express their own tastes and to adapt the rules to suit their own surroundings and materials.

THE LOST TANKS

The Citizens Committee on the Hoover Report accused the Army of "losing" 9,000 tanks for three years after the end of the war. The Army took exception, and after a bout with its files declared that the number of "lost" tanks was only 7,170, and that all of them since have been accounted for. Either figure represents a sizable number of tanks to be misplaced. A tank is not the sort of thing which would be readily mislaid.

Much more important is the fact that the Army accounting system has now been revised. Many of the criticisms and recommendations of the Hoover Commission were utilized in planning the revised system, and the Citizens Committee says it is sure that there will be no more incidents like that of 7,170 or 9,000 missing tanks. Every taxpayer will hope not.

The improvements in government which have been made as a result of the Hoover Report have seemed distressingly small and painfully slow. Yet there have been improvements. The gains which have been made should spur the Citizens Committee and the public at large to still greater efforts to apply the Hoover Commission recommendations throughout the government. These efforts are not in vain, for effective results can be obtained. The next few years should see many more changes for the better in the organization of the government.

'These Days'

THE COURSE OF EMPIRE

Empire builders have ever moved in the direction of great masses of population and toward the fertile valleys of easy access to the supplies of food and fibers. It has never been a haphazard expenditure of life and wealth for no clear objective. Land hunger alone has never been such an objective among world conquerors: It was people, food, fibers, and at times minerals.

There was, for instance, a small area which in the ancient world was called Bactria. Into it moved Alexander in 328 B.C. Since then, almost all world conquerors have moved into this area. Stalin is going there now, as did his predecessor, Ghengis Khan.

Alexander was pushing eastward, as most world conquerors have done. He needed a powerful army to invade and conquer India, where lay real wealth, in manpower, in food supplies, in minerals. He was making for the Oxus River, along which have developed and died many great civilizations. Bactria itself was a fertile region.

And where is Bactria today? It is where it always has been, geography paying no attention to the names that man gives to places. It is the Balkh area that lies in Afghanistan and flows over into Soviet Russia in the region near Stalinbad. It is the area from which Russia moves into Iran and India.

It was the starting-off place for the Khyber Pass and the Indus River which conquerors took into India.

A great Hellenic empire was developed in Bactria, but this was crushed between the rising Parthia on the west and the Chinese tribes from the east. (These Chinese tribes were not Chinese at all, but Turcomans, Kushans, Scythians, and Hsiung Nu, who were probably what we call Huns.)

There is the same old spot and generally the same kinds of people whom we encounter there now. Empires rise and fall, but the peoples remain, except that as they intermarry and are assimilated, they become slightly altered in appearances and habits, and they take in new religions, which, if they last long enough, influence their thought and folkways.

Balkh (or Bactria) was the home of several important cultures which influenced large segments of mankind, although it is now rubble mostly. Zoroastrianism came from there and the Parsees of India originated there and took their fire-worship into India. Here developed, in the earliest times, two significant cultures, the Hellenic-Parthian-Bactrian culture, and the Kushan culture which bestrode the world of the Hindu Kush.

From Balkh, invaders made their way into the Punjab, the only Indian area known to the Greek historian, Herodotus. The Punjab sometimes belong to Afghanistan, to Persia or to India. It became a stronghold of that unusual people, the Sikhs, perhaps the most warlike race of central Asia, who were, however, subjugated by the British and served them.

One of the most active movements of the human race centered in this general region, namely, the movement of peoples from the Eurasian Steppes (Russia) and from the Oxus and Jaxartes Rivers across the Hindu Kush into the Indus valley. Such a movement is now taking place and one phase of it is the building of a new world by vast irrigation projects, in which, it is said, the atom bomb is being used to change geography in the Kara Kum by Soviet Russia to increase population and food supply. Into it may some day be transplanted part of the surplus population of China, perhaps 100,000,000 persons.

Here may again blossom a cotton country, like our own South. Northern Iran cannot develop the strength to resist the pressures from the Turkmen S.S.R. in which this vast enterprise in irrigation and repopulation is taking place.

Peoples do not disappear. Only politics dies. Empires, statesmen, wars wind their tiresome way through history, but the soil remains and the people remain. The Oxus and the Indus are where they always were and toward them peoples gravitate, and on their banks civilizations develop. And out of these peoples, empires are built by politicians who see their day and pass on. But the great centers of population remain, because geography made them.

In the conflict with Soviet Russia, we are coming closer and closer to this heart of the human story, the region about the Caspian and Aral Seas from which flow great rivers.

That Body of Yours

PREVENTING TOOTH DECAY

As a member of a community, you naturally have the health of the commuity, which includes your own health and the health of your family, in mind. A healthy community is bound to be a happy community, other things being equal. As a member of the community you may be asked to vote on some public health project and you may wonder whether the project is worth while, or merely a fad.

Two possible propositions have to do with the water supply. One is whether iodine should be added to the water to prevent goiter. It can now be stated, with abundant high authority behind it, that in some districts, particularly in the region of the Great Lakes, iodine should be added.

The other health proposition is that of adding fluorides to the water supply. Some years ago it was found that the inhabitants of a certain county in a certain state were almost free of decayed teeth. Investigation showed that the water and the soil there contained a certain percentage of fluorides. Previous experience with fluorides where the percentage was much higher had caused mottling of the teeth.

Expriments have been carried out in different parts of the United States and Canada in which small amounts of fluorine salts (in the proportion of 1 to 1.5 parts per million) were added to the water systems of town and cities. All reports were favorable to this method of preventing tooth decay.

In The Journal of the American Dental Association, Dr. Francis A. Bull, Madison, Wis., states: "The addition of fluorides to domestic water supplies has now been recommended as a decay-control measure by the U.S. Public Health Service subject to approval of the state and local health authorities and dental and medical professions. Large scale control tests have been carried on within the past five years in a number of states. Early reports reveal that children drinking water containing small amounts of artificially-added fluorine salts had substantially less tooth decay than did those drinking fluorine-free waters."

Dr. Bull states that fluorides will not prevent all tooth decay, as about one-third of decay is due to other causes. Further, in the country, fluoridation is of no real help in preventing tooth decay.

"Hey, Hold It! Let's Talk This Over!"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — This column recently revealed that seven troopships, now carrying American troops across the Atlantic and Pacific, are equipped with unsafe lifeboat gear. Further investigation has now uncovered that, in addition to this, the fire-detecting, extinguishing and alarm systems are also below the minimum safety standards set by the U. S. Coast Guard.

It should be noted that U. S. Coast Guard standards are high, and many foreign luxury liners do not conform to them. Nevertheless, ships carrying U. S. troops, should.

Furthermore, the steel bulkheads on these troopships are unlined, uninsulated and uncovered, hence a fire hazard in case of overheating; the ventilation system doesn't shut off automatically in case of fire but would continue to fan the flames; and the electrical equipment in the hospital and battery rooms is subject to explosion.

This column also learned that, in addition to the seven troopships previously named, three others are in the same condition. Meanwhile, it remains a fact that illegal, Russian-type mines are drifting in Far Eastern waters as an added threat to navigation.

The seven troopships named earlier that do not comply with coast guard safety standards are the Generals W. M. Black, LeRoy Eltings, W. G. Hann, Stuart Heintzelman, W. C. Langlitt, M. B. Stewart and S. D. Sturgis, each with a capacity of 4,000 troops.

In addition, three larger troopships are in the same condition: The Generals John Pope, William Weigel and M. C. Meigs. (Each of these is capable of carrying 6,000 troops.) All 10 ships are now hauling G.I.'s to Korea and Germany, and bringing dependents back to this country.

Navy Promises Changes

Following this column's investigation, the navy has promised to bring the 10 troopships up to standard as soon as practical. Already a plan has been tentatively approved to equip the lifeboat gear with auxiliary, Diesel generators to swing the davits into position for lowering lifeboats. With the present equipment, it takes the ship's power from the engine room to swing the davits out in safe time. However, this central power in the engineroom frequently fails in case of a bad hit by a mine or submarine.

A navy spokesman, interviewed on these deficiencies, claims they are not as serious as they sound. He pointed out that as long as the ships are crammed with troops, the G.I.'s can detect a fire and spread the alarm without an approved Coast Guard detection and alarm system. He also stated that Coast Guard standards are usually high, so that even foreign luxury liners cannot pass their inspection.

Note—Most U. S. tourists don't realize it, but when they sail on these foreign luxury liners they are taking greater chances than on American commercial passenger vessels.

Brannan Plan Fued

Friends say that Allan Kline, hard-working boss of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is feathered up like a barnyard rooster over his latest snub by the White House.

When Kline requested an appointment with President Truman, the President agreed, but only on the condition that Kline's bitter enemy, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, accompany him to the White House.

When Kline got this message, he exploded:

"Truman and the White House will freeze over before I go over there with that guy Brannan.

The President did some exploding himself when he learned about the farm leader's angry response and is reported to have told aides:

"I didn't want to see the S.O.B. anyway."

Taft Doesn't Smile

A kidding remark by Secretary of State Dean Acheson taken out of context has pitched him into a head-on-collision with Sen. Robert Taft and the McCarthyites again.

A few days after Senator Taft told reporters he was not an isolationist, but wanted to "re-examine" our foreign policy, Acheson was speaking off the cuff to the National Council of Negro Women and said: "I read in the papers there is a species of homo sapiens which has recently become extinct. That is the isolationist. We are told it's very rude to refer to anybody as an isolationist and it hurts their feelings. But a new species, the re-examinist, has come on the horizon. I was very much puzzled when I heard about this new species.

"It's possible that the re-examinist might be a farmer who goes out every morning and pulls up his crops to see how they are doing. Or it might be this re-examinist comes down to breakfast in the morning and looks at his wife and says, 'Do I really love that woman? How did I ever turn up here with her?' When we re-examine, does it mean we are like the sound navigator who on a long flight or voyage checks his course by the sun and stars every day? Or does it mean the navigator says, 'How did I ever get started on this trip?'

"If to re-examine means going before Congress and explaining every single item of every policy and every program, we all belong to that school, and we all re-examine our progress. We all find out our failure, look at what new actions we should take, and justify what we have been doing."

Senator Taft, who usually has a keen sense of humor, in this case has hit the ceiling. He just doesn't see anything funny about it. Though the rest of Washington is laughing, it may not laugh in the long run; for this new feud between the State Department and G.O.P. Senate leaders may further delay getting back on a stable bipartisan foreign policy.

Ripley's—Believe It or Not!

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 26—The insolence of those few self-important Americans who presume to judge whether the German people have been "de-Nazified" is a fascinating phenomenon of this era of political confusion in our own country. Some of the most arrogant of these are localized in the letterhead organization called the Society for the Prevention of World War 3. The executive and "advisory" list of this society, which refuses to disclose its entire membership roll, includes a goodly number of bloodthirsty pundits who took no physical part in either of the world wars. Some, indeed, artfully managed an appearance of belligerence without ever submitting themselves to military compulsion and assuming a duty to face danger under orders with the well-known melancholy alternative for failure. Actually it is not a society at all but a propaganda front for a few individuals.

Most of those who so loudly damn the Nazi political system are actually Nazis themselves who would have Nazified the United States long ago but for the resistance of such Republicans as Senator Taft, Governor Dewey, Mark Sullivan, Vivien Kellems and, if I may say so, Pegler.

What is Nazism? It is national socialism. It is socialism and nationalism. Hitler said it was too good for the lesser breeds. Therefore, it was not for export. He did export it, however, as we know, but even though he set up bunds in New York, New Jersey and a few other localities, it cannot be said that he seriously tried to impose national socialism on our country. He didn't have to. Roosevelt and his wife and Hopkins were beating him to it.

Hatred and persecution of the Jews were not essential in the original version of national socialism. Fascism, which was national socialism under a classical, poetic name, abhorred anti-semitism for many years. I remember a little lecture on this that was read to me by Jack Bozio, a young official of the propaganda bureau of the Fascist foreign office in Rome, about 1936. Hitler had made a visit to Mussolini and the Fascists were smirking because Hitler had come down to get some pointers from the maestro. Mussolini gave him the big show and chucked his weight about with that absurd pomposity which, after long repetition, wore off its absurdity and came to be accepted by millions of Italians as true majesty, little short of divinity. Hitler then was in his humble phase, the man of the people in a greasy trench-coat. By the way, many millions of Americans still adore Roosevelt as a god and worship his widow. That is Nazi paganism.

Bozio told me the Duce had a low opinion of Hitler. He regarded him as an imitator. Furthermore, Bozio said, anti-Jewishness was a personal idea of Hitler's and didn't belong in the scheme. It sullied true Fascism. The Italian National Socialism of that time would have none of it. Fascism adopted anti-semitism only when Hitler had become the head man of the Axis and Mussolini was trying to appease him.

Our Blue Eagle administration was straight Fascism and cartelism. If it had not been struck down by the old American Supreme Court, in the sick-chicken case, the national government today would be regulating business in every detail down to the charge for pressing a pair of pants, with criminal penalties for violation. I believe we actually did have a Blue Eagle case involving the price that one of our "little people" charged for pressing a suit. You could not under-charge. That was a crime as bad as overcharging.

Roosevelt did not repudiate this audacious venture in National Socialism. On the contrary, he attacked the court for thwarting him and tried to get a new court that would permit him to Nazify the United States. By the verb "to Nazify," I mean "to institute National Socialism." I know corruption was bad in Italy. The Fascist princes of privilege gathered them lires while they might, just as Elliott Roosevelt trimmed his victims with his old man's active help. It seems to me, from the purge and other coldblooded incidents that Hitler's Nazis were more strict about graft. But can you imagine how the greedy rogues of the New Deal, especially those shyster buzzards from Harvard law who flocked to Washington to feast on the corpse of their country, would have picked the bones of business with their nasty hecklements and criminal information if N.R.A. had survived the test in court.

What difference can any honest man find in the essential character and actions of Hitler's storm troops, the Brown Shirts, and the organized goons of unionism under Roosevelt? Were the Brown Shirt window-smashings and beatings which appalled us any worse than the vandalism of the imported seditionists in the auto factories of Michigan and the steel towns of Ohio and Pennsylvania? We must keep in mind the absolute fact that these terrorists were not strikers. They were paid professional rioters and vandals and many of them were Communists. The real workers wanted to and tried to go their jobs and were kept at bay by the goons—Brown Shirts. Or they were forcibly compelled to join and held within the captured plants by armed union sentries. Under the state constitutions this conduct was treason, punishable by death. But the governors either did not know the contents of their state constitutions or, as in the case of Frank Murphy of Michigan, were afraid to do their sworn duty. Did you ever read the constitution of your state?

That was national socialism and millions were forced to join unions and give up money to the boss unioneers, who then used this money to keep our Nazi government in power. So when some idolator of Roosevelt writes heavily about the problem of determining which Germans have been truly "de-Nazified" and warns us that we cannot trust them, we should bear in mind that we can't trust him, either. He may not even realize that he is a Nazi. But he is, and the domestic political problem of the United States is to "de-Nazify" the great mass of our population who prattle of "democracy" when they mean Hitlerism minus anti-semitism.

Golden Sidewalk

Lillooet, B. C. (AP)—Crews of workmen are pouring gold-bearing cement for more than a mile of sidewalk in this town 200 miles northeast of Vancouver. The gravel was taken from the famous banks of the Cayoosh Creek, but the workmen don't bother panning the stuff. Oldtimers say it wouldn't yield more than a few dollars for 12 hours' work.

Three Are Killed When Car Hits Tree

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—Three Rutherford residents were killed Saturday when they missed a curve on a dark, rain-slick highway near here and their car hit a tree.

Three others were injured. The party had been returning after dinner at the Princeton Inn following the Princeton-Colgate football game.

Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Victor de Azevado, of 53 Elycroft Parkway, and Milton B. Ignatius, 30, 266 Mountain avenue, all of Rutherford.

Mrs. Priscilla Ignatius was in serious condition at Princeton Hospital. Miss Gwendolyn LaTour, 23, of 10 Meadway ave., Bronxville, N. Y., was discharged from the hospital yesterday, and Sumner L. Plunkett, 26, of 324 East 50th street, New York, was in good condition.

Husband Is Burned Up

Columbus, O. (AP)—Ladies, are you tired of seeing your husbands' old fishing clothes and other junk littering up the house? In Ohio you could burn them and get away with it—legally speaking, that is. Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Clifford dismissed a charge of burning personal property against a wife who admitted she set her husband's truck afire. Why? Because, she said, he wouldn't take her on a trip. The legal principle behind the dismissal, Judge Clifford explained, is that under Ohio law personal property belonging to either husband or wife also belongs to the other.

Restoring the Relics

By FRANK TRIPP

The wonderful old fellow who lives next door to us Summers was sanding away patiently on the painted knobs of an old chair, a clumsy old thing that somebody wanted refinished. It has given him a living for years during seasons when he had no outdoor work to do.

"About how many layers of paint do you imagine you have scraped off of countryside furniture during your lifetime?" I asked Will, who is 84.

"An awful lot," he replied, "but I've daubed a lot of paint on 'em, too." Sometimes he works for days taking off paint that someone hired him to put on many years ago. Mostly though it's paint that a reckless owner slathered over a beautiful piece of walnut or maple, because it said on the paint can, "you can do this easily yourself, and it will be dry in the morning." That dry in the morning promise is what put half a dozen coats of paint on many a masterpiece.

The appearance of that legend on the early cans of modern enamel turned the amateurs loose and led to the ruination of some of the finest old furniture that ever was made. Now people are resurrecting choice pieces from attics, kitchens and cellars and trying to restore them to their original grandeur.

"IT HAS GIVEN me a lot of income," said Will, "and I shouldn't complain," as he showed me what had happened to a graceful maple ladder back chair. He was not half through scraping and sanding it and already the bill was $15. Many years ago the chair may have cost five or six dollars. By the time it is refinished it will be nice but will only sadly compare with the original and the investment in it would have furnished a whole room back when it was made.

Yet, according to Will, who knows whereof he speaks, such a piece is valued more if it has been defaced and cast away for a generation; then refinished at much expense and given a place of honor in a living room. If folks can boast that they discovered an antique in some remote place, reclaimed and restored its beauty, it gets twice the affection of a well preserved piece which has never had a scratch on it.

As Will said, that makes work and business for a lot of people; not only the uppish antique man but hundreds of obscure mechanics in little shops all over the country. This is all to the good and promises an unending source of revenue to worthy craftsmen who have developed an extraordinary technique in the restoration business.

This widespread one-man industry promises to endure, for the enthusiasts do not confine their search to old walnut, maple, cherry and mahogany, which many of them cannot tell from basswood.

It is common for Will to receive an ordinary pine chest or table to to be dolled into something beautiful; which he does to the entire satisfaction of its owner; with trick stains, shellac, varnish and rottenstone. In fact, the tougher the piece looks and the less promising, the more the customer is likely to be satisfied with whatever it finally turns out to be.

ONE SOURCE from which Will's business comes adds materially to the cost of the job. Frequently when an ambitious owner has tried to remove two or three coats of paint from a choice item he has done more damage than good. Like the novice who daubed on the paint, he believed himself competent to remove it because he once had successfully followed directions on a can of paint remover and made a flat board look good as new.

But when he tried his skill on the scrolls, carving, grooves and spindles of a piece of fine furniture he made a sorry mess of it; then rushed in desperation to an expert. His main trouble of course, was lack of knowledge but he also lacked the tools; beyond a kitchen spatula, a putty knife and sheet of No. 2 sandpaper, when he should have used triple 0.

If he gets to the sandpaper stage at all he is likely to run his ultimate bill up to double. That's when he scours with the abondon of a scrub woman; crisscross, in circles and against the grain. He leaves spider webs of gouges all over the surface and creates a veritable bonanza for the worker who must sand the wood down to the depth of the grand canyons which were left in the wake of too coarse abrasives.

It's a lot of fun to refinish old furniture if you know how and have the patience. Patience is as essential as the know-how and the tools. One who does not command these three requisites will be wise at the outset to look up such a genius as Will, for eventually he will be going to him.

State Will Probe Uranium Group

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — The State of New York has opened an investigation into the sale of stock in a new company headed by former Indiana Governor Paul V. McNutt.

It is the American-Canadian Uranium Co., Ltd., incorporated in Delaware to locate and develop uranium mines in Canada.

McNutt is president of the new firm.

Its vice president is Josiah Marvel, Jr., former American ambassador to Denmark and now a Delaware lawyer.

McNutt also was high commissioner for the Philippines and was manpower administrator during World War 2.

The investigation was announced yesterday by State Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein, who said he was acting under New York's Martin Act to protect state investors.

"It is contrary to my usual practice to make known an investigation in its early stages," Goldstein said, "but this situation is unusual and calls for public scrutiny.

"Although I raised a number of questions about the promotion with the officers and attorneys for this company and had gone so far as to inform them I was investigating the entire stock offering, the company has now gone ahead and advertised the stock issue. Sales may already be underway.

Statement Issued

At Indianapolis, McNutt issued a statement when he learned of Goldstein's investigation and remarks.

"The prospectus by which an offering of the stock of the American-Canadian Uranium Co., Ltd., is made to the public, states the facts," McNutt said.

Hotel Theft Reported With Jewels Missing

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—A $5,500 burglary in the Savoy-Plaza Hotel, 59th street and Fifth avenue, was reported early today.

Mrs. Martha Koenigsberger, of Guatemala, Central America, told detectives a fur piece and jewelry had been taken from her hotel room during her absence.

She said a jewelry box had been opened and clothing knocked to the closet floor when she returned last night atfer a 10-hour absence.

Detectives said the burglar must have had a key, since it would have been impossible to enter through a window.

The missing articles were insured.

East Germans Exhorted

Berlin, Nov. 27 (AP)—East Germany was exhorted today to follow in Russia's footsteps as a special "month of German-Soviet friendship" set Communist slogan mills spinning at top speed. The month will be climaxed Dec. 21 with the celebration of Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin's 71st birthday—an occasion which East Germany's rulers hope will eclipse the commemoration of Christmas four days later.

Snow Falls in Some Parts Of State; Route 28 Area Hit at Margaretville, Arkville

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Snow fell in some sections of New York state today as weary workmen struggled to repair the havoc wrought by savage winds, heavy rain, floods and snowstorms that claimed 30 lives.

Property damage ran into uncounted millions of dollars.

Thousands of rural homes still were without electricity, telephone service or heat, due to fallen trees.

Forest rangers pressed searches for about 100 hunters believed trapped in the Adirondack Mountains, where fallen trees blocked trails and highways. District Forester William Petty at Saranac Lake said the plight of the hunters would become "serious" if there were a heavy snowfall.

Snow fell last night in centeral New York. Snow squalls were reported in the western part of the state.

The weather bureau said light snow would continue today and tomorrow in western New York and predicted snow flurries tonight or tomorrow for the eastern section.

The windstorm, which the weather bureau said was nearly a land hurricane, swirled into the state from the south Saturday.

Shore areas recorded gusts up to 108 miles an hour.

Trees tumbled, roofs were torn off, windows were smashed and power lines fell all over the state.

The drenching rain sent many streams surging over their banks.

24 Deaths Caused

Twenty-four deaths were attributed to the weather in the area outside metropolitan New York from Friday night through Sunday night. Six died in the New York City area.

The shrieking windstorm battered the metropolitan area for nearly 19 hours. Virtually all modes of transportation were snarled or cut off.

Rivers and bays in New York and New Jersey spilled out of their banks, flooding streets and cellars. At one time, 407,000 consumers were without electricity.

The Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, which supplies power for much of upstate, estimated the damage to its system at "several million dollars." Officials said it would be the middle of next week before all the damage could be repaired.

Pine Hill Isolated

In Ulster county, a 40-foot dam on a private hotel lake gave way under the pressure of swollen Catskill mountain streams. Eight highway bridges were washed out on Route 28, the main highway connecting Kingston and Oneonta. The village of Pine Hill, with a population of about 1,500, was isolated by the flood waters. Police estimated the damage at $1,000,000.

In Delaware county, also in the Catskills, a branch of the Delaware river jumped its banks and water stood four feet deep in part of the main street of Margaretville Saturday night.

A stream known as Dry Brook washed a partially filled 50,000-gallon gasoline tank onto Route 28 at Arkville.

At Wellsville, in western New York, about 100 persons were forced to evacuate their homes when the Genesee river overflowed. The municipal power plant was knocked out, but the city obtained emergency power from Niagara Mohawk.

Auburn mobilized nearly 1,000 civilian defense workers during the wind storm. They were on duty, 10 hours, putting up barricades, directing traffic and standing guard at danger spots. Mayor Edward T. Boyle credited the volunteers with preventing many injuries and perhaps saving lives.

In western New York, the wind was preceded by a storm that dumped 20¾ inches of snow on Jamestown and lesser amounts in other sections. Rising temperatures and rain turned it into slush.

Storm Damage Greatest in History of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation

- Since 2:00 A. M. Saturday morning, Central Hudson has fought the worst storm damage in its history. Trees and flying objects threw out thousands of section of electric line and disrupted the electric service of about 65,000 customers. This compares with the approximate 40,000 customers who lost service during the hurricane of 1938.
- The storm was severe in all sections of Central Hudson's 2,500 square mile franchise areas, with the heaviest damage in and around Newburgh. Because neighboring power companies were as hard hit as Central Hudson, it had to rely entirely on its own personnel.
- All employes stood by for emergency duty. Accountants guarded falling wires, commercial men patrolled lines to locate damage, stenographers received countless calls reporting trouble, while line crews fought to maintain electric service. All worked continuously as effectiveness and safety would permit.

FOUR POINT PLAN OF ACTION

A FOUR POINT PLAN OF ACTION is governing Central Hudson effort to restore electric service to customers.

1. To cut all falling wires that might endanger the public.
2. Then, to restore service to hospitals, fire departments and other essential public service institutions.
3. Third, to restore service on damaged lines affecting the most customers.
4. Last, to restore service on lines affecting only a few customers.

THE OFFICE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The following letter is typical of several that are sent me each year as the Christmas holidays approach: "I belong to a widespread group of wives whose husbands will soon be going to their annual office Christmas parties! We dread the experience because many of us have worked in offices and have also attended an office party. We know the fallacy of the excuse that they create good will among the employes. On the contrary, putting business associations on a social basis not only defeats its purpose of making better office harmony, but it disrupts the harmony at home at a time when it should be at its very best. We believe many of the husbands go because they feel they have to. If the bosses really want to create good will why don't they have a party to which the married employes could bring their wives (or husbands)? We're asking you to champion the idea!"

If the last day at the office is turned into a holiday and the party is held in what are usually office hours, then it is not at all necessary to invite either husbands or wives. But if the party is given elsewhere, and especially if in the evening, then I do think that husbands and wives should be invited.

Dear Mrs. Post: How important is it to use a silver tray with a silver coffee set? There is no tray as yet and friends told me that it would look all wrong to use the set without one.

Answer: A silver tray is not at all necessary, and certainly there is no reason for not enjoying your coffee set as it is.

Marking Paper Napkins

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend sent me some beautiful large paper napkins on which the initials A.M.C. are printed. Anna Mason was my maiden name, my married name is Carter. Was this correct marking?

Answer: Yes, entirely so!

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Don't Be Talked Out of a Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Here is a bidding problem that has stumped us," writes a Princeton, N. J., reader. "We have looked at this hand from every angle, including from under the table, and we still don't know how it should have been bid.

"West opened the king of diamonds and then shifted to the king of clubs. Declarer won with dummy's ace of clubs, led to the ace of trumps, ruffed a diamond in dummy, cashed the king and ace of hearts, ruffed another diamond in dummy, ruffed a club in his hand, and then ruffed his last diamond in dummy.

"Having already discarded one of the small hearts (on dummy's ace of clubs), South now had a losing heart and a losing trump. He thus made 10 tricks without a finesse.

"North observed very amiably that South had played the hand like a master, but South wasn't in the mood for soft soap. He opined that his 2-year-old daughter could have managed the hand; and that maybe his daughter could have bid it a trifle better.

"After a good deal of argument, it boiled down to this: North felt that he had shown the full strength of his hand by doubling one no-trump and bidding two spades freely. South felt that he had made an opening bid with a very doubtful hand and could do no more unless his partner made a jump bid at some point. To hear each of them describe the weakness of his hand, they were both lucky just to be alive.

"Nevertheless, the fact remains that the North-South cards were good for 10 tricks. Was this just a freak, or did somebody underbid?"

The hand was no freak. North was guilty of underbidding. Over two diamonds he should have jumped to three spades instead of only two spades. Then South would have good reason to take a chance on game.

North should expect his partner to be very short in clubs because of his own length and East's club bid. North can also see the singleton diamond in his own hand. Hence North can practically foresee a cross-ruff.

The king of hearts and the four trumps to the queen are bound to be very valuable. A good fit is really quite obvious, if North thinks about it carefully.

How much trouble can North cause if a jump to three spades is a slight overbid? After all, North has passed originally, and his hand is therefore limited. He has not jumped to four spades, and he has no cue-bid in diamonds—as he might do with a really fine hand. Moreover, the bidding of the opponents is strong evidence that South cannot have a big enough hand to go past game.

In other words, the worst that can happen is that South will bid four spades and will be set one trick. That's nothing for an experienced player to worry about, of course.

When North failed to jump to three spades, South was quite justified in passing. For all he could tell, the opponents might have the real strength, and his partner might be merely trying to talk them out of the hand.

Employment Increases

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi reported yesterday that employment in manufacturing industries in New York state increased last October for the fifth consecutive month. He said that between mid-September and mid-October the total number of wage and salary workers in the field rose to a total of 1,941,000, an increase of 35,000 over the previous month and approximately 140,000 over the same period of 1949. Corsi's figures were based on preliminary estimates of the State Labor Department's Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance.

First Reformed Church Lists Several Activities for Christmas Season

An outdoor "Living Nativity," the re-appearance of St. Nicholas and the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" are among the activities scheduled by the First Reformed Dutch Church for the Christmas season this year.

The "Living Nativity"—a pageant of the first Christmas—will be presented in the churchyard, corner of Main and Wall streets, 7 to 9 p. m., Dec. 18 through Dec. 24. Members of the congregation will act the parts of Mary, Joseph, the Baby Jesus, shepherds and wise men. The scene will be complete with stable, and live animals. Musical background will be provided through the amplification system in the church steeple.

"St. Nicholas" will ride the streets of Kingston on a white horse on Dec. 5, distributing candy to children along the way. His final stop will be in front of the First Dutch Church, where he will be met by children in Dutch costume, who will help hand out candy to other youngsters. St. Nick also will turn on the lights on the huge Christmas tree in the churchyard. The custom was revived last year by the church.

It was a custom in Kingston and other Hudson river communities until late in the 19th century. It was brought here by early Dutch settlers from Holland, where St. Nicholas' birthday is still observed on Dec. 6, when the saint rides a pure white horse and leaves his gifts in the wooden shoes which the children have placed out with wisps of straw to feed his horse.

To Present "Messiah"

A chorus of more than 100 voices will present Handel's "Messiah" in the church auditorium at 8 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 17. Donald Romme, director of music, will lead the singers. Anyone may join in the production by appearing at the rehearsals, which are held in the church house, 52 Main street, Monday at 7:30 p. m. and Thursday at 8:30 p. m.

Christmas Eve at 11 o'clock a candle light worship service will be held in the main church auditorium. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool will give a monologue in costume. A choir of 50 voices will sing Christmas music, and the service will end with traditional lighting of candles by the congregation.

Miss Mitzi Kaczor and Raphael Gregory Are Married Saturday in Willimansett

The marriage of Miss Mitzi Kaczor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kaczor, 33 Bristol street, Willimansett, Mass., and Raphael I. Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gregory, 23 Rondout street, this city, was solemnized during a double ring ceremony Saturday at 9 o'clock in St. Anthony's Church, Willimansett. The Rev. Richard Brzozowski, pastor of that parish, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of imported chantilly lace and satin. It was cut with a fitted bodice, and Queen Anne sleeves. Her long court train was inserted with lace and an orange blossom headpiece secured her French illusion veil which was edged with imported chantilly. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and baby pompons with streamers.

Miss Theresa Gregory, 23 Rondout street, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore an orchid taffeta gown trimmed with lace and net and carried a fan shaped bouquet of yellow carnations and roses.

Joseph Gregory, Jr., brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Jason's restaurant, Willimansett.

On their wedding trip the couple will motor to Florida.

The bride is a graduate of the Willimansett schools, and is employed with A. G. Spalding's Inc., Willimansett.

The groom attended the Kingston schools and served for four years in the Army Air Corps. He is now employed with Adam's Plastics, Holyoke.

Virginia D. Irwin Becomes the Bride Of James G. Cleary

Miss Virginia D. Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Irwin of Napanoch, and James Gerard Cleary, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cleary of Pleasant Acres, Napanoch, were married Sunday at 3 o'clock in St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville. The Rev. Francis Kleindienst performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Noble Clary of Port Jervis was organist, and Noble Clary, also of Port Jervis, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown, with a Viennese lace bertha, a sweet heart neckline, fitted pointed bodice, long sleeves, pointed at the wrist, a full skirt, and a circular train. Her veil of French illusion was caught to a seed pearl headpiece, and she carried a cascade of white roses secured with satin streamers.

Mrs. Ernest Davis of Napanoch, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Davis wore a blue satin gown with a Queen Anne collar, cap sleeves, a full skirt, and a period bustle. She had matching mitts, a heart-shaped hat of matching satin strands, and carried a small cascade of tea roses with satin streamers.

Raymond Cleary of Pleasant Acres, Napanoch, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception was held at Wenig's Hotel, Napanoch, for members of the immediate families while a traditional wedding cake was served at the home of the bride's parents.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit New York. For traveling the bride wore a gray sharkskin suit with black accessories, and a white rose corsage. The couple will make their home with the groom's parents at Pleasant Acres, Napanoch.

The bride is a graduate of Ellenville High School, and is employed with H. Rosenstock and Sons, Ellenville.

The groom was graduated from Ellenville High School and served for 30 months during World War 2 with the U. S. Navy as an aviation gunnist's mate. He is now employed with the Berlanti Construction Co.

Rosary Society Plans Masquerade

A colorful masquerade dance, sponsored by the Rosary Society of the Immaculate Conception Church, will be held Friday, Dec. 1, at the school hall on Delaware avenue.

During the evening prizes will be awarded for the best, and funniest costumes. The Poughkeepsie Polka Dots, well known throughout the area, will play old-fashioned polkas and modern dance music from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Refreshments will be available throughout the evening, and the public is invited to attend.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. David Blakely and family spent the Thanksgiving week-end in Hartford, Conn., visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Noel.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Stephano of 44 Boulder avenue entertained the following guests on Thanksgiving Day: Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson of Newburgh, Mrs. N. Bonacci, Frank Bonacci, and Mr. and Mrs George Knoepple, all of North Bergen, N. J.

Rodney E. Wells has returned to the University of Rochester after spending the Thanksgiving recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Wells of 325 Lucas avenue. Visiting with him were Paul Coombs of Stamford, Conn., and three of his fraternity brothers: Richard Neil of Rochester, James Armstrong of Oak Park, Ill., and John Healy of Forrest City, Iowa.

THE OFFICE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The following letter is typical of several that are sent me each year as the Christmas holidays approach: "I belong to a widespread group of wives whose husbands will soon be going to their annual office Christmas parties! We dread the experience because many of us have worked in offices and have also attended an office party. We know the fallacy of the excuse that they create good will among the employes. On the contrary, putting business associations on a social basis not only defeats its purpose of making better office harmony, but it disrupts the harmony at home at a time when it should be at its very best. We believe many of the husbands go because they feel they have to. If the bosses really want to create good will why don't they have a party to which the married employes could bring their wives (or husbands)? We're asking you to champion the idea!"

If the last day at the office is turned into a holiday and the party is held in what are usually office hours, then it is not at all necessary to invite either husbands or wives. But if the party is given elsewhere, and especially if in the evening, then I do think that husbands and wives should be invited.

Dear Mrs. Post: How important is it to use a silver tray with a silver coffee set? There is no tray as yet and friends told me that it would look all wrong to use the set without one.

Answer: A silver tray is not at all necessary, and certainly there is no reason for not enjoying your coffee set as it is.

Marking Paper Napkins

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend sent me some beautiful large paper napkins on which the initials A.M.C. are printed. Anna Mason was my maiden name, my married name is Carter. Was this correct marking?

Answer: Yes, entirely so!

A complete list of flat silver needed by the bride is included in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 504, "Table Setting." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99,, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Here is a bidding problem that has stumped us," writes a Princeton, N. J., reader. "We have looked at this hand from every angle, including from under the table, and we still don't know how it should have been bid.

"West opened the king of diamonds and then shifted to the king of clubs. Declarer won with dummy's ace of clubs, led to the ace of trumps, ruffed a diamond in dummy, cashed the king and ace of hearts, ruffed another diamond in dummy, ruffed a club in his hand, and then ruffed his last diamond in dummy.

"Having already discarded one of the small hearts (on dummy's ace of clubs), South now had a losing heart and a losing trump. He thus made 10 tricks without a finesse.

"North observed very amiably that South had played the hand like a master, but South wasn't in the mood for soft soap. He opined that his 2-year-old daughter could have managed the hand; and that maybe his daughter could have bid it a trifle better.

"After a good deal of argument, it boiled down to this: North felt that he had shown the full strength of his hand by doubling one no-trump and bidding two spades freely. South felt that he had made an opening bid with a very doubtful hand and could do no more unless his partner made a jump bid at some point. To hear each of them describe the weakness of his hand, they were both lucky just to be alive.

"Nevertheless, the fact remains that the North-South cards were good for 10 tricks. Was this just a freak, or did somebody underbid?"

The hand was no freak. North was guilty of underbidding. Over two diamonds he should have jumped to three spades instead of only two spades. Then South would have good reason to take a chance on game.

North should expect his partner to be very short in clubs because of his own length and East's club bid. North can also see the singleton diamond in his own hand. Hence North can practically foresee a cross-ruff.

The king of hearts and the four trumps to the queen are bound to be very valuable. A good fit is really quite obvious, if North thinks about it carefully.

How much trouble can North cause if a jump to three spades is a slight overbid? After all, North has passed originally, and his hand is therefore limited. He has not jumped to four spades, and he has no cue-bid in diamonds—as he might do with a really fine hand. Moreover, the bidding of the opponents is strong evidence that South cannot have a big enough hand to go past game.

In other words, the worst that can happen is that South will bid four spades and will be set one trick. That's nothing for an experienced player to worry about, of course.

When North failed to jump to three spades, South was quite justified in passing. For all he could tell, the opponents might have the real strength, and his partner might be merely trying to talk them out of the hand.

Will Retain Broad

many will remain a country under occupation by virtue of military conquest.

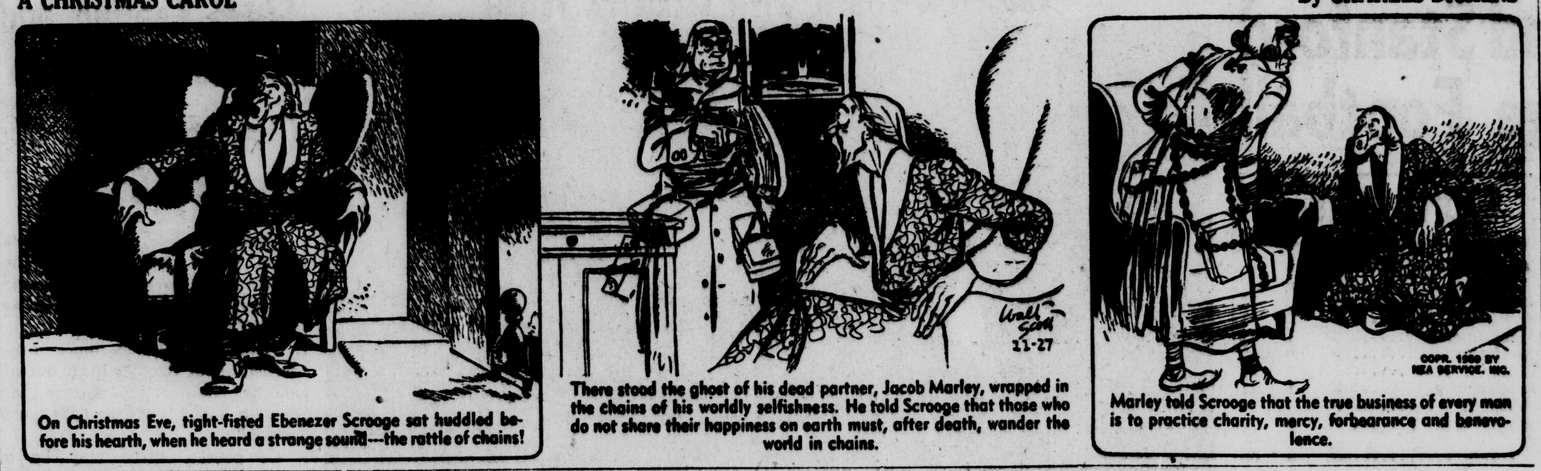

The occupation statute revisions are still officially secret, but German newspapers have been predicting for weeks that they will prove disappointing to the German public.

The Germans have been campaigning for more sweeping repeal of Allied powers. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer feels his campaign for German contribution to European defense has been injured by retention of the occupation based on conquest.

The Allies will keep the right to take back any powers they have granted the Germans if they consider it necessary for security, to preserve a democratic government, or to carry out international agreements of the three occupation powers.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By CHARLES DICKENS

On Christmas Eve, tight-fisted Ebenezer Scrooge sat huddled before his hearth, when he heard a strange sound—the rattle of chains!

There stood the ghost of his dead partner, Jacob Marley, wrapped in the chains of his worldly selfishness. He told Scrooge that those who do not share their happiness on earth must, after death, wander the world in chains.

Marley told Scrooge that the true business of every man is to practice charity, mercy, forbearance and benevolence.

Johnson Proposes of his foreign policy views by the Toledo Blade.

Hendrickson was one of the "liberal, progressive and international-minded senators" to whom the Blade addressed an open letter contending that Taft's election victory in Ohio did no represent a repudiation of administration foreign foreign policies. Taft said he thought the newspaper represented only its own views.

With the Republican attack on foreign policies in mind, Senator Johnson told a reporter he believes realistic two-party cooperation on international affairs could be achieved if a commission of six Democrats and six Republicans were set up to advise the President.

"The members of this commission should be chosen by their parties and not the President," Johnson said. "They ought to represent the thinking of their parties. It ought to be a continuous commission, carrying over elections, so that we would have a permanent foreign policy and other nations would know where we stand at all times."

Missionary Air Victims To Remain in Icy Tomb

Moran, Wyo., Nov. 27 (AP)—The eight children and 13 adults aboard the missionary plane which crashed into Mount Moran last Tuesday will remain in their icy tomb far above Timberline until spring.

That's the decision of mountain climbers and aviation experts. They feel attempts to remove anything from the charred wreckage of the DC-3 would only endanger more lives.

"Everything humanly possible has been done," according to the Rev. Ivan E. Olson of North Platte, Nebr.

Olsen represented the New Tribes Mission at search headquarters here. The plane was en route, with mission workers, from Chico, Calif., to Billings, Mont., when it struck the peak.

H. W. Taber Dies

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 27 (AP)—Henry W. Taber, 91, vice president of Merchants National Bank since 1924, died Saturday. A native of New Rochelle, N. Y., he came to New Bedford at the age of 17 and became a carriage maker. He was associated with the bank 64 years.

Elks to Initiate Anniversary Class

Kingston Lodge No. 550, B. P. O. E., will initiate a class of candidates to be known as the "Fiftieth Anniversary Class" at the lodge rooms Thursday, Nov. 30, at 8 p. m.

The ceremony is part of the Golden Jubilee Anniversary program that will feature numerous special nights during the next several days.

An informal dance and entertainment is scheduled on Friday, Dec. 1, for Elks and guests, at 10 p. m. A high class floor show has been booked for that night and a buffet supper will conclude the program.

On Saturday, Dec. 2, a buffet supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. to be followed by a brief 50th anniversary ceremony, with past and present Grand Lodge and State Association officers in attendance.

The jubilee will close with the annual memorial services on Sunday, Dec. 3, at 8 p. m.

A petition granting life membership to Peter Barmann Jr., a 50-year member, will be acted on at the Nov. 30 meeting.

Notre Dame, Cornell and Stanford Major Flops of College Football

Princeton, Kentucky Biggest Surprises

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—What a difference two months can make!

Remember the start of the college football season at the end of September?

Notre Dame was going to rule the roost nationally. . . . Cornell was to take the Ivy League championship. . . . Stanford was the class of the West coast. Now that the season is practically over, it doesn't seem possible that anyone could see the picture that way.

Some of the early season predictions did come true, though. Michigan was thought to be the best team in the Big 10. It was a mighty close squeak, but the Wolverines made it and today were expected to be tapped officially for the trip to the Rose Bowl.

On the West coast, the champion California Bears were regarded as also-rans behind Stanford and Southern California but Pappy Waldorf is not a man to take the experts seriously, so his team too, is expected to be tapped today for the Rose Bowl.

Texas was loaded and everybody knew it. The Longhorns did not disappoint even though Southern Methodist went to the top of the heap in the early stages of the season. But now, after losing three of their last four games, the Mustangs are just about out of the running for any bowl consideration.

And who would have thought Princeton would finish its season unbeaten and untied? The Tigers won the Ivy League championship and there is a suspicion in many quarters that they could give any team in the nation a battle.

Kentucky Moves Up

Before hostilities started, Tennessee was regarded behind only Notre Dame, Army and Michigan. Kentucky was way down the list. The Vols were all but forgotten until Kentucky sold them short Saturday. The moral of that one is never let Bob Neyland's team get a lead on you.

Well, that's how it went right down the line . . . high pre-season expectations ground into the turf . . . teams that were expected to do nothing, rising into the clouds.

With only a smattering of games left next Saturday, four major teams remained unbeaten and untied — Princeton, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Army. All have nine victories except Army which has eight. The season is over for Princeton and Wyoming, while Army still must tangle with Navy Saturday and Oklahoma must get past Oklahoma A. and M.

In addition to the Rose Bowl, the combatants in only one other major bowl—the Cotton—are selected. They will be Texas and Tennessee. Kentucky has accepted an invitation to the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, but its opponent won't be known until Oklahoma writes finish on the season's business. The Sooners probably will be there come Jan. 1, though.

Louis Comeback Starts Wednesday

Chicago, Nov. 27 (AP) — Former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis may be wondering about a few other things in his fresh comeback start against Cesar Brion here Wednesday night, but certainly not about busting his pocket with the purse.

The sponsoring International Boxing Club admits that 10,000 may be a big crowd for the 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium which will be both televised and broadcast with local station participation.

A $50,0000 gate is the optimistic expectations of the IBC which has scaled the seats from $2.50 to $9.75, a fair bite considering the fact that Louis already has flubbed the comeback that counted.

That was against Ezzard Charles last September when the sharp-punching Cincinnati titleholder gave Joe a stinging boxing lesson in their New York championship bout.

Joe is down for a 37½ per cent take of the net receipts against Argentine Brion, a strong but crude lad of 192 pounds whose stand-up style should give Louis some good target practice. Brion gets a 22½ per cent slice of the net.

Manny Seamon, Joe's trainer, predicts Louis will stop his Cordoba, Argentina, foe in two rounds. It figures that way, Brion being no Charles when it comes to style in the ring.

If Louis brushes aside Brion, as expected, the build-up for another crack at Charles will include meeting Lee Oma in Detroit and Rocky Marciano in New York.

World's record for the standing high jump is held by the kangaroo. It can leap as high as seven feet when frightened.

KINGSTON YOUTH WITH MARIETTA FROSH

Maroon Future Book Lists Fair Prospects for '51 Grid Season

Carpino Top Returnee In New Backfield

While Kingston High School students and alumni hailed the Maroon's triumphant, unbeaten season and fifth outright DUSO football flag, Coach Bill Burke, and his good bower, Russ Cunningham, scanned the future book for 1951 prospects.

The long range prediction is that Burke will come up with a representative squad next season.

Modica Okay

Modica suffered a recurrence of a leg injury he sustained in the first Newburgh game early in Thursday's fray and was removed from action in the first period. His condition was reported.

..Strobel, Kozlowski and Al Carpino bounced across the N.F.A. goal line for the three Kingston TDs and this trio, along with Lee Jackson and Harold Acker was pounding goalward at the end of the half and the ball game.

Coach Burke said it was a "team victory" in every sense of the word.

"We felt we could beat Newburgh in the showdown," the Maroon mentor said, "and the team was 'up' for this one."

Kingston's statistical superiority was overwhelming, the rock-ribbed Maroon defense—a Burke-Cunningham trademark — restricting the Goldbacks to a couple of first downs and a net gain of 50 yards rushing.

The Maroon throttled N.F.A. vaunted aerial arm by the oldest and most effective method known —rushing the passer off his feet. The three aerials that Sam Leghorn was able to unleash were wobbly and unsteady and two were intercepted. One was completed behind the line of scrimmage for a loss of two yards.

Carpino Returns

Carpino, a brilliant runner against N.F.A., shapes up as the climax runner for 1951. He picked up more than 100 yards against Newburgh and several times narrowly missed going all the way.

Supporting Carpino will be Pat Manfro, Jim Ferraro, a good passer and kicker; "Chubby" Massa, a superb runner who at the moment is the best punter on the squad, Don Murphy, "Nippy" Jones and Jack Brown.

Frank Fiore and Charlie Tiano are the probable first string ends, with Harry Craft also in the running. Fiore, a stalwart defensive player, may also see action as a defensive back. He intercepted a pass against Middletown and made a long runback.

Johnny Barmann, Bill Engle, a 14-year-old who had to sit a year on the bench because of the eligibility rule, and John Myers should furnish adequate protection at the tackles. Al Kurdt is the only guard returnee, although Chris Rienzo can play guard or center.

Hinkley at Center

Bruce "Red" Hinkley, a tower of strength in the middle of the Maroon line will be back to reclaim his varsity position.

"The team should have fair balance and good running power," Burke said. "We are somewhat better off than in some years in bringing up reserve material and, of course, in the final anaylsis everything will depend on how these prospects develop."

Recreations Launch O-S Season Tonight

Kingston's representatives in the Orange-Sullivan Basketball League—the Recreations—launch the 1950-51 season tonight against the defending champion Middletown Royals at the municipal auditorium at 9 o'clock.

The Middletown roster has not been announced but the individual star is the well known Fritz Mueller, outstanding player in last year's Y.M.C.A. tournament and a topflight scorer in the O-S loop.

The 10-man Kingston roster as announced by Manager Andy Murphy lists by uniform number: (1) "Champ" Holstein; (2) Bill Klein; (3) George Holstein; (4) Ward Dunham; (5) Doug Mathers; (6) Bob Murray; (7) Eric Goercke; (8) Frank Sass; (9) Vince Peck; (10) Fred Parslow.

The Recreation B's will meet a local quintet in the prelim at 7:45 p. m.

Conservation Officials Rooting for Bumper Doe Killing on November 30

Must Slay 25,000 to Keep Balance

Albany, Nov. 27—Conservation Department officials were keeping fingers crossed that November 30 would be a bright warm day—comfortable for deer hunters. That's the day set aside in 24 western and central New York counties for the harvesting of antlerless deer, now too abundant in many areas for what game technicians said was the best interests of the dear. The regular buck season in those countries began Nov. 24 and continues through the 30th, except Sunday.

If bad weather reduces the number of hunters afield, the take of antlerless deer next Thursday will be insufficient to solve what the department calls a triple-threat deer problem, Commissioner Perry B. Duryea explained. There are, he said, too many deer to raise certain agricultural crops productively; too many for the natural range to support without ruining the range and just plain too many excess female deer. "After all," he pointed out, "nature produces them on a 50-50 basis—one buck fawn for every doe—yet for the most part we take only the bucks."

Need 25,000 Doe

Asked how many antlerless deer should be harvested to result in the necessary herd reduction, game technicians said 25,000, provided they are taken mostly from the 14 counties which were not open to the taking of antlerless deer in 1948. And then, they added, the problem only would be solved "for the time being."

So overbalanced has the deer herd become that the Conservation Department is opening most of the previously taboo portions of its Connecticut Hill Game Management Area in Tompkins county plus about 3,000 acres on Howland Island around the state game farm (where deer hunting, under free permit obtainable at the bridge entrance, will not begin until 9 a. m. each of the six days of the Cayuga county season). Also, most of Letchworth State Park on the Genesee river will be open, but for Nov. 30 only.

Meantime department officials warned that the special buck or doe license is required to hunt deer at any time during the six-day season in the 24 counties involved. The regular big game license is valid only in the outside deer areas of the Adirondacks, where the season ended Nov. 25, the Catskills where it winds up Nov. 30 and in Oneida south of the N. Y. Central tracks and in Madison, where the season for bucks only also ends Nov. 30. Regardless of the sex of the deer or the kind of license used, one deer only may be taken.

First air speed record was established in 1906 by Santos Dumont, a Frenchman, who flew 25 miles an hour.

Bears Shatter Rams' Streak

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — The Chicago Bears, a ruthless gang of gridiron killers, are on the loose again!

Once more the "Monsters of the Midway" are staging open warfare on National Football League teams. They've brutally smashed their way into the National Conference penthouse—and it looks as if they're going to pick up the lease.

The Bears stomped on Los Angeles, 24 to 14, yesterday, and not only ended the Rams' six-game winning streak, but dropped them into second place.

The American Conference battle also continued to rage as the New York Giants upset the Philadelphia Eagles, 7 to 3, to tie Cleveland's idle Browns for the lead.

The Rams (8-3) conclude their season against Green Bay Sunday, while the Bears (8-2) still have the Chicago Cardinals and Detroit Lions left. So the Los Angeles cause is not completely hopeless.

It's much the same with the Giants and Browns, both sporting 8-2 records with two games to play. Philadelphia gets that long-awaited crack at the Brownies in Cleveland Sunday, while the Giants entertain their cross-town rivals, the Yankees. Then the Giants play the Eagles in Philadelphia and the Browns visit Washington.

In other games, which had no bearing on the divisional races, the Green Bay Packers edged San Francisco, 25-21, and Washington outlasted Baltimore, 38-28.

Steve Keating and Mike Rienzo Have Successful Season at St. Lawrence U.

Canton, Nov. 27—Two Kingston athletes, Steve Keating and Mike Rienzo, were members of this year's unbeaten and untied St. Lawrence University football team, and each has an important place in Coach Paul E. Patten's plans for the future at S.L.U. Both Keating and Rienzo are sophomores.

Rienzo, a rugged, stocky fullback who also plays basketball and baseball, was slated in September for a regular spot in the Larry defensive backfield, but an injury in practice put him on the bench, and he was unable to return to action until late in the season. He gave a good account of himself in a number of games, and should be ready for full time duty, either on offense or defense, in 1951.

Keating Clicks

Keating, an offensive halfback, had the misfortune to be understudy to such indestructible aces as John Yannes, who ranks second in the nation in rushing gains and who never lost a minute because of injury, and Bobby Reyell, who rolled up 614 yards. Keating, however, has one distinction; his average was the best on the team. Carrying the ball only three times, he gained 43 yards and scored once on a dazzling 37 yard run in the Clarkson game. That run is still the talk of Brewe Field House, and it assured Keating of an inside track for a starting job next year.

Rienzo is now out for varsity basketball and has an excellent chance of remaining with the squad, despite his lack of height. He is only five feet ten inches tall. He was a steady, dependable performer with last year's freshman team and is working out daily with the varsity. The Larries will play Army at West Point on Dec. 16.

Charles-Barone Bout Will Go On

Cincinnati, Nov. 27 (AP)—Schools close. More snow falls. Still the Ezzard Charles-Nick Barone heavyweight title fight goes on as scheduled tomorrow.

With Ohio much more concerned about digging itself out of another snowfall, the powers that be determined that "the fight must go on."

Of course, there may be a change of heart today when the boys scan the snow-covered highways leading to the Cincinnati Garden, some nine miles from downtown Cincinnati. Managers and promoters are due to survey the site in autos with skid chains.

This city, built on seven hills, still battled to free itself from the icy clutches of winter yesterday as the two battlers wound up training.

Charles, making his first home start as champion in Cincinnati's first heavyweight title bout, zipped through seven fast rounds at his own gym. They said he looked great, weighing 184 pounds. That was his weight when he whipped Joe Louis in New York, Sept. 27.

Sam Becker, the daring promoter who still hopes to salvage a payday for all concerned, said last night he would go through with the battle. Earlier in the day he wanted to postpone it until Dec. 5. He knows all about the snow because he had to tunnel out of his Fort Thomas, Kentucky home.

There was a period of wild confusion while Jake Mintz, Charles' voluble (and sometimes valuable) manager, dissented.

"We want to go through with the fight if it's only for 16 cents," shouted Jake. Mintz finally won his point and Becker changed his mind.

Tom Tannas, Ezzy's co-manager, was more subdued. "Postponements are no good," he said. "They always hurt the gate."

The "gate" is strictly a guessing contest. Becker said he had "about $30,000" in advance sale but added "not all the tickets are paid for." Best guess around here is that a gross gate of $30,000 will be most acceptable.

Final Games Set In Autumn Loop

The schedule for the final week of play in the Y Autumn Basketball League follows:

Tuesday, Nov. 28

Notre Dame was going to rule the roost nationally. . . . Cornell was to take the Ivy League championship. . . . Stanford was the class of the West coast. Now that the season is practically over, it doesn't seem possible that anyone could see the picture that way.

Some of the early season predictions did come true, though. Michigan was thought to be the best team in the Big 10. It was a mighty close squeak, but the Wolverines made it and today were expected to be tapped officially for the trip to the Rose Bowl.

On the West coast, the champion California Bears were regarded as also-rans behind Stanford and Southern California but Pappy Waldorf is not a man to take the experts seriously, so his team too, is expected to be tapped today for the Rose Bowl.

Texas was loaded and everybody knew it. The Longhorns did not disappoint even though Southern Methodist went to the top of the heap in the early stages of the season. But now, after losing three of their last four games, the Mustangs are just about out of the running for any bowl consideration.

Kentucky Moves Up

Before hostilities started, Tennessee was regarded behind only Notre Dame, Army and Michigan. Kentucky was way down the list. The Vols were all but forgotten until Kentucky sold them short Saturday. The moral of that one is never let Bob Neyland's team get a lead on you.

Well, that's how it went right down the line . . . high pre-season expectations ground into the turf . . . teams that were expected to do nothing, rising into the clouds.

With only a smattering of games left next Saturday, four major teams remained unbeaten and untied — Princeton, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Army. All have nine victories except Army which has eight. The season is over for Princeton and Wyoming, while Army still must tangle with Navy Saturday and Oklahoma must get past Oklahoma A. and M.

In addition to the Rose Bowl, the combatants in only one other major bowl—the Cotton—are selected. They will be Texas and Tennessee. Kentucky has accepted an invitation to the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, but its opponent won't be known until Oklahoma writes finish on the season's business. The Sooners probably will be there come Jan. 1, though.

Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.—Emory and Henry vs. opponent to be named Tuesday.

December 9

Presidential Cup at College Park, Md. — Texas A&M vs. Georgia.

KINGSTON YOUTH WITH MARIETTA FROSH

Robert A. Feldman, second from left, has completed his season as tackle on the Marietta College freshman football squad. With him were three other New Yorkers on the Marietta team which played intercollegiate games against Ohio University and Muskingum College. At Feldman's left is Lee Porter, Penfield N. Y.; and to his right Ernie Anderson, Thornwood, and Joe Marques, Briarcliff Manor. Young Feldman, who weighs 172 pounds, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Feldman of Kingston. (Marietta College Photo)

Maroon Future Book Lists Fair Prospects for '51 Grid Season

Carpino Top Returnee In New Backfield

While Kingston High School students and alumni hailed the Maroon's triumphant, unbeaten season and fifth outright DUSO football flag, Coach Bill Burke, and his good bower, Russ Cunningham, scanned the future book for 1951 prospects.

The long range prediction is that Burke will come up with a representative squad next season.

Modica Okay

Modica suffered a recurrence of a leg injury he sustained in the first Newburgh game early in Thursday's fray and was removed from action in the first period. His condition was reported.

..Strobel, Kozlowski and Al Carpino bounced across the N.F.A. goal line for the three Kingston TDs and this trio, along with Lee Jackson and Harold Acker was pounding goalward at the end of the half and the ball game.

Coach Burke said it was a "team victory" in every sense of the word.

"We felt we could beat Newburgh in the showdown," the Maroon mentor said, "and the team was 'up' for this one."

Kingston's statistical superiority was overwhelming, the rock-ribbed Maroon defense—a Burke-Cunningham trademark — restricting the Goldbacks to a couple of first downs and a net gain of 50 yards rushing.

The Maroon throttled N.F.A. vaunted aerial arm by the oldest and most effective method known —rushing the passer off his feet. The three aerials that Sam Leghorn was able to unleash were wobbly and unsteady and two were intercepted. One was completed behind the line of scrimmage for a loss of two yards.

Carpino Returns

Carpino, a brilliant runner against N.F.A., shapes up as the climax runner for 1951. He picked up more than 100 yards against Newburgh and several times narrowly missed going all the way.

Supporting Carpino will be Pat Manfro, Jim Ferraro, a good passer and kicker; "Chubby" Massa, a superb runner who at the moment is the best punter on the squad, Don Murphy, "Nippy" Jones and Jack Brown.

Frank Fiore and Charlie Tiano are the probable first string ends, with Harry Craft also in the running. Fiore, a stalwart defensive player, may also see action as a defensive back. He intercepted a pass against Middletown and made a long runback.

Johnny Barmann, Bill Engle, a 14-year-old who had to sit a year on the bench because of the eligibility rule, and John Myers should furnish adequate protection at the tackles. Al Kurdt is the only guard returnee, although Chris Rienzo can play guard or center.

Hinkley at Center

Bruce "Red" Hinkley, a tower of strength in the middle of the Maroon line will be back to reclaim his varsity position.

"The team should have fair balance and good running power," Burke said. "We are somewhat better off than in some years in bringing up reserve material and, of course, in the final anaylsis everything will depend on how these prospects develop."

Recreations Launch O-S Season Tonight

Kingston's representatives in the Orange-Sullivan Basketball League—the Recreations—launch the 1950-51 season tonight against the defending champion Middletown Royals at the municipal auditorium at 9 o'clock.

The Middletown roster has not been announced but the individual star is the well known Fritz Mueller, outstanding player in last year's Y.M.C.A. tournament and a topflight scorer in the O-S loop.

The 10-man Kingston roster as announced by Manager Andy Murphy lists by uniform number: (1) "Champ" Holstein; (2) Bill Klein; (3) George Holstein; (4) Ward Dunham; (5) Doug Mathers; (6) Bob Murray; (7) Eric Goercke; (8) Frank Sass; (9) Vince Peck; (10) Fred Parslow.

The Recreation B's will meet a local quintet in the prelim at 7:45 p. m.

Conservation Officials Rooting for Bumper Doe Killing on November 30

Must Slay 25,000 to Keep Balance

Albany, Nov. 27—Conservation Department officials were keeping fingers crossed that November 30 would be a bright warm day—comfortable for deer hunters. That's the day set aside in 24 western and central New York counties for the harvesting of antleress deer, now too abundant in many areas for what game technicians said was the best interests of the dear. The regular buck season in those countries began Nov. 24 and continues through the 30th, except Sunday.

If bad weather reduces the number of hunters afield, the take of antlerless deer next Thursday will be insufficient to solve what the department calls a triple-threat deer problem, Commissioner Perry B. Duryea explained. There are, he said, too many deer to raise certain agricultural crops productively; too many for the natural range to support without ruining the range and just plain too many excess female deer. "After all," he pointed out, "nature produces them on a 50-50 basis—one buck fawn for every doe—yet for the most part we take only the bucks."

Need 25,000 Doe

Asked how many antlerless deer should be harvested to result in the necessary herd reduction, game technicians said 25,000, provided they are taken mostly from the 14 counties which were not open to the taking of antlerless deer in 1948. And then, they added, the problem only would be solved "for the time being."

So overbalanced has the deer herd become that the Conservation Department is opening most of the previously taboo portions of its Connecticut Hill Game Management Area in Tompkins county plus about 3,000 acres on Howland Island around the state game farm (where deer hunting, under free permit obtainable at the bridge entrance, will not begin until 9 a. m. each of the six days of the Cayuga county season). Also, most of Letchworth State Park on the Genesee river will be open, but for Nov. 30 only.

Meantime department officials warned that the special buck or doe license is required to hunt deer at any time during the six-day season in the 24 counties involved. The regular big game license is valid only in the outside deer areas of the Adirondacks, where the season ended Nov. 25, the Catskills where it winds up Nov. 30 and in Oneida south of the N. Y. Central tracks and in Madison, where the season for bucks only also ends Nov. 30. Regardless of the sex of the deer or the kind of license used, one deer only may be taken.

First air speed record was established in 1906 by Santos Dumont, a Frenchman, who flew 25 miles an hour.

Bears Shatter Rams' Streak

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — The Chicago Bears, a ruthless gang of gridiron killers, are on the loose again!

Once more the "Monsters of the Midway" are staging open warfare on National Football League teams. They've brutally smashed their way into the National Conference penthouse—and it looks as if they're going to pick up the lease.

The Bears stomped on Los Angeles, 24 to 14, yesterday, and not only ended the Rams' six-game winning streak, but dropped them into second place.

The American Conference battle also continued to rage as the New York Giants upset the Philadelphia Eagles, 7 to 3, to tie Cleveland's idle Browns for the lead.

The Rams (8-3) conclude their season against Green Bay Sunday, while the Bears (8-2) still have the Chicago Cardinals and Detroit Lions left. So the Los Angeles cause is not completely hopeless.

It's much the same with the Giants and Browns, both sporting 8-2 records with two games to play. Philadelphia gets that long-awaited crack at the Brownies in Cleveland Sunday, while the Giants entertain their cross-town rivals, the Yankees. Then the Giants play the Eagles in Philadelphia and the Browns visit Washington.

In other games, which had no bearing on the divisional races, the Green Bay Packers edged San Francisco, 25-21, and Washington outlasted Baltimore, 38-28.

Steve Keating and Mike Rienzo Have Successful Season at St. Lawrence U.

Canton, Nov. 27—Two Kingston athletes, Steve Keating and Mike Rienzo, were members of this year's unbeaten and untied St. Lawrence University football team, and each has an important place in Coach Paul E. Patten's plans for the future at S.L.U. Both Keating and Rienzo are sophomores.

Rienzo, a rugged, stocky fullback who also plays basketball and baseball, was slated in September for a regular spot in the Larry defensive backfield, but an injury in practice put him on the bench, and he was unable to return to action until late in the season. He gave a good account of himself in a number of games, and should be ready for full time duty, either on offense or defense, in 1951.

Keating Clicks

Keating, an offensive halfback, had the misfortune to be understudy to such indestructible aces as John Yannes, who ranks second in the nation in rushing gains and who never lost a minute because of injury, and Bobby Reyell, who rolled up 614 yards. Keating, however, has one distinction; his average was the best on the team. Carrying the ball only three times, he gained 43 yards and scored once on a dazzling 37 yard run in the Clarkson game. That run is still the talk of Brewe Field House, and it assured Keating of an inside track for a starting job next year.

Rienzo is now out for varsity basketball and has an excellent chance of remaining with the squad, despite his lack of height. He is only five feet ten inches tall. He was a steady, dependable performer with last year's freshman team and is working out daily with the varsity. The Larries will play Army at West Point on Dec. 16.

Charles-Barone Bout Will Go On

Cincinnati, Nov. 27 (AP)—Schools close. More snow falls. Still the Ezzard Charles-Nick Barone heavyweight title fight goes on as scheduled tomorrow.

With Ohio much more concerned about digging itself out of another snowfall, the powers that be determined that "the fight must go on."

Of course, there may be a change of heart today when the boys scan the snow-covered highways leading to the Cincinnati Garden, some nine miles from downtown Cincinnati. Managers and promoters are due to survey the site in autos with skid chains.

This city, built on seven hills, still battled to free itself from the icy clutches of winter yesterday as the two battlers wound up training.

Charles, making his first home start as champion in Cincinnati's first heavyweight title bout, zipped through seven fast rounds at his own gym. They said he looked great, weighing 184 pounds. That was his weight when he whipped Joe Louis in New York, Sept. 27.

Sam Becker, the daring promoter who still hopes to salvage a payday for all concerned, said last night he would go through with the battle. Earlier in the day he wanted to postpone it until Dec. 5. He knows all about the snow because he had to tunnel out of his Fort Thomas, Kentucky home.

There was a period of wild confusion while Jake Mintz, Charles' voluble (and sometimes valuable) manager, dissented.

"We want to go through with the fight if it's only for 16 cents," shouted Jake. Mintz finally won his point and Becker changed his mind.

Tom Tannas, Ezzy's co-manager, was more subdued. "Postponements are no good," he said. "They always hurt the gate."

The "gate" is strictly a guessing contest. Becker said he had "about $30,000" in advance sale but added "not all the tickets are paid for." Best guess around here is that a gross gate of $30,000 will be most acceptable.

Final Games Set In Autumn Loop

The schedule for the final week of play in the Y Autumn Basketball League follows:

Tuesday, Nov. 28

"A" Division

Bowling

Rudy Hohenberger was back in his familiar role as leader of the Kingston Youth League with a 304 double, Saturday on the Bowlatorium drives. Rudy put together a pair of 152 solos to lead the pack by a wide margin.

Runnerup was J. Houghtaling with 157-262. Other top scorers: R. Weishaupt 134-100-234; C. Bunse 117-115-232; Johnny Lowe, Jr., 124-108-232; R. Peck 117-110-227; J. Gunter 124-90; R. Ferraro 113-97-209; T. Grimaldi 124-83-207 D. Ashdown 104-102-206.

Herb Williams was the individual scoring leader in the Y American Mercantile circuit with 200-189-192-581. Other keglers who rolled into the "500" bracket were Jack Raible 510; Al Bruce 508; Hank Grube 504 and Tom Rowland 503. Near-misses included Larry Jordan 221-497; and Ed Bock 492.

Bowlatorium Mixed keglers produced 14 triples of "500" or better, with Clarence Studt's 180-211-174-565 taking down first place. Runnerup was John North with 204-555, while other good pinfall was credited to Bill Schabot with 539; D. Whalen 535; Charlie Horne 537; Steve Leone 209-533; John Covey 529; E. Esposito 206-519; P. Sior 519; C. Backman 515; F. Zimmerman 204-511; V. Burns 502; Betty Helmbold 501 and Paul Khederian 500.

The Ace, J. S. Ferraro, finally struggled to a leading position in the Bowlodrome Major, his 169-204-218-591 effort topping last night's parade. Frank "Boots" Leskie was the runnerup with 201-583 and Jim Healey posted 204-550. Other top counts: Bill Lawrence 542; Bill Murray 209-532; Barney Rosinski 530; H. Schussler 522; Richard Howard 519; Sue Heins 516 (tops for the distaff department); Pete Nagy 511; F. Schussler 510, Ada Markle 509 and Len Freer 504.

Miron Lumber Sweeps Three

Miron Lumber and Elston Sport Shop scored three-game sweeps in Hudson Valley League bowling competition Sunday, the Lumberjacks tripping Port Jervis and Elstons scoring a major upset against the Fogg-Nash keglers on the Bridge City drives.

Charlie Manfro led Miron Lumber with 215-592 as they hit 1005-2806. Charlie Grunenwald posted 215-588; Ken Joseph 210 and Larry Weishaupt 206. Best Port score was Lou Dipipi's 207-546.

New Paltz Alleys knocked off the Ruzzo Bowlatorium three straight, with Palamidas reeling off 158-212-227-587; Jim Altopedi 210-202-598, Jackie Altamore's 525 paced Ruzzo's.

Middletown Bennetts won the odd set from Adirondack Trailways, piling up a 1074 blast in the middle game. Ralph Smith anchored the Bennetts with 243-214-165-622. Johnny Ellis and Zimmer each had 233s. Johnny Ferraro led the Trailways with 204-204-593; Fred Rice posted 201-204-573 and Hank Kemmerer shot 220-559.

Elstons caught Fogg-Nash on one of their worst days, the Bridge City trundlers posting only 2515. Joe Schrowang clipped 221-594 to pace the Elstons. The best F-N score was Jerry Tenhope's 534.

New Unicorn Evidence

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The fabled unicorn of medieval art and legend wasn't strictly a produce of the imagination, the Smithsonian Institution said today. Evidence uncovered by Dr. Richard Ettinghausen and newly published under Smithsonian sponsorship, it said, strongly indicate that the unicorn stemmed from "the one-horned rhinoceros of India whose form became weirdly distorted in reports from travelers." The unicorn was variously pictured as a one-horned cow, lion, horse and antelope. Sometimes it had wings.

U. S. Highway 66 passes through an ancient lava flow in western New Mexico, between the cities of Albuquerque and Gallup.

Free Swim Meets Scheduled at Y

A free swimming instruction program for all boys from eight years through high school age will start at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday, December 1, at 3:45 p. m., it was annouced today.

All boys in Kingston and vicinity are eligible for the free instructions.

Lou Schafer and Clarence "Chick" Corell, two expert swimming instructors, will supervise the program.

All boys interested in the free swimming instructions should register at the Y this week. Y membership is not required. All that a boy needs is a towel. Parents are urged to enroll their children for the classes by calling the Y, 1100, or at the registry desk in the main lobby of the Y building on Broadway.

Week-End Sports

(By The Associated Press)

Boston — Browning Ross of Philadelphia's Penn A.C. won the A.A.U. National Individual cross country title and the New York A.C. won the team championship.

New York—Seton Hall won the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate Conference cross country championship as Donald Shanks finished first in a driving rain.

San Mateo, Calif.—Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., won A.A.A. National 150-mile auto racing championship.

Tucson, Ariz.—Johnny Bulla, of Phoenix, won Arizona Open golf tourney with 54-hole total of 210.

Winter Haven, Fla.—Dick Pope, Jr., Rollins College, won overall men's championship in International Water Ski tournament.

Cornhusker Back Yardage Leader

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Bobby Reynolds, the hard-charging halfback of Nebraska's Cornhuskers, is college football's 1950 individual scoring champion with a remarkable 157 points for nine games.

The sophomore sensation wound up season play Saturday by romping to three touchdowns and kicking five extra points in the game Nebraska lost to powerful Oklahoma, 49-35.

Reynolds thus regained the scoring leadership he temporarily lost a week earlier to Carl Taseff, fullback at John Carroll University. On that Saturday, Taseff replaced Bobby on top by crashing over for four touchdowns while Reynolds got only one and a pair of conversions. That left Taseff with 138 points for a completed 10-game season. Reynolds had 134, with only the Oklahoma game left.

Third place in season standing goes to Wilford (Whizzer) White, who wound up his college career by scorir five touchdowns Saturday night when he led Arizona State (Tempe) to a 48-21 triumph over University of Idaho. Whizzer finished with 136 points.

The best showing made by a major college player other than Reynolds was that of tailback Eddie Talbloom of Wyoming, who was fourth with 130 points. He helped the Cowboys close out their first perfect season on Thanksgiving Day, booming to three touchdowns and six conversions in a 42-12 rout of Denver.

Olympic Sledder Dies

Lake Placid, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—J. Hubert Stevens, Olympic bob sledder and former superintendent of the Whiteface Mountain Highway Commission, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home. He was 60.

Deer Steals Gun To Man's Chagrin

Manistique, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP)—This deer really outsmarted the hunter. He stole his gun.

Harry G. Thompson and Charles F. Massey, both of Grand Rapids, Mich., were hunting Sunday north of this upper Michigan city. Massey brought down a buck.

As they approached the animal, Thompson noticed it was still kicking and thought he had better shoot it in the head.

So Thompson laid his rifle on the deer's antlers and got out his knife to slit the throat.

But the buck snorted, jumped up and dashed deep into the forest—bearing the gun aloft.

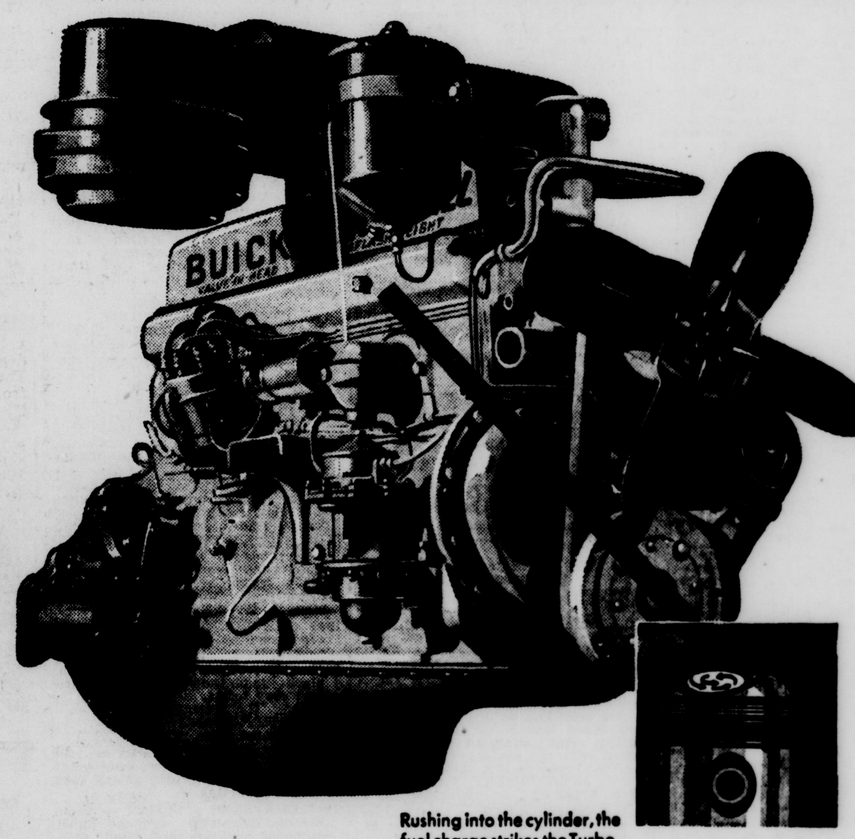

Job Placement Record

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Public employment service offices placed 2,200,000 persons in jobs in October, a new monthly record, Robert C. Goodwin, defense manpower director, reported this today. He said the October placements were 28 per cent higher than September's and a fourth greater than in October 1949. An unusually high number of agricultural job placements, 1,616,000, because of favorable farming weather was the reason for the big jump.

SPRY AND MIGHTY POWER PLANT

Rushing into the cylinder, the fuel charge strikes the Turbo Top piston—swirls into a tiny cyclone of terrific turbulence that gives a mighty power-push to the ignited fuel.

HERE you behold the up-to-the-minute version of a high-compression engine that has taught a whole industry something about fuel efficiency.

Fact is, Buick pioneered the deep-breathing valve-in-head engine 47 years ago—and thus blazed a trail that aircraft engines—and more recently automobile engines—have followed

But don't let that ancient lineage fool you.

Today's Buick engine is not simply a valve-in-head. It's a Fireball—which means that it uses fuel-saving, power-peaking principles that are found in no other motorcar on America's highways.

This is all very well," you say, "but what does it do for me?"

Mister, that's what we'd like to show you.

Come settle yourself at the graceful Buick wheel. Gently press the handy gas treadle—and feel this spry and mighty motor come to life.

Then head for the open road, and discover what a whale of a lot of fun it can be to have Fireballs under your hood.

Better come in soon, and get acquainted with the engine—and the automobile—that have won more than 200,000 owners of other cars to 1950 Buicks.

TURBO-TOP piston heads roll the incoming charge of fuel into a whirling "Fireball"

HI-POISED MOUNTINGS cradle the engine for smoother action

FLEX-FIT RINGS snug up against cylinder walls, increase oil economy

DUREX BEARINGS provide unsurpassed bearing life

FLITEWEIGHT PISTONS combine lightness with hardness and strength

Jones Dairy Wins Over Trailways

Jones Dairy rolled 2882 to capture two games from Adirondack Trailways in a Mid-Hudson Classic League match Saturday at the Bowlatorium.

The Trailways won the opener, 928 to 925, but the Dairymen rallied with 972 and 985 for wide margins in the next two sets.

Ad Jones hit 190-225-199-614 for the winners. Randy Kelder posted 213-206-586; Bill Kuehn 203-222-584. High man for Trailways was Hank Kemmerer with 526.

New Unicorn Evidence

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The fabled unicorn of medieval art and legend wasn't strictly a produce of the imagination, the Smithsonian Institution said today. Evidence uncovered by Dr. Richard Ettinghausen and newly published under Smithsonian sponsorship, it said, strongly indicate that the unicorn stemmed from "the one-horned rhinoceros of India whose form became weirdly distorted in reports from travelers." The unicorn was variously pictured as a one-horned cow, lion, horse and antelope. Sometimes it had wings.

Free Swim Meets Scheduled at Y

A free swimming instruction program for all boys from eight years through high school age will start at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday, December 1, at 3:45 p. m., it was annouced today.

All boys in Kingston and vicinity are eligible for the free instructions.

Lou Schafer and Clarence "Chick" Corell, two expert swimming instructors, will supervise the program.

All boys interested in the free swimming instructions should register at the Y this week. Y membership is not required. All that a boy needs is a towel. Parents are urged to enroll their children for the classes by calling the Y, 1100, or at the registry desk in the main lobby of the Y building on Broadway.

Week-End Sports

(By The Associated Press)

Boston — Browning Ross of Philadelphia's Penn A.C. won the A.A.U. National Individual cross country title and the New York A.C. won the team championship.

New York—Seton Hall won the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate Conference cross country championship as Donald Shanks finished first in a driving rain.

San Mateo, Calif.—Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., won A.A.A. National 150-mile auto racing championship.

Tucson, Ariz.—Johnny Bulla, of Phoenix, won Arizona Open golf tourney with 54-hole total of 210.

Winter Haven, Fla.—Dick Pope, Jr., Rollins College, won overall men's championship in International Water Ski tournament.

Cornhusker Back Yardage Leader

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Bobby Reynolds, the hard-charging halfback of Nebraska's Cornhuskers, is college football's 1950 individual scoring champion with a remarkable 157 points for nine games.

The sophomore sensation wound up season play Saturday by romping to three touchdowns and kicking five extra points in the game Nebraska lost to powerful Oklahoma, 49-35.

Reynolds thus regained the scoring leadership he temporarily lost a week earlier to Carl Taseff, fullback at John Carroll University. On that Saturday, Taseff replaced Bobby on top by crashing over for four touchdowns while Reynolds got only one and a pair of conversions. That left Taseff with 138 points for a completed 10-game season. Reynolds had 134, with only the Oklahoma game left.

Third place in season standing goes to Wilford (Whizzer) White, who wound up his college career by scoring five touchdowns Saturday night when he led Arizona State (Tempe) to a 48-21 triumph over University of Idaho. Whizzer finished with 136 points.

The best showing made by a major college player other than Reynolds was that of tailback Eddie Talbloom of Wyoming, who was fourth with 130 points. He helped the Cowboys close out their first perfect season on Thanksgiving Day, booming to three touchdowns and six conversions in a 42-12 rout of Denver.

Olympic Sledder Dies

Lake Placid, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—J. Hubert Stevens, Olympic bob sledder and former superintendent of the Whiteface Mountain Highway Commission, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home. He was 60.

Deer Steals Gun To Man's Chagrin

Manistique, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP)—This deer really outsmarted the hunter. He stole his gun.

Harry G. Thompson and Charles F. Massey, both of Grand Rapids, Mich., were hunting Sunday north of this upper Michigan city. Massey brought down a buck.

As they approached the animal, Thompson noticed it was still kicking and thought he had better shoot it in the head.

"Don't do that," said Massey. "The head will make a fine wall piece for the cottage."

So Thompson laid his rifle on the deer's antlers and got out his knife to slit the throat.

But the buck snorted, jumped up and dashed deep into the forest—bearing the gun aloft.

Job Placement Record

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—Public employment service offices placed 2,200,000 persons in jobs in October, a new monthly record. Robert C. Goodwin, defense manpower director, reported this today. He said the October placements were 28 per cent higher than September's and a fourth greater than in October 1949. An unusually high number of agricultural job placements, 1,616,000, because of favorable farming weather was the reason for the big jump.

Miron Lumber Sweeps Three

Miron Lumber and Elston Sport Shop scored three-game sweeps in Hudson Valley League bowling competition Sunday, the Lumberjacks tripping Port Jervis and Elstons scoring a major upset against the Fogg-Nash keglers on the Bridge City drives.

Charlie Manfro led Miron Lumber with 215-592 as they hit 1005-2806. Charlie Grunenwald posted 215-588; Ken Joseph 210 and Larry Weishaupt 206. Best Port score was Lou Dipipi's 207-546.

New Paltz Alleys knocked off the Ruzzo Bowlatorium three straight, with Palamidas reeling off 158-212-227-587; Jim Altopedi 210-202-598. Jackie Altamore's 525 paced Ruzzo's.

Middletown Bennetts won the odd set from Adirondack Trailways, piling up a 1074 blast in the middle game. Ralph Smith anchored the Bennetts with 243-214-165-622. Johnny Ellis and Zimmer each had 233s. Johnny Ferraro led the Trailways with 204-204-593; Fred Rice posted 201-204-573 and Hank Kemmerer shot 220-559.

SPRY AND MIGHTY POWER PLANT

with a proud pedigree

Rushing into the cylinder, the fuel charge strikes the Turbo Top piston—swirls into a tiny cyclone of terrific turbulence that gives a mighty power-push to the ignited fuel.

HERE you behold the up-to-the-minute version of a high-compression engine that has taught a whole industry something about fuel efficiency.

Fact is, Buick pioneered the deep-breathing valve-in-head engine 47 years ago—and thus blazed a trail that aircraft engines—and more recently automobile engines—have followed

But don't let that ancient lineage fool you.

Today's Buick engine is not simply a valve-in-head. It's a Fireball—which means that it uses fuel-saving, power-peaking principles that are found in no other motorcar on America's highways.

This is all very well," you say, "but what does it do for me?"

Mister, that's what we'd like to show you.

Come settle yourself at the graceful Buick wheel. Gently press the handy gas treadle—and feel this spry and mighty motor come to life.

Then head for the open road, and discover what a whale of a lot of fun it can be to have Fireballs under your hood.

Better come in soon, and get acquainted with the engine—and the automobile—that have won more than 200,000 owners of other cars to 1950 Buicks.

No other motorcar engine can match these features

TURBO-TOP piston heads roll the incoming charge of fuel into a whirling "Fireball"

MICROPOISE BALANCING after assembly keeps Buick engines within ¼ of an "ounce-inch" of perfect balance

HI-POISED MOUNTINGS cradle the engine for smoother action

CYLINDER BLOCKS are super-precision-bored and double-honed for perfect dimensioning

FLEX-FIT RINGS snug up against cylinder walls, increase oil economy

DUREX BEARINGS provide unsurpassed bearing life

FLITEWEIGHT PISTONS combine lightness with hardness and strength

Boy's Body Found

tion during Saturday night's storm.

The boy was found as Interstate Park police, rangers, small planes, a New York city police helicopter and a number of civilians renewed their search for the youth today.

Young Hittleman, a resident of (77-10 Utopia Parkway) Flushing, Queens, had gone to the park with his father late Saturday to pick up a brother and three neighbor boys who had spent the holiday hiking there.

He left his father in the family car, hiked to the shelter where the boys were, learned they planned to stay another night, and started back.

He failed to appear, and hours later a search was launched.

His father said Hittleman was not dressed heavily enough for the freezing night temperatures.

Nazi Holdovers

Hamburg, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—A group of German men in brown shirts gave the Nazi salute yesterday at a memorial for German war dead. Observers identified them as members of the "Fatherland Union," a rightwing political group whose leader, Karl Feitenhansl, recently was banned from political activities for "neonazism." The shirts were similar to those worn by Hitler's brownshirted storm troopers.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

29 Local Artists Picked for Gotham Painting Exhibit

Woodstock, Nov. 27 — Many Woodstock artists were among the 307 whose works are to be shown in the exhibition American Painting Today — 1950, opening Dec. 8 at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They were announced by Robert Beverly Hale, associate curator of American Painting and Sculpture at the Museum. Hale said that paintings in the exhibition, chosen from a total of more than 6,000 entries submitted in a nation-wide competition, constitute a complete report on the artistic state of the Union."

"The result of a competition open to every artist in the United States, its territories and possessions," Hale said, "this exhibition represents every region of our country. Furthermore, as the juries were intent on a broad selection, it represents many trends and styles."

Hale, who served as a non-voting, advisory member of the five regional juries and the national jury of selection, believes that the exhibition "will reveal, above all, that American artists have largely forsaken their regional and even their national idiom and now speak in a universal language."

"It seems quite apparent that American painting, for the first time in history, now equals that of any other country," added Hale. "Since our comparative standing in this regard is of great cultural and some political significance, we should all strive to offer our artists continued encouragement and support."

Announcement of artists winning the exhibition's four prizes totaling $8,500, offered by the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, will be made a few days before the exhibition opens Dec. 8. Eugene Speicher, of Woodstock, is one of the three members of the jury of awards.

Woodstock artists, most of them residents here at the present time and a few who have lived here in the past, represented in the show are Samuel M. Adler, Arnold Blanch, Paul Burlin, John Carroll, Edward Chavez, Marion Greenwood, Agnes Hart, Joseph Hirsch, Wendell Jones, Leon Kroll, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Sidney Laufman, Doris Lee, Jack Levine, Eugene Ludins, Ethel Magafan, Howard Mandel, Fletcher Martin, Henry Mattson, Sigmund J. Menkes, Edward Millman, Abraham Rattner, Anton Refregier, Andree Ruellan, Eugene Speicher, Nahum Tschacbasov, Stuart Edie, Lucille Blanch and Henry Lee McFee.

Architectural Group Is Named by Wilson

Woodstock, Nov. 27—At the request of the Woodstock Civic Organization, Supervisor Kenneth Wilson has named the following committee to inquire into the matter of the type of architecture, present and proposed, which would best serve the interests of the community.

Those named were Jerry Jerominek, Woodstock Civic Organization; John Pike and David Huffine, artists; Kenneth Wilson, Woodstock Town Board; Warren Hutty, Woodstock Business Association; and Carl Cousins, secretary of the business association.

The committee will meet Wednesday at Deanie's to discuss further plans.

Barzin Conducts Youth Concert in New York

Woodstock, Nov. 27—Leon Barzin, who was heard in one of the Sunday concerts at the Maverick last summer, conducted the first concert in the fall series of the National Orchestral Association youth programs at Carnegie Hall in New York Saturday afternoon. The group gave its "Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grow" program.

According to the New York Times, "the affair was marked by an informality which had the orchestra shifting seats after every number, while a segment of the youthful audience observed from the stage under Barzin's watchful eye.

Besides members of the association orchestra four other groups participated in a program illustrating musical instruments. Students who played with the orchestra were from Hempstead High School, the Chatham Square Music School, the Greenwich House Music School and the Music School Settlement.

The second event in this series by and for young people will be devoted to music and the dance. It will take place Feb. 10.

Hydrant Is Damaged

Woodstock, Nov. 27—A slight mishap occurred last Saturday afternoon to one of the new hydrants in the Woodstock water system, located on the Bearsville road near Bark's service station. According to David Myer, superintendent of the water system, a car driven by Mrs. Harold Mellin had stopped on the road and another car driven by a Mr. Reynolds, both of Woodstock, came to a halt behind it. A third car driven by Gordon Van De Bogart swerved to avoid the cars and collided with the hydrant. The hydrant was damaged only to the extent that it will have to be reset.

Legion to Meet

Woodstock, Nov. 27—American Legion Post, 1026, will hold its regular business meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Legion Hall.

Village Notes

Mrs. Margaret R. Kenyon entertained at a large Thanksgiving dinner Thursday night. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Heermann, Mrs. Sylvia Cross, Mrs. Betty Barnes, Capt. St. John Betts of Toronto, and Mrs. Eno Compton and her son.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Underhill of Shady gave a cocktail party Saturday afternoon in honor of the sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fite.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Donald Bowman of Middlebury, Conn., spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. George Hard.

George Mard and Cornelius V. V. Sewell went today to Nassau Point, L. I., where Mr. Hard will inspect storm damage done to his home there.

Mrs. Madeline Wiltz is spending a few days in New York. She will go to Havana, Cuba for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pierpoint visited Mr. Pierpoint's parents in Woodstock during the Thanksgiving week-end. They will return to their home in Ohio this week.

Mrs. Everand Short of Wittenberg, whose leg was injured recently, is recovering in Kingston Hospital after an operation Saturday morning.

Sales Executive Dies

Hollywood, Nov. 27 (AP)—Robert Albright, 31, sales executive for the Pacific Coast Borax Co., and the son of H. N. Albright, president of the United States Potash Co., died in a hospital Friday night after surgery. The younger Albright had been ill several years. The father flew here from Santa Fe, N. M., when he learned his son was to undergo surgery. Young Albright lived in nearby Glendale and is survived by his parents of New Rochelle, N. Y.; his widow, Mary Lillian; two daughters and a sister, Mrs. Marian Ford, Old Greenwich, Conn. Funeral services will be conducted today at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale.

Wreck Is Averted

Patchogue, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—The Long Island Railroad escaped another wreck yesterday when an 18-inch piece of rail broke off as the last car of a train passed over it. Brookhaven town police said a passing motorist, Gene Sullivan, telephoned them shortly after the Montauk-bound train passed the South Country road crossing at East Patchogue, about 60 miles east of Manhattan. Police notified the railroad. Emergency crews were dispatched to the scene, repairing the break before the next train passed. Last Wednesday night, a wreck on the Long Island Railroad in New York city killed 77 persons and injured 332 others.

Some Take Advantage

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 27 (AP)—It takes a lot more than snow, winds and floods to keep some nimrods from going deer hunting. So, notwithstanding the elements, Pennsylvania's two-day antlerless deer season opened today with a good number of red-clad hunters taking advantage of it. But the large majority of hunters in the western and central sections couldn't even get out of town. They were either snowbound or hemmed in by floods.

To Postpone Fight

Cincinnati, Nov. 27 (AP)—Chairman Paul D. (Chip) Cain, announced today that the City Boxing Commission will order the Ezzard, Charles-Nick Barone heavyweight championship fight postponed. The contest is scheduled for tomorrow night.

Michigan Goes to Bowl

Chicago, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Big Ten today voted to send its newly-crowned football champion, Michigan's Wolverines, into the Rose Bowl next New Year's Day.

U.N. Offensive

blow to United Nations forces. The offensive that rolled forward for two days has been stopped cold. U.N. Troops are on the defensive after giving up most of their gains."

Reserve units of Americans, British and Turks were rushed up to bolster a sagging 30-mile eastern section of the winding 80-mile front stretching inland from the Yellow Sea. The front runs from 40 to 60 miles south of the Manchurian border.

An estimated 130,000 Reds—most of them Chinese in quilted winter uniforms—began the counter-assault late Saturday night.

Republic of Korea (ROK) troops and the U.S. Second and 25th Divisions bore the brunt of the attacks, which continued with increasing fury Sunday night.

Correspondent Leif Erickson said the American divisions stopped the second night attacks in the center of the line after earlier withdrawals of several miles.

Not Clear in East

The situation on the eastern flank, manned by the ROK Seventh, Eighth and Sixth Divisions, was not clear. Fighting withdrawals of four to 11 miles in the ROK sector were reported Sunday.

Field dispatches indicated heavy allied casualties. An indirect censorship settled over operations as a security measure.

In Tokyo, General MacArthur's spokesman said the Chinese counterblows were expected. He asserted that the U.N. offensive, which MacArthur hoped would end the war by Christmas, was halted "temporarily" but "is continuing."

The spokesman described Sunday's withdrawals as limited and added that, in any general advance, the foremost spearheads can be expected to be pushed back. That's what is happening now, he said.

But he declined to elaborate on what was meant by limited withdrawals.

Reverse Came Suddenly

Correspondent Whitehead said the "reversal in battle fortunes came with startling suddenness and the Eighth Army is battling to hold the southward surge of Red troops."

"There is no chance of offensive action on this front until the Red attack has been halted and a firm new line established," he added.

Only in the northeast were allied advances reported. But Red resistance in some sectors there was stiffening.

In the north-central sector, U. S. marines drove westward from the big Changjin power reservoir toward a Red redoubt in snow-mantled mountains.

It was too early to see whether, and to what extent, the marine drive would help U.N. forces falling back on the northwest front.

From Eighth Army headquarters, Correspondent Erickson reported at least 10 Chinese Red divisions—numbering 8,000 to 10,000 men each—were estimated on the eastern half of the northwest front.

The Reds evidently were trying to turn the entire right flank of the Eighth Army in the Tokchon area. They wrested Tokchon from the R.O.K. Seventh Division Monday. Tokchon was the main anchor of the east part of the U.N. line.

Line Is Rolled Back

An Eighth Army spokesman said U. S. First Cavalry troops, held in reserve since early November when another Red counterattack rolled back the northwest line, were rushed to bolster the R.O.K. Seventh Division.

Also moving up to the dented allied line were the British 27th Brigade and the Turkish Brigade. There was no information as to where these forces would be thrown into the battle.

A Red cavalry unit was spotted north of Chongju Monday. The 24th Division's artillery blasted at the horsemen. But no other activity, outside of patrol scouting, was reported.

On the 24th's right flank, the ROK First Division fell back two miles after heavy Red infantry attacks west of Taechon. A Ninth Corps spokesman said two air-ground control teams were lost.

Correspondent Whitehead said the Red drive in that sector and in the center of the line was aimed at Anju, allied bridgehead on the Chongchon river 20 miles to the south.

Battalion Is Cut Off

East of Taechon and five miles northwest of Kujang a battalion of the U. S. 25th Division was cut off Sunday. It was reported still isolated Monday. Attempts to air drop ammunition and supplies were called off when encircling Reds occupied the drop zone.

On the 25th Division's right flank, the U. S. Second Division pulled some elements back across the icy Chongchon river north of Kujang. AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported the division stopped the Reds and, by Monday morning, began a counterdrive toward high ground northeast of Kujang.

And on the Second Division's right flank, the South Korean Seventh and Eighth Divisions were attempting to regroup around Tokchon and at Yongwon, 13 miles to the east.

93 Sorties Are Flown

Ninety-three air sorties were flown in support of northeast troops Sunday. A spokesman said the main attack was against an important guerrilla headquarters in a tunnel 50 miles southeast of the big east coast port of Wonsan.

Allied fighters and bombers ranged over the entire width of the mountainous peninsula in support of the ground troops and to deal heavy blows to Red supply lines and staging areas.

The Far East air forces summary reported more than 260 separate targets were blasted Sunday. Tons of fire bombs, rockets and fragmentation bombs were rained on the Reds.

So heavily did light bombers hit Huichon, north of the U.N. line, that debris rose to more than 600 feet, the summary reported.

Small vehicle convoys were hit at nearly 30 places. Fifty-two vehicles, two locomotives, 24 rail cars and 28 supply dumps were destroyed.

Congress Meets

Beyond that, he said, he sees no emergency requiring action before the new congress meets in January.

Wherry called on President Truman to revise his domestic and foreign policies "to square with the results of the recent election" and submit a new program to Congress.

He put the President's request for rent control extension in the category of business that can wait.

Are Ordered to Return

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—Joe Adonis and three others accused as New Jersey gambling ringleaders were ordered today to return to New York city to face grand jury charges there. Assistant New York District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor came to New Jersey this morning to request that the four be turned over to his custody. The attorney for the four men agreed and made the formal request to the court here for permission to have them leave the state.

Boy's Body Found

tion during Saturday night's storm.

The boy was found as Interstate Park police, rangers, small planes, a New York city police helicopter and a number of civilians renewed their search for the youth today.

Young Hittleman, a resident of (77-10 Utopia Parkway) Flushing, Queens, had gone to the park with his father late Saturday to pick up a brother and three neighbor boys who had spent the holiday hiking there.

He left his father in the family car, hiked to the shelter where the boys were, learned they planned to stay another night, and started back.

He failed to appear, and hours later a search was launched.

His father said Hittleman was not dressed heavily enough for the freezing night temperatures.

Nazi Holdovers

Hamburg, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—A group of German men in brown shirts gave the Nazi salute yesterday at a memorial for German war dead. Observers identified them as members of the "Fatherland Union," a rightwing political group whose leader, Karl Feitenhansl, recently was banned from political activities for "neonazism." The shirts were similar to those worn by Hitler's brownshirted storm troopers.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

29 Local Artists Picked for Gotham Painting Exhibit

Woodstock, Nov. 27 — Many Woodstock artists were among the 307 whose works are to be shown in the exhibition American Painting Today — 1950, opening Dec. 8 at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They were announced by Robert Beverly Hale, associate curator of American Painting and Sculpture at the Museum. Hale said that paintings in the exhibition, chosen from a total of more than 6,000 entries submitted in a nation-wide competition, constitute a complete report on the artistic state of the Union."

"The result of a competition open to every artist in the United States, its territories and possessions," Hale said, "this exhibition represents every region of our country. Furthermore, as the juries were intent on a broad selection, it represents many trends and styles."

Hale, who served as a non-voting, advisory member of the five regional juries and the national jury of selection, believes that the exhibition "will reveal, above all, that American artists have largely forsaken their regional and even their national idiom and now speak in a universal language."

"It seems quite apparent that American painting, for the first time in history, now equals that of any other country," added Hale. "Since our comparative standing in this regard is of great cultural and some political significance, we should all strive to offer our artists continued encouragement and support."

Announcement of artists winning the exhibition's four prizes totaling $8,500, offered by the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, will be made a few days before the exhibition opens Dec. 8. Eugene Speicher, of Woodstock, is one of the three members of the jury of awards.

Woodstock artists, most of them residents here at the present time and a few who have lived here in the past, represented in the show are Samuel M. Adler, Arnold Blanch, Paul Burlin, John Carroll, Edward Chavez, Marion Greenwood, Agnes Hart, Joseph Hirsch, Wendell Jones, Leon Kroll, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Sidney Laufman, Doris Lee, Jack Levine, Eugene Ludins, Ethel Magafan, Howard Mandel, Fletcher Martin, Henry Mattson, Sigmund J. Menkes, Edward Millman, Abraham Rattner, Anton Refregier, Andree Ruellan, Eugene Speicher, Nahum Tschacbasov, Stuart Edie, Lucille Blanch and Henry Lee McFee.

Architectural Group Is Named by Wilson

Woodstock, Nov. 27—At the request of the Woodstock Civic Organization, Supervisor Kenneth Wilson has named the following committee to inquire into the matter of the type of architecture, present and proposed, which would best serve the interests of the community.

Those named were Jerry Jerominek, Woodstock Civic Organization; John Pike and David Huffine, artists; Kenneth Wilson, Woodstock Town Board; Warren Hutty, Woodstock Business Association; and Carl Cousins, secretary of the business association.

The committee will meet Wednesday at Deanie's to discuss further plans.

Barzin Conducts Youth Concert in New York

Woodstock, Nov. 27—Leon Barzin, who was heard in one of the Sunday concerts at the Maverick last summer, conducted the first concert in the fall series of the National Orchestral Association youth programs at Carnegie Hall in New York Saturday afternoon. The group gave its "Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grow" program.

According to the New York Times, "the affair was marked by an informality which had the orchestra shifting seats after every number, while a segment of the youthful audience observed from the stage under Barzin's watchful eye.

Besides members of the association orchestra four other groups participated in a program illustrating musical instruments. Students who played with the orchestra were from Hempstead High School, the Chatham Square Music School, the Greenwich House Music School and the Music School Settlement.

The second event in this series by and for young people will be devoted to music and the dance. It will take place Feb. 10.

Also moving up to the dented allied line were the British 27th Brigade and the Turkish Brigade. There was no information as to where these forces would be thrown into the battle.

The heavy Communist blows on the center and east flank of the line forced the U. S. 24th Division, at the west end, to throw up defensive positions north and west of Chongju.

A Red cavalry unit was spotted north of Chongju Monday. The 24th Division's artillery blasted at the horsemen. But no other activity, outside of patrol scouting, was reported.

On the 24th's right flank, the ROK First Division fell back two miles after heavy Red infantry attacks west of Taechon. A Ninth Corps spokesman said two air-ground control teams were lost.

Correspondent Whitehead said the Red drive in that sector and in the center of the line was aimed at Anju, allied bridgehead on the Chongchon river 20 miles to the south.

Battalion Is Cut Off

East of Taechon and five miles northwest of Kujang a battalion of the U. S. 25th Division was cut off Sunday. It was reported still isolated Monday. Attempts to air drop ammunition and supplies were called off when encircling Reds occupied the drop zone.

On the 25th Division's right flank, the U. S. Second Division pulled some elements back across the icy Chongchon river north of Kujang. AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported the division stopped the Reds and, by Monday morning, began a counterdrive toward high ground northeast of Kujang.

And on the Second Division's right flank, the South Korean Seventh and Eighth Divisions were attempting to regroup around Tokchon and at Yongwon, 13 miles to the east.

93 Sorties Are Flown

Ninety-three air sorties were flown in support of northeast troops Sunday. A spokesman said the main attack was against an important guerrilla headquarters in a tunnel 50 miles southeast of the big east coast port of Wonsan.

Allied fighters and bombers ranged over the entire width of the mountainous peninsula in support of the ground troops and to deal heavy blows to Red supply lines and staging areas.

The Far East air forces summary reported more than 260 separate targets were blasted Sunday. Tons of fire bombs, rockets and fragmentation bombs were rained on the Reds.

So heavily did light bombers hit Huichon, north of the U.N. line, that debris rose to more than 600 feet, the summary reported.

Small vehicle convoys were hit at nearly 30 places. Fifty-two vehicles, two locomotives, 24 rail cars and 28 supply dumps were destroyed.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Congress Meets

tax legislation and emergency appropriations.

Beyond that, he said, he sees no emergency requiring action before the new congress meets in January.

Wherry called on President Truman to revise his domestic and foreign policies "to square with the results of the recent election" and submit a new program to Congress.

He put the President's request for rent control extension in the category of business that can wait.

Are Ordered to Return

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—Joe Adonis and three others accused as New Jersey gambling ringleaders were ordered today to return to New York city to face grand jury charges there. Assistant New York District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor came to New Jersey this morning to request that the four be turned over to his custody. The attorney for the four men agreed and made the formal request to the court here for permission to have them leave the state.

Three Gangs Agree To Turn In Guns

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Three tough Brooklyn teen-age gangs have agreed to turn in their guns and knives under a court-sponsored peace plan.

The peace talk was called yesterday by Kings County Judge Samuel S. Liebowitz, who feared a vengeance killing for the death last May of 18-year-old James Fortunato, killed in a Prospect Park gang battle.

The forces of law and order were represented by the judge—who has been directing the graft-probing Brooklyn Grand Jury—the police, the district attorney's office, the Roman Catholic Church, and the Democratic Party.

On the other side were leaders of the South Brooklyn, Tigers and Gowanus gangs.

Under the bargain, the boys will go to police stations and lay down their assortment of lethal weapons. In return, the police will not make any prosecutions under the state's anti-concealed weapons law.

Two Dams Burst

at Albany reported in upstate New York suffered loss of some 58,000 phones, due to the storm. The Kingston, Newburgh, Monticello section had reported 10,280 phones out, most of this being from south of Marlborough.

In the Albany district 1,600 phones were out; in Troy 5,014; Schenectady 527 and Plattsburgh 5,018. The main damage was to service south of Ulster county.

It is believed that most of the week will be required before normal service can be restored.

Some Work Hampered

Service in the Kingston area had been practically restored to normal today by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation workmen who since 2 a. m. Saturday had been struggling to retain electric service in this area in the face of a storm which was equalled in intensity only by the hurricane of 1938.

With the exception of some isolated outlying districts lines had been restored early this morning. Above Grahamsville washed out roads hampered the work and downed poles in the Frost Valley area delayed restoration of service.

Kingston and the immediate area suffered far less damage than the territory to the south. From Marlborough south throughout the Newburgh area the full fury of the storm was felt and today crews from the Kingston area were sent to Newburgh to assist weary workmen in that section.

At the local office it was said this morning that damage had been comparatively light in the Saugerties, Woodstock and Catskill area. Most of the interruptions of electric service was caused by trees or limbs being blown over distribution lines. The main transmission lines stood up under the blow.

Plank Road Cut Off

Saturday night the Plank road section was without power for about four hours and isolated places were without current for longer periods.

When the storm broke early Saturday morning all crews were assembled and worked from 2 a. m. clearing lines. At the Central Hudson offices here it was stated the crews had been fighting storm damage to its electric distribution system from early Saturday morning and repairing damage which was equalled only by the hurricane of 1938.

Although service interruptions were probably not as many as in 1938, the difficulties were comparable. The 1938 storm was of short duration as far as damage to power lines was concerned. The extent of damage was known at once, and repairs were made in routine order, however, the long duration of the present storm with increasing and continuing damage made quick repair extremely difficult.

Service was back to about 95 per cent normal by Sunday night in this area.

Repair procedure was to restore service to hospitals, fire departments and other essential public institutions first.

Damage to high voltage transmission lines which pass over clear rights of ways was nil, the principal damage was from fallen trees and limbs on distribution lines.

Called for Emergency

Personnel from the entire Central Hudson System were called for emergency service at 2 a. m. Saturday morning, including employes of the commercial and accounting departments as well as all operation personnel. The accounting and commercial people stood guard over fallen lines, answered telephone calls and investigated damage so that the operating crews could be sent to clear lines.

During Saturday and Saturday night, the company concentrated its efforts first on cutting free all fallen electric lines which might cause injury to the public. It then worked to bring back service to disrupted areas.

Since operating crews were nearing exhaustion Saturday night, the company concentrated its efforts first on cutting free all fallen electric lines which might cause injury to the public. It then worked to bring back service to disrupted areas.

Since operating crews were nearing exhaustion Saturday night, forces were reduced to skeleton size during the dark of early Sunday morning so that crew members could get some sleep and thus retain effectiveness. All crews began work again at daybreak Sunday morning.

More Extensive Than '38

The Shandaken area—worst hit section of Ulster county—suffered damage which residents said was much more extensive than in the hurricane of 1938.

The fact that Saturday's storm occurred late in the year, after summer residents had returned to their homes, was considered a major factor in preventing loss of life or more serious injuries.

A chain of events started about 8 p. m. Saturday, when the dam broke on the Wurtsburger Pond above Pine Hill.

Water rushing down the Esopus took out the arch bridge on Route 28 at the foot of the Pine Hill mountain. It swept along, taking out the swimming pool at the Colonial Hotel, then dropped the rear end of the recreation hall of the Presbyterian Church into the creek.

The stone arch bridge at the upper end of Pine Hill was completely washed out, leaving a 40-foot gap. Water rushed down Main street in Pine Hill, flooding cellars and leaving many without heat. A water main burst, the sheriff's office reported, leaving some families without drinking water.

The stone arch bridge at the southeastern end of the village also washed away, and three other bridges were damaged so as to make them impassable.

The flood of water rushed into Funcrest Lake, breaking the 40-foot high dam at the end farthest from the highway.

With the breaking of this second dam, other bridges were taken out, including the bridge known as Garrison Bridge on the back road from Route 28 to Oliverea; the bridge near the Big Indian Methodist Church, and the Donahue Bridge.

Valley Is Isolated

The Big Indian-Oliverea valley was left isolated.

Browns Cabins at Shandaken were inundated, one of them going down the creek and others moved off their foundations.

Buildings were moved off their foundations on the property of James Lyons, known as "The Island."

Casino Is Demolished

The large casino at Shandaken Manor was demolished by flood waters, and a nearby 14-room house "disintegrated" into the water, according to a report received at the sheriff's office. The house, known variously as the "old Griffin place" and the "old Buley place" was built in 1865 and had withstood many previous floods.

More bridges in this area were washed out, but the newly reconstructed bridge to the Allaben station was still standing this morning.

Shop 'Split in Two'

At The Portal, part of the tavern was torn off and spun around by the rushing water. The Waffle Shop there was "split in two," a report stated. Three other buildings were moved from their foundations.

The Herdman bridge is gone; the back road from Phoenicia station to the ski slope is washed out in places, and much property along the road is damaged.

The area of heavy damage virtually ended at Cold Brook, after damaging the Bert Winne garage property. The rushing water entered the Ashokan Reservoir, where it was absorbed without further apparent damage.

Elsewhere in the county, swollen waters of the Rondout Creek and the Hudson did damage along the brickyards, lumber yards and other establishments bordering these bodies of water.

High Water in City

Most of the damage in the city was caused by high water Saturday and Sunday. It flooded cellars in the Ferry steet and Strand area, washed away two porches at the Rondout Yacht Club, forced three barges of the Dwyer boat yard up on the dock and caused slight damage at the Hiltebrant, Island Dock and Reliance Marine yards.

Police reported an oil truck "stranded with driver" on Delaware avenue below North street in about two feet of water at 2 p. m. Saturday and a station wagon stalled in the same area early Sunday afternoon.

The tide, moving with high winds, was reported at its peak at about 9:30 p. m. Saturday. It shifted lumber piles in boat yards and caused flooded conditions, but none reported serious damage.

Lumber Scattered

Island Dock reported lumber scattered in the yard and a sawdust pit filled with water. The damage there was described as considerably less than that during a spring freshet two years ago. Lumber floated in the Dwyer and Hiltebrant yards, but none was reported lost. The Miron company also indicated that damage was negligible. The Reliance company reported that two motors got wet, but said there was no other damage.

Many cellars in the Strand and Ferry street areas were flooded, however. Pumping operations started soon after the high water menace began and three pumps were used in the Freeman building where rolls of newsprint were moved to keep them dry.

Yacht Club Damaged

The sun porch of the Rondout Yacht Club and one below it, were torn down by the high water which flooded the main building to a depth of two feet Saturday. The lower section floated about 100 feet away from the building. More than nine feet of water was reported in the Cornell building. An oil burner was removed from there and from the Home Seekers Savings and Loan building.

The Kingston Power Boat Association reported no serious damage, but members worked until nearly 3 a. m., Sunday roping down floats and securing craft. The boiler room there was flooded.

The Strand below Hasbrouck avenue was blocked off during the high water Saturday. Water was reported over the street again Sunday afternoon near the Cornell shops and on Delaware avenue between North street and Kingston Point.

Wires, Trees Down

Reports of wires and trees blown down began coming into police headquarters shortly before 4 p. m., Saturday following a few scattered reports during the morning.

A tree and wires were reported down on Second avenue and wires were reported down on Broadway below St. Mary's Church, Orchard street, McEntee street, Abeel near Broadway, and a section of Christmas decorations were reported down at Albany avenue and Broadway.

Wires were reported burning on Cedar street, Walnut street, West Chestnut street, Washington avenue and Warren street, McEntee and Broadway, Livingston street, and lights were reported out on Pine Grove avenue at 5:25 p. m., due to a blown transformer.

A blocked catch basin at Broadway and St. James street, caused a slight flood there at 8:32 p. m., Saturday and at 5:13 p. m., a tree was reported down near St. Mary's Church. It was thought at first that someone was pinned in a car there, but a later report indicated that no serious consequences resulted. A limb was reported down at Broadway and McEntee at 7:55 p. m.

Firemen received calls on several of the burning wires and referred them to the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. A call at 8:12 a. m., today was to 19 Dunn street where a slight fire damaged a shade and curtains. It was out on their arrival.

Reports Say

closed and transportation stalled as crews bored through snow drifts as deep as 23 feet in some places in clearing the highways.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche also urged motorists to stay off the streets and declared today a permissive legal holiday so that banks and other financial institutions could remain closed.

Cleveland Affected

The cost of industrial shutdowns in Cleveland alone was estimated at $10,000,000 a day. The snowfall there was more than 20 inches. Only a few buses are operating.

Nothing more than light snow flurries was predicted for today.

In Columbus, where the snowfall was only about 12 inches, 88 large factories announced shutdowns "for the duration," and all schools and most stores were closed. Snow drifts in some places were five feet deep.

In Cincinnati, Akron, Youngstown and Dayton nearly all the schools were closed. Many stores and plants also closed in Youngstown, and in Cincinnati the Fisher Body Company shut down.

Ohio University at Athens, Denison, Kent State and Capital Colleges suspended classes until Wednesday.

Light snow was reported today from the Great Lakes region to the Ohio Valley and the Appalachians. Temperatures generally hal moderated or were climbing over most of the nation. Some rain was reported in northern New England and along the west coast from northern California into Oregon and Washington.

Two Injured Slightly

Two persons were injured slightly in two traffic mishaps Saturday. The first at 1:03 p. m., was at St. James and Fair streets and Mrs. Violet Osterhoudt, 135 Pine street, operator of a car headed north on Fair street, suffered shock. She arrested the other driver, Robert W. Elliott, who was driving west on St. James street on a charge of passing a stop sign. The case was adjourned to Dec. 2 when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. In the other at 2:43 p. m., a sedan driven by Lawrence Cody, 581 Broadway, was headed west on Pine street, and one operated by Dorothy Williams, of Lawrenceville, was going east on St. James street, when they were in collision. Muriel Perra, of Albany avenue, who was in the Williams car, suffered shock and an eye injury, the police report said. Officer James Burns investigated both.

Can Argue Appeal

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to let an acknowledged leftwing British lawyer argue the appeal of 11 convicted Communist leaders. But the tribunal refused to give him more time to appear.

Checks Filipino Squawks

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (AP)—Sen. Macario Peralta, Jr., of the Philippines said today "after investigation, I have found the picture of the treatment of Filipino troops in Korea is not so bad as painted. The chief squawks are being cleared up," Peralta told interviewers. Peralty, 37, was a guerrilla in World War II.

Crop Losses Minor

Lakeland, Fla., Nov. 27 (AP)—Lucky winds broke the back of the severe cold wave which struck Florida during the week-end, and saved citrus and vegetable crops from possible disaster. There was some damage, but losses were minor when compared with what they might have been. Temperatures dropped as low as 17.

Even Ducks Lay Low

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—Fog thick as duck soup yesterday had even the wild ducks befogged. A patrolman in Islington found a wild duck in a shop doorway, waiting for better flying conditions. A cop on the Bayswater beat came across another duck running around in frustrated circles, afraid to take off.

Called for Emergency

Personnel from the entire Central Hudson System were called for emergency service at 2 a. m. Saturday morning, including employes of the commercial and accounting departments as well as all operation personnel. The accounting and commercial people stood guard over fallen lines, answered telephone calls and investigated damage so that the operating crews could be sent to clear lines.

During Saturday and Saturday night, the company concentrated its efforts first on cutting free all fallen electric lines which might cause injury to the public. It then worked to bring back service to disrupted areas.

Since operating crews were nearing exhaustion Saturday night, the company concentrated its efforts first on cutting free all fallen electric lines which might cause injury to the public. It then worked to bring back service to disrupted areas.

Since operating crews were nearing exhaustion Saturday night, forces were reduced to skeleton size during the dark of early Sunday morning so that crew members could get some sleep and thus retain effectiveness. All crews began work again at daybreak Sunday morning.

More Extensive Than '38

The Shandaken area—worst hit section of Ulster county—suffered damage which residents said was much more extensive than in the hurricane of 1938.

The fact that Saturday's storm occurred late in the year, after summer residents had returned to their homes, was considered a major factor in preventing loss of life or more serious injuries.

A chain of events started about 8 p. m. Saturday, when the dam broke on the Wurtsburger Pond above Pine Hill.

Water rushing down the Esopus took out the arch bridge on Route 28 at the foot of the Pine Hill mountain. It swept along, taking out the swimming pool at the Colonial Hotel, then dropped the rear end of the recreation hall of the Presbyterian Church into the creek.

The stone arch bridge at the upper end of Pine Hill was completely washed out, leaving a 40-foot gap. Water rushed down Main street in Pine Hill, flooding cellars and leaving many without heat. A water main burst, the sheriff's office reported, leaving some families without drinking water.

The stone arch bridge at the southeastern end of the village also washed away, and three other bridges were damaged so as to make them impassable.

The flood of water rushed into Funcrest Lake, breaking the 40-foot high dam at the end farthest from the highway.

With the breaking of this second dam, other bridges were taken out, including the bridge known as Garrison Bridge on the back road from Route 28 to Oliverea; the bridge near the Big Indian Methodist Church, and the Donahue Bridge.

Valley Is Isolated

The Big Indian-Oliverea valley was left isolated.

Browns Cabins at Shandaken were inundated, one of them going down the creek and others moved off their foundations.

Buildings were moved off their foundations on the property of James Lyons, known as "The Island."

Casino Is Demolished

The large casino at Shandaken Manor was demolished by flood waters, and a nearby 14-room house "disintegrated" into the water, according to a report received at the sheriff's office. The house, known variously as the "old Griffin place" and the "old Buley place" was built in 1865 and had withstood many previous floods.

More bridges in this area were washed out, but the newly reconstructed bridge to the Allaben station was still standing this morning.

Shop 'Split in Two'

At The Portal, part of the tavern was torn off and spun around by the rushing water. The Waffle Shop there was "split in two," a report stated. Three other buildings were moved from their foundations.

The Herdman bridge is gone; the back road from Phoenicia station to the ski slope is washed out in places, and much property along the road is damaged.

The area of heavy damage virtually ended at Cold Brook, after damaging the Bert Winne garage property. The rushing water entered the Ashokan Reservoir, where it was absorbed without further apparent damage.

Elsewhere in the county, swollen waters of the Rondout Creek and the Hudson did damage along the brickyards, lumber yards and other establishments bordering these bodies of water.

High Water in City

Most of the damage in the city was caused by high water Saturday and Sunday. It flooded cellars in the Ferry steet and Strand area, washed away two porches at the Rondout Yacht Club, forced three barges of the Dwyer boat yard up on the dock and caused slight damage at the Hiltebrant, Island Dock and Reliance Marine yards.

Police reported an oil truck "stranded with driver" on Delaware avenue below North street in about two feet of water at 2 p. m. Saturday and a station wagon stalled in the same area early Sunday afternoon.

The tide, moving with high winds, was reported at its peak at about 9:30 p. m. Saturday. It shifted lumber piles in boat yards and caused flooded conditions, but none reported serious damage.

Lumber Scattered

Island Dock reported lumber scattered in the yard and a sawdust pit filled with water. The damage there was described as considerably less than that during a spring freshet two years ago. Lumber floated in the Dwyer and Hiltebrant yards, but none was reported lost. The Miron company also indicated that damage was negligible. The Reliance company reported that two motors got wet, but said there was no other damage.

Many cellars in the Strand and Ferry street areas were flooded, however. Pumping operations started soon after the high water menace began and three pumps were used in the Freeman building where rolls of newsprint were moved to keep them dry.

Yacht Club Damaged

The sun porch of the Rondout Yacht Club and one below it, were torn down by the high water which flooded the main building to a depth of two feet Saturday. The lower section floated about 100 feet away from the building. More than nine feet of water was reported in the Cornell building. An oil burner was removed from there and from the Home Seekers Savings and Loan building.

The Kingston Power Boat Association reported no serious damage, but members worked until nearly 3 a. m., Sunday roping down floats and securing craft. The boiler room there was flooded.

The Strand below Hasbrouck avenue was blocked off during the high water Saturday. Water was reported over the street again Sunday afternoon near the Cornell shops and on Delaware avenue between North street and Kingston Point.

Wires, Trees Down

Reports of wires and trees blown down began coming into police headquarters shortly before 4 p. m., Saturday following a few scattered reports during the morning.

A tree and wires were reported down on Second avenue and wires were reported down on Broadway below St. Mary's Church, Orchard street, McEntee street, Abeel near Broadway, and a section of Christmas decorations were reported down at Albany avenue and Broadway.

Wires were reported burning on Cedar street, Walnut street, West Chestnut street, Washington avenue and Warren street, McEntee and Broadway, Livingston street, and lights were reported out on Pine Grove avenue at 5:25 p. m., due to a blown transformer.

A blocked catch basin at Broadway and St. James street, caused a slight flood there at 8:32 p. m., Saturday and at 5:13 p. m., a tree was reported down near St. Mary's Church. It was thought at first that someone was pinned in a car there, but a later report indicated that no serious consequences resulted. A limb was reported down at Broadway and McEntee at 7:55 p. m.

Firemen received calls on several of the burning wires and referred them to the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. A call at 8:12 a. m., today was to 19 Dunn street where a slight fire damaged a shade and curtains. It was out on their arrival.

Two Injured Slightly

Two persons were injured slightly in two traffic mishaps Saturday. The first at 1:03 p. m., was at St. James and Fair streets and Mrs. Violet Osterhoudt, 135 Pine street, operator of a car headed north on Fair street, suffered shock. She arrested the other driver, Robert W. Elliott, who was driving west on St. James street on a charge of passing a stop sign. The case was adjourned to Dec. 2 when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. In the other at 2:43 p. m., a sedan driven by Lawrence Cody, 581 Broadway, was headed west on Pine street, and one operated by Dorothy Williams, of Lawrenceville, was going east on St. James street, when they were in collision. Muriel Perra, of Albany avenue, who was in the Williams car, suffered shock and an eye injury, the police report said. Officer James Burns investigated both.

Can Argue Appeal

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to let an acknowledged leftwing British lawyer argue the appeal of 11 convicted Communist leaders. But the tribunal refused to give him more time to appear.

Reports Say

closed and transportation stalled as crews bored through snow drifts as deep as 23 feet in some places in clearing the highways.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche also urged motorists to stay off the streets and declared today a permissive legal holiday so that banks and other financial institutions could remain closed.

Cleveland Affected

The cost of industrial shutdowns in Cleveland alone was estimated at $10,000,000 a day. The snowfall there was more than 20 inches. Only a few buses are operating.

Nothing more than light snow flurries was predicted for today.

In Columbus, where the snowfall was only about 12 inches, 88 large factories announced shutdowns "for the duration," and all schools and most stores were closed. Snow drifts in some places were five feet deep.

In Cincinnati, Akron, Youngstown and Dayton nearly all the schools were closed. Many stores and plants also closed in Youngstown, and in Cincinnati the Fisher Body Company shut down.

Ohio University at Athens, Denison, Kent State and Capital Colleges suspended classes until Wednesday.

Light snow was reported today from the Great Lakes region to the Ohio Valley and the Appalachians. Temperatures generally hal moderated or were climbing over most of the nation. Some rain was reported in northern New England and along the west coast from northern California into Oregon and Washington.

Checks Filipino Squawks

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (AP)—Sen. Macario Peralta, Jr., of the Philippines said today "after investigation, I have found the picture of the treatment of Filipino troops in Korea is not so bad as painted. The chief squawks are being cleared up," Peralta told interviewers. Peralty, 37, was a guerrilla in World War II.

Crop Losses Minor

Lakeland, Fla., Nov. 27 (AP)—Lucky winds broke the back of the severe cold wave which struck Florida during the week-end, and saved citrus and vegetable crops from possible disaster. There was some damage, but losses were minor when compared with what they might have been. Temperatures dropped as low as 17.

Even Ducks Lay Low

London, Nov. 27 (AP)—Fog thick as duck soup yesterday had even the wild ducks befogged. A patrolman in Islington found a wild duck in a shop doorway, waiting for better flying conditions. A cop on the Bayswater beat came across another duck running around in frustrated circles, afraid to take off.
